WHISKY AND LEAD IN THE DEAL.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 6.—[Special.]—Wall street keeps in close touch with the half dozen Democratic Senators who control the tariff situation. Prospective legislation has been the cause of the recent turns in the market. It is said that in today's phenomenal rise and fall of sugar certificates there were many Washington victims, but it is not believed any friend or follower or dependant or relative of any Democratic member of the Finance committee was hurt today. The losers are not reticent in saying harsh things of the Voorhees committee. The people who suffered were the trailers who gave orders to buy sugar when it was 91, had them filled at 99, and then had their margins wiped out when it dropped back to 90. It is also said that there were some shorts who did not have the benefit of a private settlement, and who bought below 85 last week and had to settle at 100. This is simply the gossip of the Capitol.

There are, however, some solid facts about the speculations in sugar, whisky, and lead trust certificates which have been going on since the Wilson bill reached the Finance committee. While the business of the whole country is prostrated, awaiting action by the majority, which controls tariff legislation, speculation has been of the liveliest kind. THE TRIBUNE will endeavor to set forth just what the situation is in Washington.

Six Men in Control.

The Wilson bill for five weeks has been in control of six members of the Finance committee, who constitute the Democratic majority. Part of that time Mills of Texas acted for McPherson of New Jersey, who is sick, but later Senator McPherson resumed his place. Then Mills acted nominally for Vance of North Carolina, who is away in Florida on account of ill-health, but latterly Mills has not been meeting with the committee at all. Harris of Tennessee, who is aged, and infirm, and convivial, takes little part in the work of the committee. He is an ultra free trader, and all he wants is to smash everything that savors of protection. So far as the committee stands now it is made up of Chairman Voorhees and Messrs. Jones of Arkansas, McPherson, and Vest.

Since the majority on the Finance committee took hold of the Wilson bill not one authoritative statement has been made of the changes they were making. First one thing has been made a football for speculation, then another. Sugar has gone up and down, whisky up and down, and lead trust up and down, according to supposed information as to the purpose of the committee. The main speculation at the beginning was in whisky. Reports were permitted to leak out that the committee had agreed on an increase in the House rate so that whisky would be given $1.20 a gallon. Then the rate was brought down to $1.15. Meantime whisky trust certificates moved up.

Reports Touching Sugar.

All this time the hints were that there would be no attempt to impose a discriminating duty on refined sugars. These reports were received with much reserve by the people who understood the devious ways of Congressional speculation. Yet they were put forth so positively and came from Senators who must have known what was going on that it was hard to discredit them, especially when there was a possibility of no duty on sugar, and an apparent certainty of a rate not greater than three-fourths of a cent, which would leave a gap in the revenue. These trustworty reports were current for several days, and whisky kept moving up. Then gently, but surely, it began to slide downward, and when the Democratic caucus came to get a copy of the bill as prepared by the subcommittee the House rate on distilled spirits was found there unchanged. About this time the local papers announced that Mr. Nelson Morris of Chicago, who was in Washington on business relating to the American hog in France, gave a little dinner at Chamberlain's to Secretary Morton, Chairman Voorhees, and two or three other prominent people. That dinner must have been to discuss the American hog in France, for there was no effect on the market and whisky remained pretty well down on the list with little or no speculation in it.

When the Democratic caucus got Vest's tariff bill it was also found that lead ore and all lead products were free. To the knowing ones this explained why National Lead company certificates had also been gliding generally downward. The lead trust, having had the advantage of at least one member of the House Ways and Means committee, had managed to be pretty well taken care of there. In the House it had formed a combination with the smelters, and, while a duty of 15 per cent ad valorem was placed on lead ores, what are known as silver lead ores remained free to the distress of the silver States.

Grasped an Opportunity.

In the Senate, according to the story told, the lead trust saw a chance to gain a further advantage and to have its raw material made free. The silver Senators, who were trying to get silver-lead ores made dutiable along with pure lead ores, ran against a snag when they found what the trust was doing. Before they knew it lead ores were on the free list, and their plea for some protection for silver ore was met with the statement that lead ore being free it would be impossible to do anything for silver. It was a great time for the lead trust, but the silver people played a winning card. They represented to the committee that if this policy were to be followed everybody would be made happier if lead products were also taken from the dutiable list and made free. The committee was cornered—that is, the Democratic majority of it, which is always to be understood. Jones of Arkansas had been in favor of doing something for silver lead ores. So had Voorhees. Vest, while ostensibly sacrificing himself to a principle, was willing to be overruled and have the duty laid. But Mills was vehemently opposed to the duty on either silver or silver lead ores or on lead products. When the silver people showed their hand Mills played it out for them, and, with Vest apparently committed to the same side, Jones, the only remaining member of the subcommittee, was outvoted. In the full committee Voorhees, seeing the lay of the land, acquiesced, and the lead trust people, or somebody who is operating the market, getting the tip, the value of their certificates began to decrease.

Lead Trust Makes a Bargain.

Their officers came to Washington and employed all the agencies usual in such cases to secure the restoration of the old rates. Pathetic pleas were made for them in the Democratic caucus, but there was no progress. Finally they went to the silver Senators and offered a truce. With profuse explanations that they had never sought to keep silver lead ore off the dutiable list, its officers suggested that they all work together. The bargain was struck, the lead ore interests and the white lead interests pulled together, and pretty soon the assurance was given that lead ore, silver lead ore, and lead products would be made dutiable at practically the Wilson bill rates. As the Wilson bill gave silver lead ore nothing this meant 15 per cent ad valorem, which is the rate for lead ore. Lead trust certificates began moving up and the Wall street men, who operate on inside news from Washington, have kept them up.

Now as to sugar. The trust is in absolute control of the situation, speculatively and Congressionally. Last fall when the silver repeal bill was under discussion very mean things were said in some New York papers about Senator Vest's alleged sugar speculations. What connection there was between silver repeal and sugar is unknown. Within a fortnight Senator Chandler in the open Senate made an excessively sarcastic speech in which he hoped Vest would come out of his labors on the sugar schedule "without damage to himself, to the sugar interests, or to the country." Vest took no notice of this speech. The sugar interests have not been damaged, while his colleagues do not seem to think that the Missouri Senator has been hurt.

May Repudiate the Insinuation.

Some United States Senators will repudiate the use of their names in such connection. May be Senator Vest is going to do it at some future period, but for the present his failure to repel any of these insinuations naturally causes his name to be used very freely on Wall street. With Senator Vest's name is associated that of Joe Rickey of St. Louis. Everybody in Washington knows Joe Rickey, and Joe is a first-rate fellow. He is a promoter of legislation and a speculator and there is no secrecy about his business, nor is there any discredit attached to him personally. He enjoys the friendship of many men in Congress, but his chief title to fame, after all, is that a very popular drink bears his name. In these speculative times the names of Joe Rickey and Senator Vest would be associated together, though they might not see each other for weeks at a time. Advices from New York this afternoon were that a great deal was being said about Joe Rickey's alleged part in the sugar deal. The belief of THE TRIBUNE correspondent is that there is no basis for this gossip, but the reasons for this belief are not important just now. According to the reports around the Capitol a good deal was also being whispered concerning Chairman Voorhees' nephew, John Paul Jones. It is the belief of THE TRIBUNE correspondent that Mr. Jones is also innocent of any knowledge of the sugar deal or of any connection with it. Yet it is not hard to understand why his name should be used.

Mr. Jones' Business.

John Paul Jones is a Washington attorney, who is said to have made a great deal of money as the head of syndicates which rent buildings to the government and also as attorney for naval officers and other claimants who have secured favorable legislation in Congress. He is not a stranger to the Finance committee room, and is said to represent some glassware and carpet people.

Senator Brice's name is always mixed up in any Wall street speculation that has a Washington end. "The Brice following" is well known in the street. As to sugar his publicly expressed opinion has been that it was doubtful whether any discriminating duty in favor of refined sugars would be granted. However, Brice's chief value to the speculators seems to be his opinion that the Wilson bill may be defeated outright, and that no tariff legislation will be had on its lines. Last fall when things looked blue for the repeal of the Sherman law and Brice himself was put down as a compromiser he kept reiterating his belief that the law would be repealed, and the street is inclined to follow his judgment as to tariff legislation, because of his success as a prophet as to financial legislation.

The best information obtainable here is that when sugar certificates were in the neighborhood of eighty the deal was arranged to put them up. The secrecy and uncertainty of the majority of the Finance committee furnished abundant opportunity for manipulation. There was also the knowledge that the committee was leaning to the sugar trust's schedule.

Might a Tale Unfold.

If Senator Caffery or Senator White of Louisiana were to take the public into their confidence they might tell a story somewhat as follows: Ten days ago the sugar refiners, as represented in the trust, were willing to take one-eighth of a cent discrimination in favor of refined sugars. Last Friday, or it might have been Saturday, Caffery and White presented a schedule to the Finance committee which provided for a graduated tax up to one and five-tenths cents. They were met with the counter proposition from the committee for a graduated duty up to one cent and thirty-four one-hundredths. The committee could not understand, or professed it could not understand, why the Louisiana Senators would not accept its schedule, as the difference apparently was only sixteen one-hundredths, and it was known that the Louisiana folks did not expect to get the four and one-half cents which they demanded. Caffery analyzed the committee schedule and showed that it discriminated heavily in favor of the trust at the expense of the Louisiana planters. The subject is largely technical, and Senator Caffery would probably be too polite to say the Finance committee presented to him a schedule which not one of its own members could explain, and which must have been drawn up by an expert who was looking after the interests of the trust. Notwithstanding this inability to explain their schedule the Democratic Senators on the Finance committee gave it to the Louisiana Senators as their ultimatum.

Havemeyer and Searles Bob Up.

At this time Mr. H. O. Havemeyer and Brother Searles of the trust were in town. Brother Searles is said to be the only Republican member of the trust. He is its Treasurer and is a Sunday-school Superintendent down on Long Island, somewhere in the neighborhood of Boss McKane's Sunday-school. Brother Searles is credited with being slicker than Mr. Havemeyer in handling certain kinds of men. However, Mr. Havemeyer is a pretty good hand at it too. He staid in Washington over Sunday, and might be induced to tell a Senatorial committee who some of his callers were during that day. All that was known definitely was that the sugar trust had demanded one-fourth cent protection and had received the promise that it should be given. With this knowledge set afloat and confirmed by men who are shaping legislation in Washington it is not so difficult to understand why sugar should be sent kiting yesterday and today, and why the unhappy people who had gone short on it were glad to settle at the trust's terms.

What the next move will be no one pretends to say. There is little evidence to confirm the current gossip about the vulgar use of money to buy Congressional influence outright by the high-toned gentlemen who control the sugar trust. It may be urged that as speculation is an unavoidable incident of all tariff legislation the majority in the Finance committee is not blamable. This plea will hardly hold. It cannot escape the responsibility for its continued secrecy and for its frequent shifting.

Pertinent Contrast Drawn.

VALUABLE ON PAPER.

HORICON MARSH MORTGAGED FOR THRICE ITS WORTH.

Twenty-five Thousand Acres of Peat Bog and Slough Water to Be Sold to Satisfy Loans of Nearly $70,000—Skating Club Lessees Not Notified of the Sale—Mystery Surrounds the Transactions and Those Who Are Informed Refuse to Give Details.

The famous Horicon marsh, noted all over the Northwest for the countless thousands of ducks that breed there and for the big bags secured by the members of the Horicon and Diana Shooting clubs, which lease the marsh, is the subject of litigation that has mysterious and peculiar features.

The Horicon marsh is fifty-five miles northwest of Milwaukee and 140 miles from Chicago, on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad. The marsh covers an area of 25,-

MAP OF THE HORICON MARSH, MORTGAGED FOR $64,000.

000 acres. Its extreme length is fifteen miles and its greatest width east and west is six miles. The two principal streams which form Rock River make their junction midway of the marsh. The Village of Horicon lies at the foot of the marsh and the Villages of Waupun and Mayville are located on the west and east branches of the river near the marsh. Nearly every species of migratory water fowl in North America is to be found there in great abundance.

While the marsh is valuable for the purpose for which it is used—a preserve for ducks—it is absolutely worthless for anything else, and yet the 18,000 acres in the heart of the marsh have been mortgaged for $64,200, the accrued interest bringing the total up to more than $70,000.

It is reported that the Horicon marsh is to be sold at Juneau April 12. The report has it that a United States Marshal is to sell it under a decree granted in the United States Circuit Court in three suits against G. M. Culver, J. S. Ranney, the Lombard Investment company, J. Knowles, the Keene Five-Cent Savings Bank of Keene, N. H.; Morton Culver, W. H. Scanlan, Agnes M. Scanlan, W. A. Van Brunt, S. E. Davis, C. A. Hart, J. B. Hayes, and the Horicon Shooting club. The complainants in the three cases are L. C. Lane, John Knowles, and the Keene Savings Bank.

Marsh Mortgaged as Meadow Land.

Percy F. Stone, who is Secretary of both the shooting clubs, said yesterday: "It is singular that we have not been notified of the proposed sale, though we are directly interested. Again, the laws of Wisconsin require such a sale to be advertised for six weeks preceding and this has not been done. There are some queer wrinkles about this land. It is worth perhaps $30,000, and yet somebody has placed a balloon mortgage on it for $64,200—a slough water mortgaged for nearly $4 an acre. There is little land in the marsh; it is all water or bog. In the beginning of these queer proceedings W. H. Scanlan and J. S. Ranny bought the marsh to make hay on. They did not make a success of it and so were obliged to mortgage it to the Lombard Investment company for a small amount. The mortgage calls for 18,300 acres. Two or three more mortgages were placed for small amounts and the next thing we hear of it the property is mortgaged for $64,200 and the mortgages sold to the Keene Savings Bank of Keene, N. H., and John Knowles of Leeds, England. The property was offered to me in 1885 for $15,000.

"Now, somebody has been making a good thing out of that marsh. There are a great many things I do not understand about it. Some outside parties appear to be interested, but I do not know just how. A decree of sale was obtained last January, but these outsiders secured an injunction stopping the sale. These interested parties, whoever they may be, represent this marsh as fine meadow land and talk of draining it, when the fact is it would cost $100.000 to drain it, and then it would be worthless, for it is nothing but a peat bog. There is only one foot fall in eighteen miles and a drainage channel would have to be cut through four miles of rock.

"The two clubs, the Diana and the Horicon, took twenty-five year leases in 1884 and we kept the rent paid years in advance, and as the balloon mortgage was not placed until 1889 the property can only be sold subject to our leases. The fact is some men are using the marsh to speculate on and their doings would not bear too close scrunity. We shall protect our interests."

J. W. Hedenberg, a real estate dealer reported to be interested in the deal, said he knew all about the marsh but didn't have to tell.

SCENE ON THE HORICON MARSH.

POLICE HAVE A PULL.

SURPLUS JUSTICES MUST GO INSTEAD OF PATROLMEN.

By a Reduction of Expense in This Direction Mayor Hopkins Expects to Keep the Police Force to Its Present Quota—He Alleges That Some Justices Give Only Two or Three Hours a Day to City Business—Reorganization of the Entire Department.

Mayor Hopkins wants to save the heads of the 272 policemen who are scheduled for removal in the interest of retrenchment, and to do so swung his ax yesterday in another quarter. He asked for the resignation of every Police Justice, police court clerk and bailiff in the city, and today will probably demand the resignations of the matrons of the outlying stations and the resignations of all supernumerary officers of the police force. The Mayor says it would be demoralizing to the police force to cut off 272 men at this time. He thinks they can all be retained by practicing economy in quarters where economy is required and where it will serve and not injure. Another reform he has in view is taking the first-class patrolmen off the patrol wagons and sending them on the beats. Their places can be taken by the second-class men and new men, who can thus learn police duty. It is probable that the Police Justices will be cut down from twenty-three to ten, or at most twelve. The bailiffs and clerks will be reduced in like proportion.

Asks for Resignations.

The following is the letter addressed by the Mayor to the Justices:

Dear Sir: As I am contemplating a rearrangement of the various police courts, etc., it will be necessary to have the resignations of all magistrates, clerks, and bailiffs in the city police courts. In accordance with the above you will kindly forward your resignation to this office at once and oblige JOHN P. HOPKINS.

"I am determined to save to the police force the 272 men whom the Council, in passing the appropriation bill, agreed to drop," said the Mayor. "My idea in rearranging the police courts is to save money on that item of the appropriation bill to help toward making up the money necessary to keep them. I shall get the remainder of the money from some other item. I think we have more police courts than we need. I see no reason why Police Magistrates should be employed in courts where the trial of the whole docket does not take more than an hour or two. Yet the average time spent in the service of the city by some of these Police Magistrates is no greater. I think there should be a reduction in the number of these courts. It is probable the courts of the outlying districts will be abolished.

"I see no need of a clerk and an assistant clerk for each police court. Neither do I see the need of so many bailiffs."

"Have you any information that these officials have not been true to their trusts or have not been loyal to the city's interests?"

"That I prefer not to talk about now."

Proofs of Crookedness.

In conversation with a friend subsequently the Mayor said he had been furnished with proof that several of the police court clerks have been crooked. He has removed two for crookedness during the last month and others will have to go. As to the police matrons he said: "They are of no use at the outlying stations, where the average of arrests of women is one a week."

It is said the Mayor contemplates dropping two courts on the South Side, two on the West Side, and probably one of the two on the North Side. The Mayor, however, does not confirm this rumor. It is said, too, that there will be a shaking-up at the Harrison Street Station, but the Mayor does not confirm this.

The list of police court magistrates is as follows:

First District—G. P. Foster, Thomas Bradwell.
Second District—Max Eberhart, J. C. Dooley.
Third District—Daniel Scully, John M. Doyle.
Fourth District—O. F. Severson, Charles J. White.
Fifth District—George Kersten.
Sixth District—M. R. M. Wallace, E. F. Glennon.
Seventh District—M. J. Quinn, N. F. Robbins.
Eighth District—J. J. Hennessy.
Ninth District—P. Caldwell.
Tenth District—J. A. Mahoney.

The following are the Clerks and bailiffs asked to resign:

Harrison Street Station—Clerks, Dunn and Patterson; assistants, Hubbard, McCarthy; bailiffs, Vogle, Haffenberg.

Thirty-fifth Street Station—Bailiff, Sheehan; Clerks, Sennott and Fitzgerald.

Hyde Park Station—Clerks, Haggerty and Littledale; bailiffs, Haskins and Egan.

Lake (Eighth District) Station—Clerk, O'Neil; bailiff, Egan.

Lake (Ninth District) Station—Clerk, Ashton; bailiff, Duggan.

Maxwell Street Station—Clerks, Novak, McInerney; bailiff, Murphy.

Desplaines Street Station—Clerks, Banyon, Hickey; bailiff, Abrahams.

East Chicago Avenue Station—Clerk, Roelle; bailiff, Hughes.

Sheffield Avenue—Clerk, Shaffen; bailiff Behrens

Conference of Magistrates and Police.

"Before I decide on which ones not to reappoint I want a conference between the magistrates and the Superintendent of Police and his inspectors. I want a settlement of the trouble that seems to have existed for years between these two classes. I want the crooks either driven out of town or sent to jail."

"Will you make the changes at once?"

"Probably not for several weeks."

"Suppose the resignations are not forthcoming?"

"The man who refuses to send his in will be the first one to feel the force of the arrangement."

Prosecuting Attorney Asay, who is most interested in the outcome of this movement, thinks the number of police courts can profitably be decreased. He would like it if the number of courts were reduced to seven that he might have an assistant prosecutor at each court.

A number of Police Justices were seen and without exception said they will send in their resignations upon receipt of the Mayor's letter.

The Mayor has not yet decided what to do with the two Police Inspectors for whom the Council refused to appropriate. He would prefer to retire them on pensions, but may conclude to reduce them to the rank of Captain, whenever a vacancy may occur.

GREAT HAVOC WORKED BY WHIRLWIND

Twelve Immense Smokestacks Are Lifted into the Air.

PUEBLO, Colo., March 6. — [Special.] — Pueblo was the scene of a remarkable freak of the wind this evening. During a comparative calm a whirlwind of large size descended at the steel works of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company and tore from their foundations twelve iron smokestacks forty feet high and two feet in diameter, lifting some of them as high as thirty feet. The huge iron cylinders were scattered in all directions. The wind continued its course, working havoc in a space ten feet wide for 300 feet before its energy was spent. No one was hurt and no disturbance occurred elsewhere.

Withdraw from Navigation Company.

CINCINNATI, O., March 6.—The Inquirer will say tomorrow that it is now definitely known that the Illinois Central railway and the Mobile and Ohio railroad have withdrawn from the Southern Railway and Steamship Navigation company and that a formal announcement of the fact will be made at a meeting in New York March 13.

WONDERFUL ESCAPE OF PASSENGERS.

Death Close to Travelers on a Pennsylvania Railway Special.

COLUMBUS, O., March 6.—The Pennsylvania railroad special No. 20, which arrived at Columbus at 8:10 p. m. and left at 8:20, met with an accident at Reed avenue crossing, two miles east of the city. The following were badly injured:

BELL, C. C. H., brakeman.
COOPER, BERT, telegraph operator.
JENKINS, JAMES, fireman.
MCCORMICK, JOHN, fireman.
WILSON, M. L., car inspector.
WOODWARD, BERT, yardmaster.

This is the solid vestibuled limited, and carries passengers from Cincinnati, St. Louis, and the West to New York. It is generally well crowded with passengers. There is a target tower at Reed avenue, which is two stories high, and from which the interlocking switch apparatus is operated. The train had just passed the tower at a rate estimated to be about twenty miles an hour, when the last sleeper jumped the track and was thrown against the target, being practically smashed into kindling wood. The force and weight of the sleeper leaving the track pulled the other cars off.

A telegraph pole standing near the tower was broken off by the force of the sleeper when it jumped the track and one end of it ran through the sleeper. The greatest of excitement prevailed among the passengers, but none was seriously injured, although many of them have suffered cuts and bruises and severe shocks.

DIRECTORS FOR CHICAGO SYNDICATE.

Elected in St. Louis, Where Its Street Railways Are.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 6.—[Special.]—The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Union railroad company, Northern Central railway company, Citizens' railway company, Cass Avenue and Fair Grounds railway company was held today at the office of the Citizens' railway company. All the above roads are in a Chicago syndicate called the National railway company, and, although the elections of directors were made separately, each company has the same Board of Directors. The seven directors elected are D. G. Hamilton, C. L. Raymond, and George P. Smith of Chicago and Robert McCulloch, Smith P. Galt, C. N. Duffy, and Henry Crosman of St. Louis.

YIELDS LARGE PROFITS TO THE STATE.

Twenty Million Dollars' Worth of Property Involved in a Decision.

TACOMA, Wash., March 6.—Twenty million dollars is an estimated value placed by the Harbor Line Commission of this State on property affected by the decision of the United States Supreme Court in the case of Prosser against the Northern Pacific railroad which was handed down yesterday. In the case the railroad company had laid claim to a strip two hundred feet wide on each side of the roadbed. The Northern Pacific wharves, bunkers, and elevators coming within these lines, the State, through the Harbor Line Commission, looks forward to heavy rentals.

TO FORECLOSE A $4,000,000 MORTGAGE.

Purpose Is to Sell the American Water-Works Plant in Omaha.

OMAHA, Neb., March 6.—The Farmers' Loan and Trust company of New York filed a bill in the Federal Court today for the foreclosure of the $4,000,000 mortgage on the American water-works plant of this city. The plaintiff, as trustee for the Eastern bondholders, desires to sell the property or reorganize the company. The attorney of the water-works company made a motion to set aside the service of a summons on the ground that the Federal Court had no jurisdiction. Judge Dundy took the matter under advisement.

DENIES REPORTS ABOUT HIS HEALTH.

Robert Garrett Has Not Suffered a Stroke of Paralysis.

BALTIMORE, Md., March 6.—[Special.]—Rumors have been circulated the last two days that Robert Garrett had suffered a stroke of paralysis and was in an alarming condition. The reports were today denied at "Uplands," Mr. Garrett's country home, where he has been living this winter. While the ex-railroad President is not critically ill his condition is such that he requires a constant attendant. On pleasant days he is wheeled about the grounds surrounding the mansion, but little information can be obtained about him.

The Remaining Ten of Woodruff's Bondsmen Finally Settle His Shortage.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 6.—[Special.]—The sureties on ex-State Treasurer Woodruff's bonds held a meeting tonight and agreed to make a settlement with the State without further contest. Thirty bondsmen were present. Of that number twenty are hopelessly insolvent. The loss will fall on ten men, all residents of Little Rock. The sum agreed upon was $43,000, the amount of the recent judgment entered against the bondsmen. This swells the total amount paid to $106,000.

DEMANDS MONEY WITH A REVOLVER.

Scare Created in a Commission House by an Excited Attorney.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., March 6.—[Special.]—B. B. Clay, an attorney of this city, played sugar with the Minneapolis Commission company and made quite a winning. He also went against some other good things, got rattled, and wound up by declaring the house owed him $100. The house said his accounts were square, whereupon Clay got a gun and chased the manager into a vault, shouting for his money. Clay was disarmed before he could shoot.

LAST EDITION.

ROBBERS ARE FOILED

Attempt Again to Hold Up a Mobile and Ohio Train.

NEAR FOREST LAWN, ILL.

Three Masked Men Outwitted by a Plucky Messenger.

THEY TAKE TO THEIR HEELS

Close Descriptions in the Hands of the Officers.

FOURTH ENDEAVOR TO GET CASH.

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., March 6.—[Special.]—Train No. 5 on the Mobile and Ohio, Conductor William Eckles and Engineer Thomas Ryan, which left the Relay depot at 8:55 p. m., was again held up about three miles below the city tonight.

It is reported that two of the men jumped upon the engine and while one covered the engineer with a revolver the other looked after the fireman. They were told to step down and immediately complied with the request. The third man stood back near the express car, and when he noticed the engineer and fireman jump from the engine with his pals he yelled to the express man to open the door, and stated that unless his wish was complied with he would hit the door with a stick of dynamite.

The messenger was not so easily cowed. He told the robber that if he came into the car he would kill him. Then the robber left. It seems that the robbers were not prepared for a fight.

Officers Bowler, Fahy, Mansfield, and Wilkobraski started for the scene immediately. The robbers are described as follows:

No. 1 wore black check clothing, a slouch hat, was 5 feet 6 inches in height, and weighed 160 pounds.

No. 2 was 5 feet 10 inches in height and weighed 180 pounds.

No. 3 was medium-size and was dressed in a dark suit.

Got on at Pittsburg Crossing.

The three men jumped on the train from the side of the track when it stopped for a moment at Pittsburg Crossing. The train then ran slowly down the road to a point opposite Cahokia, near Forest Lawn, where the air brakes were put on and the train stopped. The men wore handkerchiefs about their faces, but otherwise were not particular about their disguise. After leaving the train they started back along the track, but whether they had a buggy or other vehicle in waiting cannot be learned, as a number of farmers had since passed along the road.

Two men were seen passing over the upper roadway of the bridge about 10 o'clock, but, of course, as that was before the police received any notice of the robbery, the men were not stopped.

The clerk of the Mobile and Ohio depot was spoken to by telephone at 11 o'clock, but never heard of the robbery. The message was the first instructions he had of any holdup. Why no report was made of the attempted robbery at the depot, so that the track of the robbers could be strut off, cannot be understood by the police, who were working on the case.

Sergt. Bowler took his men down through Forest Lawn and as far as the river below, but no trace of the robbers could be learned. They heard of two men who had passed up the road, but they had an hour and a half start and could easily reach the opposite side of the river.

Other Raids at the Same Point.

This makes the fourth boarding for robbery of the same train at the same point, Forest Lawn, within the last nine months. The robbers held up the train April 25 of last year and June 8 following they again boarded the train. The fellows waited for six months and Dec. 23, just two days before last Christmas, hopped on at the same crossing where the two boarded the train last night, and in a good fight succeeded in relieving the express car of a good sum.

The Southern Express company, which suffered heavily by the previous robberies, had become cautious, and since the last one has not made any heavy shipments on this train. Mr. Frazier, in charge of the Southern Express company's offices in St. Louis, said the agent on the express car of the robbed train was a new man named Franklin.

"The train which leaves St. Louis at 8:15 p. m. rarely ever, so far as I know, carries any great amount of valuables," he continued. "There are two through safes in the car, which are provided with combination locks, in which all valuables are kept. These safes are not under my charge and I know nothing of their contents."

President-General Manager Clark and Assistant General Manager Mann of the Mobile and Ohio road were at the Southern Hotel in St. Louis this evening when they were informed by messenger of the robbery. They immediately called a carriage and were driven to this place. From here they went direct to the scene of the robbery.

ON THE OUTLOOK FOR THE DALTONS.

Express and Railroad Officials Place Heavy Guards on the Trains.

SEDALIA, Mo., March 6.—The American Express and the Missouri, Kansas and Texas officials are much disturbed by news from the territory of the movements of the Dalton gang of outlaws. For several months these criminals have been fortified in the Sapulpe Mountain, forty miles west of Vinita. Friday night, it is learned, they broke camp all heavily armed and rode toward Vinita. Every indication pointed to a raid on the Missouri, Kansas and Texas road, and as a result the road's officials and those of the American Express company have put on extra guards, each supplied with shotguns.

TARIFF BILL READY.

BELIEF THAT THE SCHEDULES ARE AT LAST COMPLETED.

The Bill Now Being Printed and May Be Reported Thursday—Threats Made by Silver Advocates to Discuss the Seigniorage Measure Has the Effect of Hastening the Democrats—Hill's Strong Resolution Against the Income Tax—Sickles' Attack on Lochren.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 6.—[Special.]—Kicked from pillar to post, the Democratic tariff-tinkers quit tonight, actually looking happy. An unverified report is that Vest returned a civil answer to a civil question. The report is that the long delayed bill "may" be reported to the full Finance committee tomorrow. Today's events in the Senate must have shown him that it is better to take a headlong plunge with some chance of coming to the surface again than to be kicked off the bank and sink without a chance of paddling into shallow water. The majority on the Finance committee was attacked from within and without. The Republicans, as indicated by Senator Allison in his good-natured and ironical speech, have views of their own on the tariff and will not take the work of three or four poorly informed Democrats as perfection. The Bland seigniorage bill blocks the way of any immediate tariff discussion in the Senate and emphasizes the necessity of having the bill before the Finance committee, so that it can be going over the provisions in detail while the Senate is engaged in silver legislation. The determination of the Republicans to have the Democratic financial policy settled before there is further legislation creating fiscal deficiency makes it impossible for Chairman Voorhees to get the seigniorage bill referred to the Finance committee. This afternoon the Democrats on that committee recognized the situation by making a tacit agreement with the silver Senators that the seigniorage bill should be considered from now on with a view to passing it before the tariff bill is taken up.

Hill's Position.

As to Hill various opinions are heard. His resolution directing the Finance committee to frame a bill without the income tax and on strictly revenue lines was interpreted by some to mean that the "conservative" opposition was ready to fight the Wilson bill to the death. This inference is not warranted. Hill may in the end prove to be a bolter, but his present move is merely to enable him to work off a speech against the income tax which he has been preparing.

The Democratic members of the Finance committee admit their weariness of the labor of smashing the tariff, but it is only within a few days that they have begun to understand that their own tired feeling is nothing compared with the weariness of the country with them. The only wise thing they have done has been to change the date for the bill going into effect from June 1 to July 1. This seems to indicate a faint hope that they can get it through the Senate and through a conference committee in fourteen weeks.

Bill Sent to the Printer.

A circumstance which confirms the opinion that the subcommittee has completed its preliminary work is found in the fact that the tariff bill was sent to the printer a short time before the Democratic members of the committee left the Capitol for their homes this afternoon.

It is understood that the threat of the Republicans to unite upon the Bland seigniorage bill and if possible force its consideration in the Senate and provoke a long debate upon it has had the effect of hastening the action of the committee and possibly of bringing about an understanding.

The sugar duty advocates profess ignorance tonight of what, if anything, has been done in their behalf, and it appears probable that if the committee has really completed its work it has decided upon a schedule of prices and determined to submit it without further parley or without submission to those interested.

Not tomorrow, but Thursday is the time now fixed for reporting the bill. This is the report which comes late tonight from the wise men on the Finance committee.

HILL IS AGAINST THE INCOME TAX.

He Introduces Resolutions That Will Bother Democratic Tariff Reformers.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 6.—A somewhat amusing episode enlivened the Senate proceedings today, inaugurated by Senator Berry's personal explanation. A New York newspaper had included him in a group of portraits of nine Democratic Senators whom it charged with being "obstructionists" to the tariff bill. Mr. Berry denied that he had ever been anything but an earnest advocate of the bill. His explanation was followed by explanations from Senators Faulkner, Call, McLaurin, and Morgan, which led to much amusement in the Senate chamber.

Mr. Hill awakened interest by offering the following resolution and asking its reference to the Committee on Finance:

WHEREAS, The Secretary of the Treasury has announced a deficit of $78,000,000 for the current fiscal year.

WHEREAS, House bill No. 4,864, known as the Wilson bill, proposes to discard $76,000,000 revenue from present tariff taxation and to meet the double deficiency by new internal and direct taxation; therefore,

Resolved, That the Senate Finance committee frame amendments to the said bill, omitting the said internal and direct taxes newly proposed, and instead thereof make provision for sufficient revenue by tariffing other foreign imports and otherwise revising the tariff without creating a deficiency.

Mr. Harris (Dem., Tenn.) moved the second reading of the Bland seigniorage bill. In doing so he stated to the Senate, and especially to the Senator from Nevada (Mr. Stewart), that the latter was not a more earnest advocate of silver coinage than he. But he (Harris) believed there was one question which should take precedence over this, and without any breach of confidence he could state that the Finance committee was on the verge of reporting the tariff bill to the Senate. He therefore objected to further proceedings on the seigniorage bill, and under that objection it would have to go to the calendar.

Stewart Gives Notice.

Considerable discussion followed, in which Senators Allison, Hale, Manderson, and Stewart took part. The last-named gave notice that after the expiration of the morning hour at 2 o'clock he would move to take up the Bland bill and have it made the unfinished business before the Senate until a vote could be taken.

Mr. Allison of Iowa, referring to Mr. Berry's statement that he had not asked any member of the Finance committee to favor an increase of duty on any article, humorously said that he could vouch for the truth of Mr. Berry's statement, as far as he (Allison) was concerned. Mr. Berry had never asked him to favor an increase on any article. [Laughter.] Becoming more serious, Mr. Allison said: "Has it come to this in the history of tariff legislation that the Senate is obliged to take a bill as it comes from our coördinate branch without the dotting of an 'i' or the crossing of a 't'? The tariff bill is the most important which has engaged the attention of the two Houses of Congress in many years, for it not only affects the revenue but it affects every industry in the United States. The House of Representatives had this bill under consideration six months before it came to us, and has it come to this that because the Finance committee has had it for three weeks ["Five weeks," corrected a Republican Senator] we are to have it rushed through? Speaking as a Senator on this floor, I, for one, intend to have an opportunity to consider this bill in every paragraph and in every item. We may as well lay aside the idea that this important bill is to be railroaded through the Senate."

Some other routine business was transacted, and at 3:05 p. m. the Senate proceeded to the consideration of executive business and at 3:20 adjourned.

NO GREAT ZEAL FOR SEIGNIORAGE.

Attitude of the Republicans in Regard to the Bland Bill.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 6.—It develops that the concerted action of the Republican Senators in their effort to take up the Bland seigniorage bill at this time with the purpose of displacing the tariff bill is the result of a conference held by the Advisory committee of the Republican Senatorial caucus. While the Republican Senators both favorable to and adverse to silver express themselves as in favor of the movement there is no great zeal manifested on either hand. The silver Republican Senators are more or less divided as to the course to pursue with reference to the tariff. Several of them have said that while they would vote against the tariff bill they would do nothing to delay its consideration. The majority of them, however, would exert themselves to the utmost in the interest of silver. The Democratic members of the Finance committee are evidently puzzled and annoyed at the announced determination of the Republicans to try to take up the Bland bill, and concede that if Senator Stewart's motion should prevail it would delay the tariff bill indefinitely. They have not yet agreed upon a policy with reference to this movement.

OPTION HEARING TO CLOSE TODAY.

Mr. Orr to Make Objections for the Chicago Board of Trade.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 6.—[Special.]—Five hours will constitute the time allotted by Chairman Hatch for hearings in opposition to his anti-option measure, and in the remaining hour tomorrow Mr. Orr will present the case of the Chicago Board of Trade. At the session of the Committee on Agriculture today there were a number of sharp passages between Farmer Hatch and representatives of Eastern commercial bodies, the Chairman of the committee evidently not relishing the strictures against his pet measure.

"With tomorrow's hearing," said Mr. Hatch, "there will be an end of the matter so far as the opponents of the bill are concerned. Most of the opposition thus far encountered has come from proprietors of bucket-shops, but the legitimate trade bodies of the United States are favorable to my proposition. Undeterred by assaults upon it, however, I shall persist in getting the measure into the House, where a decided majority awaits it."

At the hearing today Mr. Hatch characterized the written statement of President Bloss of the New York Cotton Exchange as "an arraignment of the committee." He said that an objection to it would cause its exclusion, but he would raise no objection. Mr. Bloss' statement was very pointed in urging that the Hatch bill was pernicious and an unwarranted meddling with the individual liberty of citizens.

Chairman Hatch asked President Bloss: "Why do many Board of Trade men favor this bill?"

Mr. Bloss—With due respect to them I think they are moved by personal considerations.

Mr. Hatch—You hold that Board of Trade men opposed to the bill are entitled to consideration?

Mr. Bloss—That is my position, as such men actually represent the commercial organizations.

Mr. Hatch—Do you think the farming and agricultural interests are entitled to any consideration?

Mr. Bloss—I do not believe they have any adequate knowledge of the measure.

GEN. SICKLES ATTACKS LOCHREN.

Says His Interpretation of the Pension Laws Is Defective and Unjust.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 6.—The debate on the pension appropriation bill was continued today in the House, the feature of the day being Gen. Sickles' speech criticising the action of Commissioner Lochren. An agreement was reached whereby the debate on the bill will close at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Mr. Linton (Rep., Mich.) secured unanimous consent for the consideration of a resolution authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to transfer a certain piece of property in the City of Saginaw, Mich., to that city and it was passed.

Mr. Strait (Dem., S. C.) then rose to a question of privilege on the ground that his rights had been invaded by the Secretary of the Navy in appointing and charging to his district a naval cadet from another State. He asked the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That the appointment by the Secretary of the Navy of a naval cadet for the Fifth District of South Carolina from the Sixth Alabama district was without authority of law and is void.

The resolution was adopted.

Sickles' Earnest Speech.

The House then went into Committee of the Whole for the further consideration of the pension appropriation bill. Mr. Sickles (Dem., N. Y.) took the floor and had read an extract from Mr. Cleveland's letter of acceptance of the Presidential nomination saying that the debt due the defenders of the Union should be ungrudingly discharged. Upon that pledge to the soldiers the Democratic party stood and won the political victory. The pension system commanded the approval of all parties and all sections. Justice to the Union soldiers was the one thing upon which all were united. He was not able to agree with the Commissioner of Pensions either in his interpretation of the law or his manner of treating the legislation of Congress. The Commissioner had characterized the act of Dec. 23, 1893, in which Congress declared a pension to be a "vested right" as "inaccurate and inappropriate." That was not a decorous way of treating an act of Congress, and his superior officer should have returned it to him with the admonition to treat Congress with more respect. [Republican applause.] Besides, he continued, Commissioner Lochren was as defective in his law as in his manner. [Renewed Republican applause.] He had only to go to his law dictionary to find what was a right and what a vested right. A right was a well founded claim—a vested right a right to present enjoyment. The pension was a vested right conferred by law. Yet an army of 12,000 men had been deprived of that enjoyment by an official of the government.

Grosvenor Attacks Cleveland.

Mr. Grosvenor (Rep., O.) said the charge that there was wholesale fraud in the pension rolls was false and malicious. If the President had gone to Illinois and had selected the hero of Fort Henry, a Democrat of education and training before Mr. Cleveland knew the difference between Democracy and humbug, as Secretary of the Interior, no such trouble as confronted the Democracy would have occurred. There was more fraud in the Custom-House in New York in a single year than in all the pension cases that have ever come before the Pension Bureau; there were more illegal moonshine stills, ten to one, in the United States than dishonest soldiers on the pension roll.

Mr. Mahon (Rep., Pa.), who concluded the debate for the day, declared that he did not believe the Commissioner of Pensions (Mr. Lochren), who was a brave soldier, would have pursued his policy toward the veterans had he not been forced to do so at the dictation of the President.

MAKE CHARGES AGAINST CARNEGIE.

Alleged Armor-Plate Conspirators Say They Were Government Informers.

PITTSBURG, Pa., March 6.—[Special.]—Four of the men charged with being in the armor-plate conspiracy today explained their connection with the affair. Their names are F. B. Perry, Edward Sill, Dennis Riley, and T. E. James, until recently employés of the Carnegie Steel company. They say they furnished the government officials with the information that defective plates were shipped and the $35,000 supposed to be their part of the "divvy" was given them as a reward. They say the story about an alleged conspiracy of Carnegie employés was a fake. The men all worked in the Homestead mills, and say they observed that many of the plates did not come up to the government standard. In the hope of doing their country a service they informed the authorities at Washington. They blame the Carnegie officials and the steel inspectors sent to Homestead. Facts in the matter are difficult to obtain. The Carnegie executive officials still refuse to say anything and are waiting on Andrew Carnegie to do the talking. The attorneys supposed to have been given a big fee for conducting the legal end of the informing business are ex-Solicitor-General George A. Jenks and J. H. Smith of Pittsburg. Mr. Jenks, who lives at Brookville, was asked by telegraph today for a statement. He replied that he had nothing to say. One reason given for the refusal of the President to allow the matter to be made public months ago is that he did not want other nations to know the weakness of the navy. One of the men who informed the Naval Board of the bad plates says the latter were put in the new cruiser New York, the Massachusetts, the Indiana, Monterey, and Oregon.

Associated Press Extends Its System.

NEW YORK, March 6.—The Associated Press last night extended its leased wire system to Galveston and to the other principal cities of Texas. The entire Texas system embraces nearly 1,200 miles of wire. The list of papers embraced on the circuit is as follows: Galveston News, Houston Post, Dallas News, Fort Worth Gazette, Waco Day Globe, Austin Statesman, and San Antonio Express.

GNASHING OF TEETH.

LOSERS ON SUGAR ARE IN A BITTER FRAME OF MIND.

Many Washington Men Said to Have Been Victims of the Phenomenal Rise and Fall of Certificates—Much Railing at Senators Who Are Charged with Queer Doings in Framing the Tariff Bill—Secrecy as to Schedule Changes Secures Insiders Much Money.

ment enough on what has happened since the Wilson bill went to the Senate. One Saturday sugar dropped a couple of points because of incautious remarks of House members that they might cut down the duty on refined sugar. But the majority of the Ways and Means committee did not actually do so until that night, when they met at Secretary Carlisle's house and by formal vote fixed the rate on refined sugar at one-quarter cent. Chairman Wilson gave this information to the whole world before the stock market opened Monday morning. Again, when the majority of the Ways and Means committee were wrangling over the income tax, whisky was somewhat dependent on it. One night they had a meeting at the Treasury department and fought their differences of opinion to a finish. The income tax was agreed upon, whisky was increased to $1 a gallon, and the bonded period extended to eight years. Within half an hour after the committee adjourned this information was furnished to the public. Subsequently the House knocked out the extension of the bonded period, but Chairman Wilson and his associates were not responsible for that. While the Democratic members of the Senate Finance committee have been fully aware of the speculations in whisky, sugar, and lead, they have absolutely refused to give the slightest publicity to any of these objects of taxation, though at various times they have reached agreements on them.

It is not likely that there will be any investigation. The most that can be hoped for is that some of the Senators will feel called on to make personal explanations.

ENLARGE AMERICA'S WHEAT TRADE.

Reports of Consuls That Will Be of Interest to Grain Importers.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 6.—In reporting to the State Department upon the prospects of enlarging the American wheat trade the United States Consul at Hongkong, China, says that little can be done at that place, as the Chinese use the cheaper rice in preference to flour. He believes, however, that the opening to trade of new districts on the Yellow River and the reduction of duties at Canton will result in some increase.

The Consul at Liege, Belgium, suggests the formation of agencies in cities of over 100,000 inhabitants to push the trade. The Belgian millers all admit the superiority of American grain, and but for its higher price it would control the market. As it is, although no effort has been made, the trade has increased in the last five years at the rate of 10 per cent per annum.

The Consul at Matanzas, Cuba, reports that we now have the entire wheat and flour trade there, and any increase must come from increased consumption by the working classes, who at present use little flour. In three years the trade has increased 69 per cent.

The Consul at Christiania, Norway, thinks that much might be done to increase trade with that country could transportation thither be facilitated. Now American wheat is delivered at the pleasure of the railroads, is often two or three months on the road, and purchasers are driven to the use of German wheat.

CUSTOMS ACCOUNTS TO BE AUDITED.

New Departure Affecting Chicago Is Proposed by the Dockery Commission.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 6.—According to the report of the Dockery Commission accounts of the government, aggregating many millions of dollars, have not been audited, and if there has been no diversion of public moneys to private uses the fact is due wholly to the integrity of the Collectors of Customs at such places as Chicago, Cleveland, Buffalo, Galveston, El Paso, and other entry ports. At Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, New Orleans, and San Francisco the naval officer has carefully audited the customs receipts; but no provision has ever been made at Chicago and other customs ports outside the six designated. As a result of this omission, the Customs Collectors at Chicago and these other ports have forwarded their reports and collections to the Treasury Department, with copies of the papers in each account. The word of the Collector that $1,000 was collected on a particular import of goods had to be accepted without an examination which would disclose conclusively that $1,000 was the amount collected. The Dockery Commission now proposes in a bill presented today a change of the law by which the Commissioner of Customs will pass out of existence, and the First Auditor of the Treasury will hereafter audit all customs accounts. Chicago and other cities will hereafter be brought into the system by which each collection is audited and verified from the orignal papers.

CONGRESSMAN M'GANN PLEASED.

Alleged Discrimination Against Labor by Judge Jenkins to Be Investigated.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 6.—[Special.]—Representative McGann was pleased today over the adoption of a resolution to investigate the alleged discrimination against labor by Judge Jenkins, and assurance has been given by the Judiciary committee that the matter will be pressed vigorously. Chairman Culberson has appointed a subcommittee, consisting of Messrs. Boatner of Louisiana, Terry of Arkansas, and W. A. Stone of Pennsylvania to conduct the investigation, and they will meet tomorrow to map out a program. Meanwhile Mr. McGann is holding himself in readiness to appear before the committee when requested.

The resolution of investigation passed by the House today directs the committee to investigate and report "whether the Hon. J. G. Jenkins has exceeded his jurisdiction in granting writs of injunctions, abused the powers of process of said court or oppressively exercised the same, or has used his office as Judge to intimidate or restrain the employés of the Northern Pacific railroad company or the officers of the labor organization with which said employés or any of them were affiliated in the exercise of their rights and privileges under the laws of the United States, and if so what action should be taken by this House or by Congress."

BILL TO PREVENT TICKET SCALPING.

Senator Wilson Offers a Measure That Will Interest Railway People.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 6.—Senator Wilson of Iowa has introduced a bill to put an end to ticket scalping. It provides for an amendment to the inter-State commerce act so as to require railroads to supply all their ticket agents with a certificate of appointment, which is to be exposed to public view. All tickets sold must have the name of the agent and the date stamped on them. It is made unlawful for any one to sell tickets of a road from which he does not hold such certificate. The penalty is a fine of $5,000. Railroads are required to redeem unused tickets at the principal office or any ticket office for the price paid, and partly used tickets for the price paid less the schedule fare for the portion used, if presented within ninety days after purchase. The sale by any person of a partially used ticket otherwise than as indicated is made a violation of the act. Railroads which place tickets in the hands of an unauthorized agent are made liable to a fine of $5,000.

GROVER BACK AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

Indications Are That He Hugely Enjoyed His Southern Hunting Trip.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 6.—The President reached the White House at 1:45 this afternoon, looking as well and strong as at any time since he first came to Washington, nine years ago. His step was noticeably more elastic than when he went away. To some friends who called late this afternoon the President said he had never in his life had a more enjoyable hunting trip. Every moment of it had been a delight to him, and as for substantial results he asked his friends to look at his bronzed face and hands and then at the pile of swan, wild geese, and turkeys that he had brought back with him. After luncheon the President applied himself to work in his office, and later received calls from Secretaries Carlisle and Herbert. The hunting party killed 31 brant, 13 swan, 8 geese, 6 snipe, and 2 ducks. Nobody will disclose the tally of the individual shooting.

Burnham's Suggestions Not Accepted.

Feb. 8 Mr. D. H. Burnham, President of the American Institute of Architects, sent a memorial to the Secretary of the Treasury on the subject of competition for designs and the superintending of public buildings under the provisions of the Tarsney law. Secretary Carlisle today sent to Mr. Burnham a reply stating that it is not practicable to comply with the suggestions set forth in the memorial, and declining another conference unless Mr. Burnham is prepared to suggest such additional legislation as will accomplish the purposes desired.

Cannon and Wheeler.

Congressmen Black and Wheeler have gone to Illinois to mend fences for the ensuing campaign. The absence of the latter does not worry Mr. Cannon very much. "If the people want me," he remarked, "I suppose they will say so, but our Democratic friends might have done better than put Brother Wheeler and myself in the same district."

House Caucus Does Nothing.

The Democratic House caucus called for tonight to consider the advisability of strengthening the rules failed to secure a quorum and the fifty-eight Democrats present adjourned without reaching any conclusion. It was felt that the time for a strong rule was past now that the Bland bill was out of the way.

Washington Briefs.

A hearing was given by the House Committee on Judiciary today to a large delegation of clergymen of the Reformed Presbyterian Church, who advocated the resolution introduced by Representative Morse of Massachusetts for an amendment to the Constitution recognizing God and Jesus Christ. Many ladies and ministers of other churches were present.

SIR OLIVER TALKS TO UNEMPLOYED.

They Make a Demonstration at the Dominion Capital.

TORONTO, Ont., March 6.—[Special.]—Just before the Legislature met this afternoon to hear Provincial Treasurer Harcourt deliver his budget speech an immense gathering numbering upwards of 3,000 of the unemployed took place in front of the entrance to the parliament buildings. Two large flags were carried at the head of the procession as it approached the lifeless trees of the Queen's Park. Good order was preserved, and the large detachment of extra police placed at the entrance and throughout the great buildings had nothing to do but listen to the earnest and touching appeal made to Sir Oliver Mowat and his Cabinet Ministers by the speakers. After Isaac F. Mills, the leader, and several others had spoken, asking for work, Sir Oliver said: "I recognize you as my brothers and sympathize with you in your distress. Surely some means can be found to afford adequate relief. Toronto has the power to raise money, if it wishes, to encourage such public works as are suggested in the Georgian Bay Canal scheme and other enterprises. The proposal to issue scrip to pay the people for work is one for consideration by the Dominion Government." Three cheers were given the veteran Premier. Then addresses were made by a number of speakers who expressed themselves as not satisfied with the "vague and indefinite remarks of Sir Oliver" and advised the workingmen to devote themselves to organizations. When they had work they should form labor unions and stand together in all things.

WAR BEGUN ON THE JESUITS IN MEXICO.

Bishop De Oca Starts It by a Decree of Expulsion in Hidalgo.

HIDALGO, March 6.—The expulsion of the Jesuits from Mexico is causing much serious thought among those having the welfare of the republic at heart. The first blow has been struck at Jesuitism by the expulsion of the Jesuits in the college of this city by Bishop Montes de Oca and today they are all out of power in San Luis Potosi and have been ordered to leave at once. Bishop de Oca has as yet assigned no official reason for his action. Matters have been in an ominous state for many months. Many efforts have been made to bring peace again in the divided ranks of Catholicism, but have been unavailing. When the Bishop made announcement of his final decision of expulsion of the Jesuit fraternity every possible pressure was brought to bear and every known subterfuge employed to prevent the carrying out of the edict of banishment, but to no avail. It is freely predicted that it is the beginning of trouble, and that this is the first outbreak of a deep-seated and growing opposition to Jesuit domination which is felt in all parts of the republic. It is thought the action of Bishop Montes de Oca will be the sign for an uprising in many parts of the country against the Jesuits, and that if they are not expelled they will be shorn of a large part of their power.

THREE MINERS KILLED IN A GOLD MINE.

Rock Caves In at the Ophir Shaft—Other Accidents Reported.

BRUCE MINES, Ont., March 6.—Three miners were killed at the Ophir gold mine today by the rock caving in on them. The dead men were named Frank Percy, James O. Heath, and Anthony Savage.

SING SING, N. Y., March 6.—In coming down hill at Central avenue today a trolley car jumped the track and ran across the street, crashing into the sidewalk and an awning. Two passengers were seriously hurt. They were Miss Carrie Young and Mr. Bedell.

SCRANTON, Pa., March 6.—Four men of a gang of mine shaft sinkers were killed in the Richmond shaft. The accident was caused by the fall of a shelf of rock from the side of the shaft near the bottom and a consequent explosion of a blower of gas. The victims are: Thomas Holwill, married; Richard Hughes, single, 27 years; James Northen, single, 29 years; Albert Richards, single, 24 years. Five others of the shift made their escape.

FIRE RESULTS IN THREE FATALITIES.

Property Loss at Cullman, Ala., Is $100,000, with $30,000 Insurance.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 6.—[Special.]—The death list from the fire at Cullman last night has increased to three persons, and is now as follows:

DINKELBURG, G. O., struck by a flying beam; died today.

LEE, ——, infant daughter of the Rev. G. W. Lee, struck by a flying rafter; died today.

WILLIAMS, CLABE, killed last night by a falling wall.

It is thought this will end the list of fatalities. The child was sitting in a room a half block from the fire. When the Goodman & Gordon warehouse caught fire and the dynamite and gunpowder stored in it exploded it hurled rafters and beams in every direction. One of these rafters crashed through the window into the room where the little girl was and struck her on the head. The property loss is $100,000, with $30,000 insurance.

WOBURN, Mass., March 6.—G. & S. G. Place's tannery was destroyed by fire early this morning. Loss, $50,000.

BIG STIR IN SUGAR.

CERTIFICATES JUMP RAPIDLY TO PAR AT NEW YORK.

Great Excitement Follows Manipulation of the Stock—A Rise of $12 a Share Occurs in as Many Minutes, but Values Quickly Recede—Bears Become Panic-Stricken and Lose Heavily—Opinion Expressed That the Trust Will Lose by the Deal.

NEW YORK, March 6.—[Special.]—Sugar certificates, which Monday had risen $5 a share, left off at 89¾, after transactions in 120,000 shares, very nearly one-third of the entire issue. The stock opened this morning at 89 and under heavy sales fell to 88 in a few minutes. Small bear speculators and room traders, who counted upon a reaction after Monday's rise, were emboldened by what they regarded as a fulfillment of their prophecies that the stock had been marked up too high, and upon the apparent weakness they began to attack the securities. Their joy was shortlived, however. A few transactions and the stock became firm, then buoyant, rising to 90¾, then 93, and on and on until par value was touched. Persons who have never seen the Stock Exchange in a flurry or a panic can draw no mental picture of the scene which ensued. It is like nothing else on earth, or anywhere else, save possibly in the vivid depiction of an inferno with all the inhabitants let loose.

Two hundred screaming, perspiring, struggling, half-frantic, gesticulating brokers participated in the wild turbulence. Hats were smashed, clothing was rent, but none heeded such trifles. The reason for this was plain to those who realized the money value of each advance of a point—each advance which enhanced the value of the capital stock by $375,000.

After advancing from 88 to 92 the price began to jump in quarters. At 93 many stop orders were received, and at 93⅛ the pace was even more rapid. The record of the transactions as shown by the tape conveys no idea of what was done on the floor of the exchange. The record from 93⅛ to par was as follows: 200 at 93⅛, 300 at 93¾, 500 at 94, 200 at 95, 100 at 96, 200 at 97, 100 at 98, 100 at 98, 100 at 98⅛, 100 at 99, 100 at 99, 100 at 99⅛, and 440 at 100.

Prices Recede Rapidly.

At this point the buying ceased and the price receded even more quickly than it had advanced. The next sale was at 99⅛, then sales were made rapidly at 99, 98⅛, 98, 97⅛, 96, 95, 94⅛, 94, 93, and 92¼, without a sale at the intervening fractions, and before the decline ended the stock sold down to 91. It then rallied again to 96, but afterward fell off again, and during the afternoon there was a great deal of trading between 91 and 92, with gradually falling prices until 90⅛ was reached, at which the stock closed, a net advance of but ⅜ over the opening, although the stock had fluctuated through nearly 24 points.

A peculiar feature of the advance from above 93 to par rests in the fact that it was all accomplished in almost one minute. The preferred stock was not materially influenced by the phenomenal fluctuations in the common variety. Its highest, lowest, and closing prices were 92, 89, and 89¾. Commission brokers as well as traders had some remarkable experiences during the flurry. One of the shrewdest and most experienced brokers on the floor received an order to buy 1,000 shares of sugar. The first 200 he secured at 93, then 300 at 94, and 100 at 96, and for the remaining 400 he paid 99⅛, and it was all done in a minute.

Great Excitement Prevails.

The excitement was such that usually coolheaded men were swept off their feet. A rise of $12 a share in about as many minutes was something so unprecedented that the cry of a "corner" was raised on the floor, and the traders would scarcely have been surprised if the price had jumped to 150. The general opinion of experts was that "some one had blundered" and fired off a big gun prematurely. The jump and the fall were so rapid that only 15,000 shares in all were dealt in from 93 up to 100 and down again to 91. When the buyers began bidding for stock the bears became panic-stricken and their frantic bids rushed the quotation up to 100. Instantly the brokers with selling orders rushed into the fray and in a minute their offerings had depressed the price to 91. "Very badly managed" and "a bad slip on somebody's part" were the universal comments of professional operators upon the whole incident. That the brokers were surprised and then excited hardly needs to be told, and then when all was over, and it was learned that 169,000 shares of the stock had been dealt in, no one appeared competent to form any reliable idea as to what it all meant. But every one had something to say about the sugar trust magnates and their lobbying tactics, and it was the general belief that they were at the bottom of the flurry. Attention was called to the fact that some time ago the trust magnates had taken pains to inculcate the idea that they were not at all pleased with the outlook, and that they feared the tariff bill would not be to their interests.

Hurts the Trust.

Nobody could be found rash enough to declare that either the trust or its friends had suffered by the extraordinary fluctuations in its stock, but there were those who predicted that, far from helping the trust to secure the imposition of a duty on sugar, the move had driven home the last nail in the coffin of any such hope, for it would really have the effect of making hostile many of those Senators who might have been inclined to vote for such a proposition. One ingenious theory was to the effect that there are two speculative factions in Washington, and that the party with the most intimate knowledge of Wall street methods had squeezed the other, who had a short interest in the stock.

The bears were exceedingly disconsolate over the squeeze, and one trader said: "We have met our Waterloo today." The movement was summed up by a broker as follows: "Havemeyer in Washington; short interest in New York; h—— to pay in both places." On the other hand, it was stated that the Havemeyers were angry on hearing of the remarkable jump in the stock, as they were shrewd enough to see ahead and know that in the end it would do the trust no good.

RUNS AWAY WITH HIS OWN CHECK.

Broker's Strange Act Caused by the Flurry in Sugar.

NEW YORK, March 6.—[Special.]—H. Simmel, a member of the Consolidated Stock Exchange, created a flurry in Wall street by disappearing with a certified check for $300 which he had made and deposited at the office of the clearing-house. Mr. Simmel is a comparatively new member of the Exchange. Last night's closing of the market left Mr. Simmel indebted to the Consolidated Clearing-House in the sum of $300. For this amount he handed in early today a certified check on the Third National Bank. When the market opened this morning Mr. Simmel was surprised to find sugar climbing up 11 points within thirty minutes. He grew nervous and excited, as he had a number of outstanding loans in sugar which he knew he would be unable to meet. He returned to the office of the clearing-house, blandly requested the privilege of examining the check which he had deposited shortly before. The clerk in charge at once complied with his request. No sooner had the check been passed to him than Simmel darted from the building. The case was reported to Chairman Werner of the Clearing-House Committee of the Exchange, who at once took steps to apprehend the fugitive. A small quantity of sugar certificates were sold out under the rule to make good the $300, and it is understood that his indebtedness on account of loans will figure up in the neighborhood of $2,000.

MISS ANNIE S. BREWSTER TO MARRY.

Report from Rome That She Will Wed the Count de Frankenstein.

NEW YORK, March 6.—[Special.]—A dispatch from Rome says Miss Annie Seabury Brewster, second daughter of Mr. William Cullen Brewster, of the well-known New England family, President of the Plaza Bank and director of many of the leading banks in New York, is engaged to be married. The fiancé is Count Henri de Frankenstein, who is well-known in Rome as a good sportsman, and who has a record as an African traveler. He is a Russian Pole, was educated at the Dorpat University, and has been a diplomat, as was his father before him. His sister is married to Count Edward Soderini, one of the most brilliant personages in the entourage of the Pope. Mrs. Brewster, Miss Brewster, and Count Henri de Frankenstein sail Thursday for New York from Genoa.

M'KANE METHODS STILL PREVAIL.

The Convict's Followers Break Up a Reform Meeting in Gravesend.

NEW YORK, March 6.—[Special.]—John Y. McKane's methods still prevail in Gravesend. They led to a rough attempt to capture a reform movement meeting in Gravesend Beach this evening, called to elect delegates to a Citizens' League convention in Gravesend Village tomorrow night. Although the purpose of the plot failed through the action of this convention, yet it served to show to the leaders in the citizens' reform movement that the McKaneites will resort to any strategy to perpetuate their political supremacy. Reform Leagues have flourished in the different sections of Gravesend since last fall. Their object was a local government freed from "bossism" and its accessories that had long marked the township rule. The first of these leagues organized was in the Third District, Coney Island, of which Mr. Alfred Chambers, a druggist, was President. The last to be formed, but the first to know a conflict, was in the First district in Gravesend Beach. One hundred and seventy-five persons assembled in the hall, when, it is alleged, a mob of McKane's followers, headed by indicted officials, broke up the meeting. The mob broke in the doors and the people left the room in the hands of their assailants.

TRIES THE KINETOSCOPE ON SANDOW.

Edison Takes Forty-six Pictures of the Strong Man in One Second.

NEW YORK, March 6.—[Special.]—The latest development of Edison's genius in the line of photography, on which he has been working for the last five years, the kinetoscope, was practically completed a few days ago, and in casting about for a unique subject for the first photograph by the new process Edison chose Sandow. The main principle of the kinetoscope consists in the taking of a great number of impressions by a camera in a limited space of time, thus obtaining a continuous photograph of the entire motion of a person. The photographs follow each other in such rapid succession that no lapse of time can be detected between the impression recorded, and the series of pictures becomes in effect one picture. Forty-six pictures are taken in one second, and the exposure lasts twenty seconds, the length of time required to unroll the band. The opening in the camera is only three inches in width, and the pictures are an inch square, though the inventor says he will be able to take pictures of a larger size soon. The plates secured were declared perfect.

MISS VAN ETTEN KNOWN IN GOTHAM.

Young Woman Who Died in Paris First Secretary of Workingwomen's Society.

NEW YORK, March 6.—[Special.]—Ida Van Etten, the first Secretary of the Workingwomen's Society, who died of cardiac trouble, and not of starvation, as reported, in the Continental Hotel, Paris, Monday, was about 26 years old, and was a native of Chemung County, New York. Her first appearance was at a meeting of the anti-Poverty Society, where she attracted interest and attention. The Workingwomen's Society, of which she was chosen Secretary and soon became the controlling spirit, languished when R. F. Cutting ceased to provide funds for it. Last autumn Miss Van Etten, having failed to rally supporters by lectures on socialism, went to Europe to study economic problems and to write articles on the condition of emigrants about to start for America and her views of European socialism.

SEES THE BIG GUNS IN ACTION.

Firing from Some Modern Guns New to Gen. Miles.

NEW YORK, March 6.—[Special.]—Gen. Miles, the veteran Indian fighter, with his aid-de-camp, Capt. Maus, went to Sandy Hook today on the steamer Ordnance and was received with the salute due his rank. After inspecting the "gun lift" and mortar battery he and his aid proceeded to the proving grounds, where, under the command of Capt. Frank Heath, aided by Lieuts. Wheeler, Peck, and Harmon, Maj. Comly directed a series of firing from modern guns, which in his long service in the United States army Gen. Miles never saw before. Four hundred and fifty pounds of powder were used as a charge to expel the twelve-inch projectile, weighing 1,000 pounds, and send it out into the ocean. The party returned to New York late in the afternoon.

Morris Hayes Has a Project for a Big Exposition in New York.

NEW YORK, March 6.—Morris Hayes of this city comes forward with a plan for the celebration of the beginning of the twentieth century of the Christian era, to be held in the City of New York during the year 1900. His plan contemplates all the features of the World's Fair, and he believes if the right support be given him New York will have an exposition in 1900 which will far surpass anything of the kind that has yet been conceived.

GENERAL NEWS FROM NEW YORK.

George Francis Train Springs a Trunk Mystery on New York Police.

NEW YORK, March 6.—[Special.]—George Francis Train has sprung a trunk mystery on Supt. Byrnes. Train has written a characteristic letter to the Superintendent, full of interjections and bristling with crisp paragraphs, claiming that certain trunks of priceless value, crammed full of manuscript destined for a gnawing press, has been mysteriously abstracted from a storage warehouse, perhaps by Chicago detectives, in revenge for his efforts to secure new trials for the Anarchists. The trunks, Train claims, were stored with the Fifth Avenue Storage company. Manager Maxwell of the Storage company said that about three months ago a woman came to him and demanded some trunks which she said had been stored at his place by Citizen Train, but that she could produce no receipt, and until she did he could give her no information.

Suicide of a Tammany Leader.

Julius Cæsar Lulley committed suicide at his home, No. 34 West Twenty-fifth street, by shooting himself through the head with a revolver. No cause is assigned. Mr. Lulley had been assistant secretary to C. F. De Freece of the Democratic State committee. Last Saturday when Mr. Lulley signed the aqueduct pay-rolls he said to the clerks: "This is my last official account." Lulley was a member of the Tammany General committee of the Eleventh District. He was a thirty-three degree Mason and belonged to the Mystic Shrine, as well as half a dozen other lodges.

Trial of Two Police Captains.

Police Captain Frederick W. Martens of the East Thirty-fifth Street Station and Police Captain James K. Price of the West Thirty-seventh Street Station stood trial before the Board of Police Commissioners at headquarters today on charges made by Supt. Byrnes of failing to suppress disorderly houses in their districts. A decision in both cases will probably be rendered tomorrow.

HE COMMITTED DOUGHTETT MURDERS.

Awful Confession Made by Charles Morris in Columbus Prison.

COLUMBUS, O., March 6.—[Special.]—Charles Morris, a colored twelve year robber from Green County, who attempted to commit suicide today, confessed that in 1885 he killed Mr. and Mrs. Charles Doughtett, near Xenia, afterward burning their home to hide the murder. Morris was arrested at the time on suspicion, but was not convicted. Morris was afterwards sent to prison for robbery. He has been so haunted and worried over his crime that he had to confess it to gain relief to his tortured mind. Last night he made a third attempt to kill himself by beating his head against a bench. The doctors say none of his injuries are likely to prove fatal.

ALTGELD SNUBS GILL.

TIMES HIS RETURN TO HIS OFFICE SO AS TO AVOID A MEETING.

Then He Gives Out an Interview in Which He Says the Lieutenant-Governor Has Been Doing Only What a Secretary Usually Does—The Governor Denies Any Intention of Slighting Mr. Gill—Explains Why He Did Not Invite Him to Take the Chair.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 6.—[Special.]—Gov. and Mrs. Altgeld returned home from Hot Springs at noon today. Lieut.-Gov. and Mrs. Gill left for Murphysboro, their home, four hours later. The Governor and the Lieutenant-Governor did not meet. Gov. Altgeld left the State almost a month ago, and the fact that the Lieutenant-Governor became the acting Executive without the usual invitation has given his occupancy of the Gubernatorial chair unusual importance. It was well understood that Altgeld had purposely ignored Gill, and so when the former got home today an interesting meeting between the two Governors was anticipated. It was not the fault of Gill that it did not take place.

The Lieutenant-Governor was anxious for a meeting, and shortly after noon he walked over to the State-House and seated himself in the private executive office to await the coming of Gov. Altgeld. The minutes and hours slipped away, but the Governor failed to appear. The Lieutenant-Governor had arranged to leave town at 4 o'clock, and at 3:30, concluding that Gov. Altgeld did not care to see him, he walked out of the State-House and down to the depot. Less than fifteen minutes after Gill walked out Altgeld walked in. He went directly to his office. Soon after arriving at the State-House Gov. Altgeld gave out the following interview, having arranged the questions in advance:

"Governor, it is charged that you had snubbed the Lieutenant-Governor, Mr. Gill. How about that?"

"The idea is absurd. Mr. Gill has been treated with as much consideration as any Lieutenant-Governor since the organization of the State. I have, in fact, taken special pains to show him every courtesy."

"He claims that he had a grievance; that you had ignored him repeatedly by not calling him in to act as Governor on several occasions when you went out of the State."

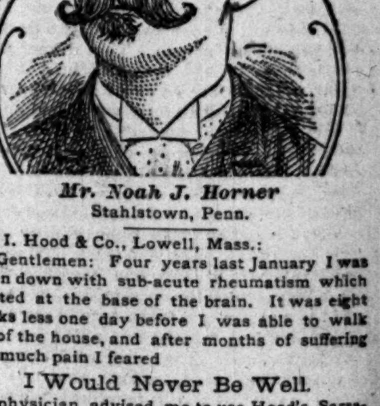

"O, he cannot have been reported correctly in this matter, for if there were any foundation for such a charge he would not be so foolish as to talk about it; but there is absolutely none. The Constitution provides that if the Governor goes out of the State the Lieutenant-Governor becomes Governor, and if he is not present then the President of the Senate can act, and if he, too, should be away then the Speaker of the House is authorized to act. Of course, these provisions are for emergencies. When the Governor goes out of the State intending to be gone a considerable time then it has been customary to notify the Lieutenant-Governor, in order that he could arrange to be present, but in all cases where the Governor expected to be gone only a short time and held himself in readiness to return at a moment's notice if necessary it has not been customary to notify the Lieutenant-Governor or anybody else, because, no matter how able a man the Lieutenant-Governor might be, inasmuch as he was not familiar with the run of the business, there would be absolutely nothing that he could do. Even if an emergency were to arise he could not acquaint himself with the facts in any case before the Governor would return. A year ago I went South, expecting to be gone three weeks or more, and Mr. Gill was promptly notified of the fact and came and took charge. I was out of the State a time or two after that, but only for a few days, and each case was so situated that I could get back in twenty-four hours if an emergency were to arise. When I went away this time I did not expect to be gone long and held myself in readiness to return at any moment if necessary, and I did not notify him for the reason that there was absolutely nothing that he could do here before I would return. During the three and a half weeks that he has been here he has done nothing except attend to a few unimportant matters that the secretary usually attends to. All of the work of the office growing out of the administration of the various State institutions stands just where it would have stood if he had not been here. This is no reflection upon his ability, but simply due to the fact that it requires time to become familiar with the details of affairs."

For a Canadian Atlantic Line.

VICTORIA, B. C., March 6.—An Ottawa dispatch to the Colonist says the government has entered into a ten years' contract with James Huddard, subject to the sanction of Parliament, for a line of Canadian Atlantic steamers capable of steaming twenty knots an hour to connect with the Australian steamship line at Vancouver by the Canadian Pacific railway, Quebec and Halifax to be the Atlantic terminals. It is expected the British Government will handsomely subsidize the service.

HOUNDS ON THE TRAIL.

STEPHEN GEER MURDERED AND SEVERAL FAMILIES ROBBED.

Supposed to Be the Work of One Gang at Jeffersonville, Ind. — Victims of the Burglars All Chloroformed and Geer Shot Down on His Own Doorstep—Family of Colored People Arrested on Suspicion and a Lynching Is Threatened—General Northwest News.

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., March 6.—[Special.]—Stephen Geer, a dairyman living in the suburbs, was murdered early this morning by an unknown assassin. The murderer is believed to be one of a gang that committed several burglaries during the night. The entire family of Frank Briggs was put under the influence of chloroform and the house ransacked. A large amount of money was taken by the burglars. It was several hours before the family could be revived. The home of William Quick was also visited and the family chloroformed. Next the burglars visited Frank Bayers' home. Here they chloroformed the entire family but secured no plunder.

Geer was awakened by the violent barking of a small dog which he has on his premises. On going to his back door to ascertain the cause of the barking he found the little animal crouching just outside as if greatly terrified. Picking it up he carried it into the house and returned to the door to further investigate. As he stepped outside a shot was fired and he fell in the doorway. His wife and daughter heard the shot and rushing to the door saw Geer lying in a pool of blood. Their screams brought the neighbors to the scene almost instantly, as several of them had been awakened by the shot. When they reached the house Mr. Geer was dead.

Officers were summoned at once and they began scouring for tracks or anything that would lead to the discovery of the murderer. A dispatch was sent to Seymour for the bloodhounds owned by W. A. Carter. Footprints were found back of the stable in the rear of the house, and these were taken up and followed for a quarter of a mile in a southeasterly direction towards the Ohio River. They were then lost and could not be recovered, as it began to rain.

The most intense excitement prevailed as soon as the news of the tragedy and the various burglaries spread, and soon a hundred people were gathered at the house. The Chief of Police was busy until noon doing everything possible to gain a clew to the assassin. At that time Mr. Carter arrived with the two bloodhounds, which were taken to the scene. They took up the trail readily and started off in the direction of the Ohio, following the footprints found by the officers early in the morning. After following them up as far as the officers did they kept on toward the southwest and at last came to a cottage occupied by an old colored man, Paul Jones, his wife, daughter, and son-in-law, Herman Stenson. They entered the cottage without hesitation, and after going around the house two or three times came out to the fence and seemed somewhat confused, and finally were forced to give it up. They were taken back to the scene of the crime twice, and each time without hesitation took up the trail and ended at the cottage. The inmates of the house were immediately taken in charge by the officers and subjected to close questioning. The evidence seemed sufficient to justify the officers in holding them until the case could be further investigated. The crowd that was gathered around was inclined to exaggerate the suspicious circumstance, and there was much talk of dealing summarily with them tonight.

ELECTRIC CONTRACT ANNULLED.

Minneapolis Wins Its Suit to Set Aside a Five-Year Contract.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., March 6.—[Special.] The city has won the suit brought to set aside the five-year contract with the electric companies for street lighting. This suit was to pave the way to municipal ownership. The suit was commenced by Joseph L. Kitesil, President of the City Council, against the city and the Brush company to procure the cancellation of the five-year contract that was made in August, 1892, between the city and the company for city lighting. It was heard before three Judges, Hicks, Smith, and Elliott, who this morning filed an opinion declaring the contract off and fully sustaining the position taken by the City Attorney. Judge Smith filed the decision, holding that the city had not the right to make the five-year contract for the reason that the charter prohibits it from incurring debts or liabilities that cannot be paid out of the funds actually levied for and applicable to such payment. The city's funds are levied to pay the current expenses of the next fiscal year only, and hence there would be no funds levied to meet the liability created by a contract extending over five years.

Judge Elliott handed down his decision this morning in the injunction suit of Anthony Kelly, Joel B. Bassett, and other North Siders against the City of Minneapolis to restrain it from levying assessments on their property by reason of the change of grade on Fifth street, North. The suit grew out of the lowering of the Great Northern and St. Louis tracks on Fourth avenue, North, and the consequent damage to the property adjacent to the tracks. The decision is adverse to the petitioners for an injunction. The Judge holds that the law providing for the assessment of property is constitutional and valid.

W. H. Dennis, the architect, was fined $25 this afternoon for violating a health ordinance. He was charged with coming out before he was far enough recovered from scarlet fever to avoid danger of contagion. The fine was remitted.

MILITARY RECEPTION AT AURORA.

Over Five Hundred Guests Present, but Gov. Altgeld Unable to Attend.

AURORA, Ill., March 6.—[Special.]—Over five hundred guests were present this evening at a reception given by Brig.-Gen. Andrew Welch and staff to Gov. Altgeld, Commander-in-Chief, and Brig.-Gen. Alfred Orendorff, Adjutant-General. Unfortunately Gov. Altgeld could not be present, owing, he stated in his letter of regrets, to his ill-health and the advice of his physician. Gen. Orendorff and several others of the Governor's staff attended, also the various brigade commanders with their staffs and a large number of line officers, some seventy in all, all of whom were in full-dress uniform. Many of the officers were accompanied by their wives. The reception was held in the handsome rooms of the Aurora City club, which was decorated. It was the largest and most brilliant society event Aurora has ever seen, and with the exception of one or two in Chicago is described as the most elaborate military reception held in the State. It was strictly a military party, politics cutting no figure in it whatever.

DEATHBED CONFESSION OF MURDER.

Michael Joyce Tells of Killing His Nephew in a Cistern.

WEST UNION, Ia., March 6.—[Special Correspondence.]—Four years ago James Joyce, residing in Allamakee County, disappeared, and no trace could be found of him or clew upon which to work. Yesterday his uncle, Michael Joyce, died at the old home. Before his death he called in his brother-in-law, John McDonald, and made a confession, which McDonald relates as follows: One day he induced James to go down into the cistern on the pretense that it needed cleaning. When the boy reached the bottom his uncle drew up the ladder. Procuring a shotgun he poured both barrels into his victim and then tumbled a lot of rocks on the body. After four days he returned with a horse, and, hitching a rope to the body, hauled it out and dragged it to a place on the farm where he had dug a hole, and then tumbled it in. When interrogated as to the whereabouts of his nephew he said he had gone South, and later reported he had been hung for horse stealing.

WAS HE AFTER IRON HALL FUNDS?

Mysterious Attack on Night Watchman Bruce in Indianapolis.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 6.—[Special.]—There is a mystery which baffles the police surrounding the shooting last night of Robert Bruce, night watchman at the Iron Hall building. Bruce says at midnight some one knocked at the door, and when he opened he was commanded by the robber to throw up his hands. He drew his revolver, but in the scuffle he was shot in the shoulder and the robber escaped. The police say a woman was seen running from the building after the shooting, followed by a man, for which Bruce offers no explanation. He believes some one thought the Iron Hall funds in Indianapolis, amounting to nearly $700,000, were kept in the safe in the building, and that it was an attempt to make a great haul. Bruce's wound is not serious.

THREATENING CRANK LOCKED UP.

Captured at Indianapolis When Starting to Blow Up the City Hall.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 6.—[Special.]—Mayor Denny had an exciting adventure with a crank today who threatened to blow up the court-house and all city officials unless the unemployed in the city were at once given remunerative employment. The man refused to give his name, but claimed to be a labor agitator recently from Chicago. He declared he had wrecked every train that had left Chicago in a week and had been made the sole beneficiary of Jay Gould for the purpose of alleviating the distress of the poor with the late railroad magnate's millions. He rushed from the Mayor's office to carry out his threats and was captured and placed in jail.

Contest for the County Seat.

EUREKA, Ill., March 6.—[Special.]—An interesting county seat contest has been inaugurated in Eureka. A petition to the Woodford County Court asking permission to vote on the removal of the county seat is being widely circulated. The county seat is now situated at Metamora. This location has been unsatisfactory to the people of Woodford County for a number of years. The town is inconveniently situated in the western part of the county and has only one railroad, with two trains a day. Eureka wants the county seat and offers special advantages. It is centrally located, with ten trains daily. Its population is about 1,800, more than twice that of Metamora. Roanoke, a small mining town on the Santa Fé railroad, is also in the contest, but offers a location no more desirable than does Metamora.

Funds for County Treasuries.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 6.—[Special.]—Attorney-General Smith got a decision from the Supreme Court today that the legislative act requiring school corporations and trustees to pay into their respective County Treasuries the unexpended balance at the end of each school year is constitutional. This will result in $100,000 or more being paid, every county in the State having held back the unexpended balance.

SAYS HE IS A THIEF.

ORLA C. GREGORY CONFESSES TO ROBBING A BANK.

Assistant Cashier of the Dexter, Mich., Savings Institution Steals $3,162, Butts His Head Against the Vault Door, and Says He Was Sandbagged—Sharp Detective Gets Him Into a Corner and He Owns Up—Arrest Follows—Last of an Indiana Gang of Thieves Arrested.

DEXTER, Mich., March 6.—[Special.]—A Dexter idol has fallen and a young man on whom every resident of the village would have staked his last cent that he had never done an unworthy action stands a confessed thief and is now in jail. He is Orla C. Gregory, assistant cashier of the Dexter Savings Bank. Last Thursday morning Cashier Newkirk found young Gregory lying upon the floor of the bank vault apparently unconscious. His head was bruised. This helped out his story that he had been sandbagged by two masked men after they had compelled him to open the vault at the point of a pair of revolvers. Coin and bills were found scattered all over the floor of the vault and $3,162 was missing, including a bag of gold and a bag of silver coin. Gregory appeared to be quite severely hurt, and recovered slowly. In the afternoon he appeared upon the streets and, being popular, was the hero of the hour.

The thing was a mystery so far as the supposed robbers were concerned, as not a soul had been seen to either leave or enter the bank that morning, nor had strangers been seen in the town in days. Then the robbers' knowledge of the hour of opening the bank, the fact that Gregory was alone early, and that the time lock released its hold at 7:30 o'clock seemed peculiar. But Gregory was not suspected by either bank officials or the people. The local officers were all at sea, although $750 offered for the capture of the crooks and the return of the money put them on their mettle. Last night the bank people sent to Detroit for Detective Baker of the municipal service. It seems he at once suspected Gregory. At noon he searched an unused room in the rear of the bank offices. Behind a box up against the rear of the vault was found the two bags containing $312 in gold and $638 in silver coin stolen from the vault.

Gregory had not been at the bank during the entire forenoon, as he said he was in pain from his sandbagging. He was requested to step over to the bank and did so at once, suspecting nothing. The trend of Baker's questions soon startled him, however, and when the detective produced the bags of coin and charged him with the job the boy went all to pieces and confessed. He said the remainder of the money, $2,209, was at home in a drawer. It was found there shortly after. Gregory broke down and cried like a child when he met his father. He said he did not know why he did it, as he had no urgent use for the money. He had thought of the scheme for some time. He was at once arrested and taken to jail.

A strange feature of the sensation is that the young man's father, J. V. N. Gregory, was yesterday elected Mayor of Dexter, defeating H. Wirt Newkirk, cashier of the bank, under whom the young man worked. Young Gregory himself was a candidate on the village Democratic ticket for Treasurer with his father, but was defeated. He has been Treasurer of the village for the last two years. Whether or not his accounts with the village are straight is as yet unknown. Gregory says to make his sandbagging story good he bucked his head repeatedly against the vault door until he nearly fainted with pain.

President Birkett of the bank, who is one of the wealthiest men in this section of Washtenaw County, says, while he is glad the money is recovered, on young Gregory's account he would rather personally have stood the entire loss than to have had it turn out as it has. "I am ready to believe anything possible about anybody," Mr. Birkett said.

Gregory's father-in-law, Charles H. Van Riper, is a director in the bank and a wealthy man, and the young man's prospects were better than perhaps any man of his years in town. He married a little more than a year ago, and has besides his young wife one child. His father, who also is rich, intended to build him a handsome home this year.

Gregory is 22 years of age and as far as known has no vices. His salary was fairly liberal, and both his own people and his wife's father had been generous to him. His wife is but 20 years of age, pretty, sensible, and a favorite in society. She is prostrated by the shock, and moaningly denies the truth of the story. It is not believed Gregory has ever played cards for money or speculated in any form.

FIGHT TO HOLD THEIR OFFICES.

Arguments Before the Supreme Court in Michigan Amendment Cases.

LANSING, Mich., March 6.—[Special.]—Arguments were made in the Supreme Court today in the quo warranto proceedings brought to determine the title of Secretary of State Jochim, Treasurer Hambitzer, and Land Commissioner Berry to their respective offices. They still hold possession in spite of the orders of removal made by Gov. Rich two weeks ago. By stipulation of counsel a test was made in the case of Secretary of State Jochim, the two other officials being bound to abide by the result.

The principal argument for the officials was made by Fred A. Baker of Detroit, who denied the power of the Governor to remove his clients for any neglect of duty in their capacity as canvassers. The historical facts leading up to the adoption of the amendment, the principal one being the defalcation of State Treasurer McKinney, and the language of the constitutional amendment of 1862 were cited in support of the contention that this amendment giving the Governor power to remove for gross neglect of duty referred only to neglect of officials in their executive capacity and did not apply to them as members of a board. Mr. Baker said the making of a canvass was in no sense either an administrative or executive act but a political act and as such was subject to review only by the Legislature. The constitutional provision under which the Governor proceeded was declared to be subordinate to the Federal Constitution which provided that no citizen should be deprived of life, liberty, and property without due process of law. He scouted the idea that the action of the Governor in making the charge, acting as juror, and pronouncing sentence could be properly called "due process of law," within the meaning of the Federal Constitution.

Mr. Baker was followed by Harrison Geer, chief counsel for Gov. Rich. Mr. Geer said if the Governor had power to remove such power could not be reviewed by the courts. He declared that the Executive had no pride of opinion in this matter, no desire to remove unless he had the undoubted right to do so, and no desire to bring shame upon any man unless that person had done something to bring it upon himself. The only questions involved were, he said, whether an omission to discharge a duty constituted gross neglect, and whether this provision of the State Constitution conflicted with the Federal Constitution. He declared the Governor preferred no charges, having simply cited the officials to answer to allegations of neglect which had been brought to his attention, and consequently could not be accused of having prejudged the case. The neglect of duty alleged consisted not in doing anything wrong, but not in performing the most important duty prescribed by law, and it was insisted that if this was not gross neglect of duty nothing could be conceived that was. Referring to Mr. Baker's contention that the accused officials could not be removed from their executive offices because of gross neglect of duty as a member of the board, Mr. Geer argued that any duty which the Constitution and laws provide should be done by the Secretary of State, for instance, was a duty directly pertaining to the office of Secretary of State, and that it made no difference whether it was to be done by the Secretary of State alone or by him together with other State officers.

Judge Cahill, of counsel for the Governor, argued briefly to the effect that the Secretary of State could not be removed as a canvasser by any power whatever, except as he was removed as Secretary of State, because so long as he held the latter office he would continue to be a canvasser. Authorities were cited to show that neglect to do an act which ought to have been done constituted misconduct and willful maladministration, although there was no corrupt or malicious motive.

Col. Atkinson of Detroit closed the case for the officials. He contended that the offense charged did not constitute gross neglect and showed the impossibility of the Secretary's giving all the duties put upon him by the Constitution personal attention. He denied the competency of the Governor to act as judge after having preferred the charges.

It is not thought the court will file an opinion in this case before April 1.

FAMOUS DESPERADOES CAPTURED.

Last of a Gang That Has Been Terrorizing Lebanon, Ind., Taken.

LEBANON, Ind., March 6.—[Special.]—When Homer Patterson, leader of the famous Patterson gang of horse-thieves and burglars, was captured and sent to prison about two years ago it was thought the gang had been broken up and for a year or more nothing was heard of them. About six months ago, however, they began a series of robberies and since then their depredations may be counted by the score. It was no unusual thing for them to enter three or four stores or residences in a single night. As a result the City Council doubled the police force and everything possible was done to capture them, but for many months they succeeded in avoiding arrest. A few days ago William Worts, an old partner of Patterson's, was captured and sent to Michigan City. After his arrest he gave the officers information which aided them in locating the gang's rendezvous and a few days ago it was surrounded by officers and four of its inmates, Elza Amburn, Elmer King, Jesse Arbogast, and Charles West, were captured. Only two escaped. Last week Jesse Jail was caught robbing the house of Charles Day. Nothing was heard of Elmer Fleming, the last member of the gang, until this morning, when he came into town driving a horse and buggy he had stolen at Colfax and which he offered for sale. He was at once recognized and after an exciting chase of four miles, during which several shots were fired, he was captured.

STRANGE ASSAULT ON A STUDENT.

Sandbagged While on His Way to an Oratorical Contest.

WEST UNION, Ia., March 6.—[Special Correspondence.]—At the oratorical contest at the Upper Iowa University, Fayette, D. A. Costigan, one of the contestants, failed to appear. About 11 o'clock his roommate was awakened, and opening the door discovered Costigan in a sorry plight. His clothes were torn and muddy, his face cut and bleeding. He says that about 7 o'clock, as he was passing an alley in town, his attention was arrested by hearing his named called. As he turned, he was struck on the head by a sandbag and became unconscious. He awoke in a field four miles from town. No effort was made to secure his watch or valuables and no cause can be assigned for the act. There is, however, one clew that may lead to the throwing of some light on the subject. A young man in Fayette is said to have bet a considerable sum that Costigan would not appear at the contest. The matter will be fully investigated.

STOCK DEALER KILLED AND ROBBED.

Found Dead in a Road in Ohio with $3,000 Taken from Him.

LIMA, O., March 6.—[Special.]—The dead body of Joseph M. Archer, a rich stock dealer, was found this morning in the road about a mile from his home, near North Baltimore, with a bullet hole in the back of the head. He had been shot by robbers, who took from him $3,000. Archer was on his way home from a trip to Buffalo, where he had sold a large lot of hogs. He had left the railroad and was walking along the highway when he was shot and instantly killed and his body robbed of the money.

Satolli to Adjudicate the Contest.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., March 6.—[Special.]—The local fight which has been on here in reference to the parochial school will be heard soon by Satolli. Mother Superior Stanislaus was removed two months ago under charges of unsisterly conduct in having meddled with the priests' affairs and having working for the removal of three priests. The school was abandoned. Father Nolan, the local priest, and prominent members of the parish have been cited to appear before Satolli to show cause why Mother Stanislaus should not be fully reinstated as mother superior and why the parochial school should not be recognized by the parish.

OTTUMWA, Ia., March 6.—[Special.]—E. Henberger, who was assaulted by burglars at West Point last Friday and beaten with a hammer, has since died. Two boys, Perry McDaniel and George Wolf, sons of prominent farmers near the place where the deed was committed, have been arrested charged with the crime. Their case was continued for a few days, and they have been lodged in jail.

BRING TWO SUITS ON A LIFE POLICY.

Test of a Law Which Under Certain Circumstances Presupposes Death.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., March 6.—[Special.]—An interesting suit was brought in Common Pleas Court today against the Penn Mutual Life Insurance company by Joel J. Bailey & Co. and Samuel G. Scott, surviving partner of the firm of Jacob Riegel & Co. The suits are brought to recover respectively $2,000 and $3,000, the amounts of two insurance policies on the life of James C. Patton, and involved in them is the point of law which presumes a man to be dead when he has been absent and unheard of for seven years or more. Both policies were taken out April 23, 1870, and were subsequently transferred to the firms by Patton for debts. Some time early in the seventies Patton disappeared, and all efforts to ascertain his whereabouts have been unsuccessful. The two firms having paid all premiums and complied with every requirement of the policies aver that Patton is presumed by the law to be dead, the policies thereby becoming payable. The suits are apparently amicable, and are probably the first cases involving this question ever brought in this Commonwealth.

Wrecked the Wrong Train.

GAINESVILLE, Tex., March 6.—[Special.]—An unsuccessful attempt was made to wreck express train No. 2 on the Santa Fé three miles north of Paul's Valley, I. T., early this morning. Two piles of ties 100 feet apart were placed upon the track, but before the regular south-bound passenger arrived a freight crashed into one of the obstructions. The engine, tender, and four cars went crashing down into a ravine forty feet deep. The crew jumped and escaped injury. A posse is on the track of the wreckers.

SLOW IS THE ADVANCE

BULLISH INFLUENCES IN WHEAT, BUT SUPPORT LACKS VIGOR.

Good Exports on Sales Previously Recorded—Another Day of Indifferent Export Buying—Foreign Markets All Show Stability—Moderate Milling Demand in the West, but Primary Receipts Large—Big Decrease in the Bradstreet Available—Good Shipping Demand for Corn.

The action of the wheat market yesterday clearly indicated that what is needed is more outside business. Influences favoring higher prices were not lacking, but there was insufficient breadth to the trade, and it was impossible to work up any advance of consequence and hold it. Local traders were rather nervous and hesitating, and there was no good outlet for the stuff on sale, so restricted was the character of the general buying. Operators who are bulls at heart want to see more of the big stocks of wheat going out. They waited all day yesterday and finally learned of a meager 16,000 bu fresh business at the seaboard. This and advices from the West and Northwest of favorable weather and rather liberal receipts from the country were the chief depressing factors. The cables were ¼@½d higher from Liverpool and fractional advances were scored at all the continental markets. New York reported good clearances and from all ports these aggregated about 400,000 bu wheat and flour. Shipments from Baltic, Indian, and other ports were 2,504,000 bu for the week, which, taken in conjunction with the American clearances, made 5,480,000 bu directed toward Western Europe, or perhaps 2,000,000 bu under estimated requirements. The boom in Wall street possibly had some effect. Lamson was the largest buyer, taking 2,000,000 bu, partly on New York orders, and at one time practically exhausting the offerings. Some of the professionals bought and Boyden and Parker were among the sellers. May sold up ⅛c to 60⅛c and closed ⅜c better for the day at 60⅛c, with July at 62c. A record of moderately cold weather in the North was followed by predicted mildness, hence no crop scare could be conjured. The Bradstreet showed the remarkable decrease in the world's visible of 4,783,000 bu, yet this had but temporary effect. The Northwest reported a beginning in seeding operations. Receipts at primary points were large at 420,000 bu and shipments were restricted to 70,000 bu. Cash wheat was quiet and practically steady. A few cars No. 3 red sold to go to store at 50@52½c, with the same old negative condition of the in-store market. The local stock of contract wheat increased about 30,000 bu during the week, approximating 18,700,000 bu. Free on board sales were at 53½@54⅜c for No. 3 red winter, 56c for No. 2 hard, and 54@62½c for No. 3 spring.

Corn was firmer within a narrow range. Speculative offerings were not burdensome. Smaller receipts are expected owing to the wet weather and bad roads, and on the other hand the shipping trade is good. Patten was credited with buying, but in the main trade was scattered among the professionals, the speculative market getting some help from the cash, which was ⅛@¼c higher. May closed ⅜c better at 37⅜@37¼c after selling at 37⅜c with July about 1c premium. Cables were ¼@½d higher, the seaboard firm and clearances moderate at 184,700 bu. Receipts locally were 558 cars with none inspected out. Receipts at all Western points 609,000 bu; shipments 413,000 bu. Store sales were at 35¼@35½c for No. 2 grades and 34@35c for No. 3. Billed through sold at 33@34½c for No. 3 and No. 3 yellow. Free on board sales were at 33½c for No. 4, 35¼c for No. 3 yellow, and 35@35½c for do white.

Oats futures were fairly active and strong. Good buying orders came in from the outside, and among the shorts who covered on the soft spots were Patten Bros. and Bartlett-Frazier. Offerings were moderate. Much of the strength was occasioned by an excellent demand for cash lots. Receipts also were 31 cars under the estimate, at 234 cars, and the expectations for today are light at 130 cars. Exports were 22,000 bu. The available decreased 426,000 bu. May ranged at 29⅞@30⅛c, and closed at 30⅛c, an advance of ⅛@⅜c. Under somewhat light offerings and a brisk demand samples advanced ¼@½c. Free on board sales were at 28½@30½c for No. 3, 31@31½c for do white, and 31⅜@32⅛c for No. 2 do.

Rye was exceedingly dull and steady. Demand and offerings were light. No. 2 in store was 45½c bid, and 46c asked, with sales by sample at 46¾@46½c. May was offered at 48½c, and 48c was bid. Barley ruled firm under continued light offerings, accompanied by a somewhat brisk demand. Fair to good sold 43@49c, and choice at 50@53c. Bran was easier, with sales at $13.00@13.25.

Provisions were moderately active within a wider range, prices seeking a lower level and closing near the bottom. Some of the packers sold the general list, Baldwin was again vigorous on the selling side, and outside trade was insufficient to more than check the decline. Hately was a prominent seller of lard, Swift and Boyden sold pork, the Packing company bought lard and sold ribs, and Lamson bought the last named. May pork closed 12½c lower at $11.42½, after selling at $11.65 down to $11.40. May lard closed 7½c lower at $6.85 asked, with July $6.80 and cash lots about $6.90. Ribs lost a nickel, resting at $5.95 for May, after selling at $5.92½. Hogs were in small supply and lower, and Liverpool cables dull to 6d lower. The shipping demand was fair. Cash sales included 367,500 lbs lard loose at $6.60@6.70 and 1,250 tcs at $6.87½@6.90; 25,000 lbs green hams at $8.75, and 100,000 lbs short ribs at $6.02½@6.07½.

In flaxseed business was almost at a standstill. A little of the cash stuff was offered, but met with a tame demand at former figures. No. 1 on track was nominally $1.36½. For May $1.37 was asked for small lots, with $1.36 bid. Receipts were 3 cars. There were no shipments. Timothy was firm and the fair offerings were taken readily. Common to really choice sold at $3.50@4.05. Prime was quotably $4.10@4.15 and March $4.25. Clover-seed ruled easy, influenced by declines outside. Spot offerings were meager, with fair sales of lots to arrive. Common to fair sold at $7.50@8.65. March was nominally $8.85, April $8.75, and October $7.80.

Trade Talk on 'Change.

The Bradstreet was as much of a surprise to the wheat trade as it was a disappointment a week ago, showing, as it did, a decrease in the world's visible of 4,783,000 bu. It fell flat after the first ten minutes, and at no time served to move the market more than the smallest fraction. It was severely criticised by the trade. The opinion was generally expressed that the figures sent a week earlier contained a big mistake; that they never should have shown at that time an increase of nearly 2,000,000 bu, and that the figures at hand yesterday instead of acknowledging the mistake simply ignored it and went as far in the opposite direction to make it "average up." According to it the stocks east of the Rockies last week show a decrease in wheat of 2,319,000 bu and in oats 426,000 bu. Corn increased 828,000 bu. Stocks of wheat on the Pacific coast decreased 491,000 bu. Stocks of wheat in and afloat for Europe decreased 1,473,000 bu. Australian stocks decreased 500,000 bu.

The gossip in the provision pit is that "Charlie" Wright is the last short in pork to come in, covering yesterday morning and taking profits. The crowd was inclined to believe that Clark-Catlin and Steever represented him. The decline in provisions the last fortnight is such as to suggest that probably most of the weak holders have been shaken out. Certainly some of the scalpers have turned to the bull side. The market is too narrow, however to satisfy the trade, and there is the old complaint of a lack of outside business. It requires little vigorous trading on either side to move prices rapidly.

It is not at all positive that wheat stocks at New York will show any material decrease this week in spite of the good clearances. It must be remembered that last week there was a decrease of nearly 1,200,000 bu. This is now clearing from day to day as indicated in the postings, and up to the present time there is little in the way of new business on export account, which ordinarily might be expected to come out of the stocks during the current week.

Speaking of oats Noble Jones said: "We have seen the biggest demand for cash lots today noted in a long time, causing an advance of ½c. New England cannot get enough to go around. At the beginning of winter the lower lake ports were credited with having 1,000,000 bu in store on which the East could draw. From careful inquiries made we learn that those ports now have not over 25,000 bu left. Chicago has about the only supply of any consequence on which to draw. The movement from the country is light. Fully one-half of the present receipts have been sold previously to arrive. Our advices from the country tend to show that receipts will be still smaller."

Charles Freeman, at one time President of the Milwaukee Produce Exchange, was on the floor. Speaking of the milling demand for wheat he expressed the opinion that a considerable quantity will be drawn from Chicago. Milwaukee millers are buying more or less wheat here now, partly old No. 1 Northern. They have not the wheat and cannot buy in the Northwest, as it is held at too high figures.

Corn was helped by the probability of a smaller movement from first hands on account of the rains. But if the roads should freeze up all this might be changed. What is needed to prevent further serious accumulation of stocks is a continuation of low freight rates to the seaboard. Yesterday's business on through-billed stuff was large and prices ⅛c higher. Only a few cars were sent to store.

St. Louis wired that 100,000 bu wheat were being loaded into barges, that there was a fair inquiry for cash wheat, and that no further increase in receipts is anticipated. As for this other telegrams reported country mills getting plenty of wheat from farmers.

The board's cable reported sales of La Plata wheat as follows: Sailship, January, 22s 3d per quarter of 480 lbs, equal to about 67c per bu; March and April, 22s 4½d; February and March, 22s 9¼d, and cargoes nearly due, 23s 10½d.

Logan & Co.'s Winona, Minn., correspondent advised them that wheat receipts along their line of railway showed an increase, and that the weather was so favorable farmers are beginning spring work in the fields.

The stocks of grain in private elevators at Chicago are reported at 3,067,000 bu wheat, 415,000 bu corn, 410,000 bu oats, 8,000 bu rye, and 253,000 bu barley.

According to the chart published by the weather bureau there is no snow this side of a line drawn east and west through the south half of South Dakota and Minnesota.

Puts on May wheat sold at 59⅜@59⅝c and calls at 60⅛@60⅜c. Puts and calls on May corn sold at 37⅛@37⅝c.

Estimated receipts for today: Wheat, 50 cars; corn, 260 cars; oats, 130 cars; and 25,000 hogs.

DAIRY AND OTHER PRODUCE.

Butter Loses Another Cent—Potatoes Firmer—Other Goods Steady.

The demand for butter was even tamer than it has been during the last few days. Stocks are accumulating all along the street, and customers are urging commission merchants to make sales. At a decline of 1c trade showed some sign of more life late in the day. Receipts of potatoes were light, with 13 cars reported on track. PRODUCE MARKETS EAST AND WEST.

Wheat Market Is Dull but Stronger—No Features in Coffee.

New York, March 6.—[Special.]—GRAIN—The wheat market today was dull but somewhat stronger. The first sales were at ¼c advance. Subsequently there was a further advance of ⅛c, but little feature was exhibited during the morning. Foreign market reports were, as a whole, quiet. The price of English wheat is the lowest price on record, and the demand as reported by public and private advices is small. The posting of Bradstreet's visible had but little influence. The amount of wheat east of the Rocky Mountains decreased 1,303,000 bu, and the total in America on both coasts decreased 2,811,000 bu. The amount afloat for Europe and in Europe decreased 1,472,000 bu and the Australian visible decreased 500,000 bu, making a total decrease in the world's supply of 3,783,000 bu, leaving the grand aggregate in round numbers 191,000,000 bu. The market advanced slowly, the last part of the advance late in the day, and closed at ¼@½c net advance for the day. Cash wheat was dull but firm. Sales included 20,000 bu No. 2 red at 2c under May in store, 8,000 bu ½c under May delivered for export, 12,000 bu 63½c f. o. b., afloat for export, and 6,000 bu Jersey red at 65c. There was really little feature in corn. The opening showed a little firmer feeling, prices working up slowly during the morning on a little covering of shorts and a little buying for outside account. It then became quiet, weakening a little at midday. Bradstreet's visible showed an increase of 828,000 bu. The late market was quiet, some of the early improvement being lost. The close, however, was steady at ⅛c advance. Cash corn was dull but firm. Sales include 60,000 bu No. 2 corn at 43½c elevator and 20,000 bu at 44½c delivered. There is very little interest developed in the market for oats. Trading from day to day is on an unimportant scale and while today there was a somewhat better feeling there was not much improvement in the market. Bradstreet's figures showed a decrease of 426,000 bu. The market late in the day was quiet, but closed fairly steady at ¼@⅜c net advance. Cash oats were steady, with a fair local trade. Sales included 36,000 bu No. 2 oats at 37@37¼c; 21,000 bu No. 2 white, 38c; 17,000 bu track white, 39@42c; car lots of track mixed, 38@39c; and a car of No. 3 white shipped at 38c. COFFEE—The market was dull and without the slightest feature, with quotations confined within narrow limits. The warehouse deliveries showed a small decrease and this tended in a small measure to check the ardor of the bulls. Prices at the close were within 5 points of yesterday's final figures. Hamburg closed dull at ½f decline. March, 81.75f; April, 81.25f; May, 80.25f; June, 78.75f; London advanced 3d for March and April to 75s 3d; May and June were unchanged at 74s. Final Havre cables showed a net decline of ¼f to ¾f on total sales of 8,000 bags. Today's sales:

COTTON—Opened 5 to 7 points higher than it closed yesterday, May selling at 7.52@7.53c at the call, against 7.46c last night, and immediately after the call sold at 7.54c. This was on better Liverpool news than was expected. Then came a decline to 7.47c for May on a reaction in Liverpool, the market there declining 2 or 3 points from the highest prices of the day on a heavy portward movement. Then came a rise to 7.55c on the cables reporting a better Manchester market, one cable reporting "Manchester better on better price for India exchange." Then came a falling off, the market closing with a net advance of 10 to 12 points. Houston received 2,100 bales today and Memphis 426, against 332 last week and 562 last year. Receipts at New Orleans tomorrow are estimated at 4,000 bales, against 467 last week and 2,858 last year. Today's sales 144,200:

There does not seem to be an immediate prospect of a change, although the tendency is upward.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 6.—WHEAT—The market opened firm and advancing this morning at 58⅝c May and 59⅝c July. Futures and spot wheat advanced from the opening ⅜c for May and ½c for July. Close—March, 59½c; May, 59c; July, 60¼c. On track—No. 1 hard, 62½c; No. 1 Northern, 60½c; No. 2 Northern, 59c. The advancing prices brought in new buyers, although most of the trading was local. Receipts of wheat were 265 cars for the twenty-four hours. Seventy-nine cars were shipped. Some of these shipments are still going to Duluth. The demand from millers was good for spot wheat and the premium was fairly maintained considering the large receipts of wheat in the last few days. Considerable was sold to arrive again today, which will tend to make the receipts larger during the remainder of the week and possibly during the fore part of next week. There are several reports of seeding being done in Southern Minnesota and South Dakota with the land on sandy ground in fair condition for it. The production of flour in Minneapolis for the week ending Saturday was 172,873 brls. The direct exports from here were 42,517 brls for the same week. This is about 7,000 brls more exported than the previous week and about 29,000 brls more manufactured. The late warm weather has increased the flow of water in the river and the water power is stronger. Some large mills were shut down yesterday, but they will be running again this week, and the output of flour promises to be as large as last. Patents were reported at $3.50@3.60 generally, although it was said some sales were lower, while considerable was held over $3.60. Bakers' were quoted at $1.75@2.10.

INCOMPETENTS CARE FOR THE INSANE.

Experience Is No Recommendation for a Place at the Dentention Hospital.

Under the present system experience is not a necessary qualification to secure an appointment as an attendant at the Cook County Detention Hospital. This is shown by the previous occupations of nearly all those now employed there as attendants. Out of thirteen persons William Donnelly and Bridget Dolan are the only professionals. Seven of the others previous to taking up this work were engaged in various callings, as follows:

Mary Mahaffey, stenographer.
Minnie Campbell, clerk.
Frank Wilfert, cigarmaker.
Mathew Hagens, office clerk, City Hall.
John Farnum, expressman.
Terrence Conway, common laborer.
Phillip Allendorfer, milkman.

Mrs. Annie Mack, Mrs. Hinman, Mrs. Jennie Neary, and Mrs. Van, are widows gone in there to earn a living. The latter three have charge of the children's ward. With the exception of one or two all these are newcomers to the institution, taken in to fill the places of those let out when a change of administration at the County Hospital took place. By the discharge of Julia Shine and Lizzie Scott room was made yesterday for two more, but Warden Munroe concluded not to wait for these vacancies to be filled by incompetent political favorites by members of the County Board. Upon his own responsibility he engaged two women from the training school and said, when questioned as to whether or not this meant a general revolution of matters in connection with the conduct of the hospital, that if permitted to exercise his own judgment much needed improvement would certainly be made in the system. Effort would always be made, he said, to secure the services of men and women specially fitted for the trying duty of handling and treating insane patients.

Most of the patients taken to the Detention Hospital are violent and require to be put in restraint the first thing. Many of them are so violent that in their ravings they often injure themselves. It was said that one man had been received not long ago who was so wild and vicious that it required the combined efforts of four big, strong policemen to hold him.

"Experts, or rather trained attendants," said an official of the hospital, "have a peculiar way of handling these unfortunates which seems to bring them into subjection and easy control. It is apparently a talent possessed by only a few and does not show itself in the makeup of those who have devoted their life to such callings as making cigars, peddling milk, driving express wagons, or writing shorthand. But so long as the attendants are selected for political reasons it will be a hard matter to make much improvement. Inasmuch as he is held responsible for their conduct the Warden should be permitted to employ his own attendants. Of course he has the power now to discharge employés, but at the same time he knows that to do so generally creates trouble and even makes enemies in the board. The attendants know this and for that reason many things are overlooked which otherwise might call for prompt dismissal."

As soon as they heard that the Commissioners had passed a resolution asking for their discharge, Julia Shine and Lizzie Scott handed in their resignations. They were promptly accepted.

BETTER PROTECTION FOR LIVE STOCK.

John G. Shortall of Humane Association Wants Roads to Co-operate.

John G. Shortall, President of the American Humane Association, has been at work among the traffic agents with the object of securing, if possible, better protection for live stock in transit. He recently addressed a circular letter to the railroads asking coöperation. A. P. Bigelow, General Western Traffic Agent of the Baltimore and Ohio, in answer to Mr. Shortall says:

You admit that it would be difficult for us to control or suppress this evil. You are quite right. We are absolutely helpless in the matter. Under the established methods of handling live stock we permit so many men to be transported free in charge of a certain number of cars. The shippers or owners of the stock invariably nominate the men that shall accompany their stock. They are sent to our chutes at the Stock-Yards with letters from the owners instructing us to permit the bearers to accompany their stock. We have no option in the matter and have positively no means of knowing whether or not the men are competent to properly attend to the stock in transit. We shall be very much pleased to coöperate with you for the suppression or regulation of this evil, but in the light of long experience in these matters I confess I see no way whereby the railroad companies can accomplish the result desired by your association.

Mr. Bigelow thinks the solution of the problem lies in the selection of competent men to accompany the stock in transit.

FIRST STEAMER OF SEASON IN PORT.

The R. C. Reid Makes the Trip Across from St. Joseph.

The first steamer to reach Chicago from across the lake this season was the R. C. Reid of the Graham & Morton line, which arrived here yesterday morning from St. Joseph. Capt. John Griffin reported that there was little ice in Lake Michigan and that he had no trouble whatever on that account in coming across. Semi-weekly trips will be made during March by the steamers Reid and Chicora and April 1 the usual daily service will be resumed. Reports to vessel-owners from various lake points all indicate that there will be an early opening of navigation. It is said there is less ice in the Straits of Mackinac than for many years and some vesselmen were confident yesterday that the straits would be open by April 1. Ports on Lake Huron are entirely free of ice.

EX-GOV. EVANS TO BE FITLY HONORED.

Denver Merchants to Present Him with an Address on His 80th Birthday.

DENVER, Colo., March 6.—Ex-Gov. John Evans, for whom Evanston, Ill., was named, will be 80 years old next Friday, and the members of the Chamber of Commerce and other citizens are preparing to celebrate the occasion in an appropriate manner. He will be presented with a complimentary address by the members of the Chamber, which will remind him of some of the good things he has accomplished for the city and State.

Work of the Humane Society.

The Illinois Humane Society, No. 560 Wabash avenue, during February investigated 272 complaints, rescued and remedied the condition of fifty-four children, surrendered twelve children to institutions by court on petitions, placed twenty-seven children in institutions temporarily, prosecuted one person for cruelty to children, prosecuted seven persons for cruelty to animals, laid up fourteen horses as unfit for service, removed seventeen disabled animals by ambulance, and imposed $157 in fines.

NEW YORK FEVERISH.

GOTHAM ENTHUSIASM REFLECTED IN THE LOCAL MARKET.

One Sale of West Chicago Stock Recorded at 145—Investment Buying of City Railway—Elevated Road Securities Were Inclined to Be a Little Weak—Another Advance in Sterling Quotations—Gold Shipment Point Now Reached—Big Bulge in Sugar.

Speculative markets were described yesterday as growing horns more rapidly than they grew claws. Local stock operators became enthusiastic over the 12 point rise in sugar and were active bidders for the cable securities. The bear element here is not inclined to be aggressive and West Chicago scored a high point at 145 without serious contest of the advance. The opening was at 143, but quotations were promptly put up to 144 on account trading in round lots. One sale on the second call was made a point higher. The close was at 144¼. But little of the West Side stock traded in yesterday was taken out of the market by investors. There were some buying orders, however, for blocks of City railway stock of from 1 to 15 shares around 325. Two 50-share lots of North Chicago were sold at 238¾ and 239. The elevated railroad stocks were quiet and inclined to sell down a little, although there was no new gossip regarding them. Alley "L" opened at 28¼ and closed at 27⅞; 900 shares of stock were transferred during the day. It is said that business men along Wabash avenue are more favorable to an extension of the South Side Rapid Transit road than are the property-owners. It ought not to be difficult, however, to bring owners and lessees into line on this point. Lake Street Elevated stock opened at 23⅛ and closed at 22⅞. A number of sales of the stock have recently been made seller 60, against deliveries of certificates May 1.

Diamond Match, even with favorable rumors as to earnings, was dull at 119 and a fraction better. There is really but little demand for Diamond Match and still less for Strawboard. There were no sales of the latter stock but bids were made for it at 21.

International Packing and Provision showed a little improvement at 17, while Chicago Packing and Provision sold at 46½.

Bonds were in fair demand and prices show slight improvement. Gas 5s were quoted at 82½, Alley "L" 5s at 77¾, and West Chicago Debenture 6s at 103¼.

The Executive committee of the Chicago Gas companies has declared the regular dividend of 1½ per cent cash. The date of payment and closing of books will be determined at a meeting of the directors of the individual companies to be held at Chicago probably this week. The dividend will be payable early next week.

The light volume of exports is being reflected in the high rates for sterling. An advance in posted rates was followed yesterday by an advance in actual rates. Quotations are now at the gold exporting point and obligations can be paid as readily by shipments of bullion as by purchases of bills. The margin at present rates represents about the cost of insurance. The German bankers do not insure and if exporters are allowed to draw against the shipment when made, gold can go at a profit. The rates yesterday were as follows:

	Sixties.	Demand.
Posted	488	489½
Actual	487½	488⅞
Documentary	486	487½

The New York stock market was active and irregular with attention chiefly centered in sugar, in which a sharp advance of 12 points was followed by a gradual decline to nearly the opening price. The short interest in this stock was considerable owing to the unfavorable sentiment in Washington, and some large traders have taken advantage of this speculative situation to drive out the short interest and make a turn in the stock.

There was nothing new regarding the value of sugar securities. It was reported that the Committee on Dividends met but did not act.

The advance in sugar stimulated the balance of the market. It reached its highest point about noon, from which figure it reacted, closing at about the opening. This was true of most of the active stocks, with perhaps the exception of St. Paul, which closed nearly a point lower.

Jamieson & Co.'s market letter contained the following:

"The sensational rise in the stock to par today was brought about by the manipulation of a strong pool composed largely of insiders. The shorts were run to cover and rumor had it that one line of 25,000 shares was privately settled at par. This relieved the pressure and sugar sold back to near 90 again. The industrial situation is improving somewhat, but the railroad situation is still bearish. Traffic is light and rates are an uncertain quantity. The strength of the general market today was due almost altogether to the buying of the shorts who became frightened by the pyrotechnic advance in sugar. Chicago Gas has a good many friends in spite of the attacks being made on it in Chicago, and as the short interest in it is large is liable to have a sharp rise."

Clearings at the principal cities of the United States yesterday and a week ago were:

SUGAR STOCK RUSHES UP TO PAR.

Excited Rally in Chicago Gas—Large Sales of St. Paul.

NEW YORK, March 6.—[Special.]—Sugar certificates were selling a week ago at 77. Today they sold at par. Sugar opened this morning at 89, dropped a point, and then took a rise of 12 points. As usually happens under such circumstances the wild movement in sugar certificates had no good influence on the general market. In the first hour, while this one stock was rushing from 88 to par and thence back to 91, prices of other stocks sold fractionally off. In the last hour came other declines. There were efforts at excited rallies in Western Union and Chicago Gas, which were, however, subsequently checked. Nevertheless the stock market generally showed considerable resisting power, and though the tendency to take profits everywhere was very strong after the sugar turmoil had subsided no great impression was made on prices. London houses were again sellers of St. Paul, putting out about 2,000 shares. Traders also sold the stock on a belief that the movement in sugar would have a bad effect on trading in the rest of the list, but the good buying which was noted yesterday continued and the stock was taken by inside interests. In the last hour W. B. Wheeler sold 6,000 St. Paul, causing the decline. The selling was accompanied by assertions that no dividend will be declared on the stock. These reports are ridiculed by all the interests concerned in the property, and they state positively, as they have for some days, that the full dividend will be declared. Chicago Gas advanced on covering by bears who feared that the squeeze of the shorts in sugar would be extended to that stock. The announcement that the executive committee had declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent induced some buying, but the insiders seemed to keep pressure on the stock and aided in bringing about the reaction. Brokers that have been steadily buying Burlington are said to have been acting for a new pool in that stock and to have started to squeeze the shorts after the movement in sugar culminated. The company is said to have more than earned the dividends paid during the year and for the last quarter. It was asserted by specialists in the stock that the outstanding interest in it exceeds 40,000 shares.

INSURANCE AFFAIRS.

COMPLETE INDEMNITY ALLEGED TO JUSTIFY INCREASED RATES.

Reasonable Profits Necessary for a Company to Promptly Meet Its Losses—Notwithstanding Increased Premiums, Capitalists Have Not Sought Investment in Insurance Stock—Poor Prospects for Columbian Policyholders—Other Insurance News.

Both in Chicago and outside the city there continues to be criticism of the recent raise in rates made by the Underwriters' Association. This criticism, however, does not come from persons informed as to the insurance situation. The big insurers on the contrary have expected that rates would go up, and are willing to accede to the demand because of the fact that they seek insurance as an indemnity. When the merchant places $100,000 of insurance on his building and stock, as does Marshall Field, he does it to secure himself against loss, and he expects the company or companies in which he insures to conduct their business at such a profit as will render his investment in them safe. The great noise seems to be made by the thoughtless. To be sound and trustworthy in its business affairs an insurance company, like any other organization, must have funds to carry out its obligations, and these can only come from a reasonable profit. Otherwise capital would not go into the insurance business, and it is noticeable that although in different sections of the country there have been raises in rates, capitalists have not turned their attention to that business. The profits are not such as to cause money to flow in insurance channels.

Slim Columbian Assets.

A policyholder in the Columbian Insurance company returned yesterday from Louisville, where he went to make an investigation of the affairs of the defunct concern. He was not only policyholder, but had suffered a fire loss which remains unadjusted. After spending two days in Louisville he learned that the company has $200,000 worth of government bonds in the bank and $23,000 in cash. These two amounts appear to be all the assets of the company. He reports the assignment as having been regularly conducted. Whether, however, in the final settlement there will be enough to pay losses and return unearned premiums, he could not say.

Adopt the Library Card System.

The underwriters have decided to adopt the library card system of rating. Every agent will have in his office a case containing a card for each building risk. On it will be given the rate and other information. At the board headquarters a clerk will be employed to make out new cards whenever a rate is changed, and these cards will be taken to each office. The cases will cost the members $2,500. The same system is employed in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, and Providence.

Insurance Notes.

Mr. C. H. Case of the Royal, who has been ill for a number of days, will return to his office this morning.

H. F. Atwood, Secretary of the Rochester German Insurance company, is making his annual visit to Chicago and the company's agency with A. Loeb & Son.

A committee of managers, consisting of M. A. Stone, Daniel C. Osmun, Charles P. P. Heywood, and C. E. Bliven, presented to the meeting of managers a memorial on the death of Edwin A. Simonds, which was adopted by a rising vote.

MAY BE A BOOMERANG

THIRTY-SECOND WARD SHAMEFULLY GERRYMANDERED.

Charge That It Was Done in the Interest of a Candidate at the Primaries—Indignant Citizens Will Walk Over a Mile to Vote—State Republicans to Meet and Hold a Love Feast—Serious Condition of the Grain Inspector's Finances—Local Political News.

There is bitter complaint at the way in which the Thirty-second Ward has been gerrymandered by the Republican City Central committee for primary purposes. The law provides that the primary districts shall be of nearly equal Republican voting population, of compact territory, and that the polling places be centrally located. Every one of these provisions of the law has been palpably violated, as will appear from the accompanying map and the following facts:

GERRYMANDER OF THE THIRTY-SECOND WARD.

The ward, which contains twenty-nine election precincts, is divided into eleven primary districts. Of these three consist of one polling precinct each and are each entitled to one delegate. On the other hand the third primary district contains four election precincts and elects four delegates at one polling place! Yet this is said to be a fair division according to the primary law. This district extends from Forty-second street on the north to Forty-fifth on the south and from Greenwood avenue on the east to Grand boulevard. The polling place is located towards the northwest corner of the district and not far from the residence of one of the candidates. The primary districts, east, south, and north of it have but one election precinct each and are entitled to one delegate each. In the First Primary District the voters are obliged to go from the lake shore west as far as Langley avenue, nearly a mile. In the case of the Fourth Primary District the voters living along Grand boulevard from Thirty-ninth street to Forty-sixth street have to go to the extreme west end of the ward—on State street, near Forty-second—to vote. In the Fifth Primary District the residents on Grand boulevard, between Forty-sixth and Fifty-fifth streets, have to go to State street, near Fiftieth, to vote. Some have to go a mile and a half. The polling places on State street are in the vicinity of saloons.

The delegates by primary districts are divided as follows:

	Delegates.		Delegates.
First District	3	Seventh District	1
Second District	3	Eighth District	1
Third District	4	Ninth District	2
Fourth District	3	Tenth District	3
Fifth District	2	Eleventh District	1
Sixth District	2

The division was made in this way in order, if possible, to prevent the renomination of Ald. Mann. It is likely to have the contrary effect. The people of the Thirty-second Ward are indignant at the gerrymander. It was submitted by the City Central committeeman, George W. Crawford, and indorsed by the Town committeeman and the County committeeman. The call has been issued and there can be no change in the boundaries. For the information of the voters the polling-places and the list of judges are appended:

First Primary District—Voting place, railway station, Fortieth street and Langley avenue. Judges, George Hesson, William Littlejohn, Kent Ford. Clerks, James P. Lott, Edward Williams.

Second Primary District—Polling place, No. 515 Forty-third street. Judges, Merwin Church, T. D. Farnsworth, J. V. Hapman. Clerks, H. A. Stowell, Sidney P. Johnson.

Third Primary District—Voting place, No. 4306 Cottage Grove avenue. Judges, George Wilson, Thomas F. Mitchell, A. Bowron. Clerks, H. D. Hollister, S. T. S. Doncyson.

Fourth Primary District—Polling place, Forty-second and State streets. Judges, E. T. Bridges, Louis Levy, A. M. Cobb. Clerks, William Lange, Lincoln M. Coy.

Fifth Primary District—Voting place, State street, near Fifty-first street. Judges, Hermann Phillips, Samuel Pullman, Harry Skeeles. Clerks, Thomas H. Berry, William K. Wood.

Sixth Primary District—Voting place, No. 463 Forty-seventh street. Judges, Henry Bonn, C. O. Brownmark, William Ritchie. Clerks, Charles Higbee, Miles Evans.

Seventh Primary District—Voting place, No. 4021 Cottage Grove avenue. Judges, E. C. Spinney, James Hood. Clerks, Charles Davidson, J. A. McDartney.

Eighth Primary District—Voting place, No. 40 Forty-third street. Judges, W. L. Church, E. H. Thorpe, James McDevitt. Clerks, Harry A. Black, Harry Mace.

Ninth Primary District—Voting place, carpenter shop near Madison Park Station, Illinois Central railroad. Judges, Barton Sewell, George L. Warner, N. Sherwood. Clerks, John McNeal, H. B. Bogue Jr.

Tenth Primary District—Voting place, Fifty-third street and Lake avenue. Judges, John E. Anderson, Charles A. Teal, W. I. Beman. Clerks, A. W. Thurston, A. T. Hinckley.

Eleventh Primary District—Voting place, Forty-seventh street and Lake avenue. Judges, Nilo B. Randall, Charles L. Hammond, James N. Steele. Clerk, A. M. Graves.

Town of Lake Republicans are enraged over the actions of Tim Hogan, a Twenty-ninth Ward saloonkeeper. The call for the town convention primaries was issued yesterday over Hogan's signature. The Twenty-ninth Ward, which is entitled to eighteen delegates, was given one polling place at Root and Wallace streets, a Democratic stronghold. The Thirtieth Ward, entitled to fifty-two delegates, was given one polling place at No. 4723 Halsted street, in a Democratic stronghold, while the Thirty-first Ward, with only thirty-two delegates, according to the call, has seven districts or polling places.

ILLINOIS REPUBLICANS TO MEET.

Will Hold a Business Session and Then Have a Love Feast at Springfield.

Today at high noon the Executive committee of the Republican State committee will meet at the Grand Pacific Hotel for the transaction of such business as may come before the organization. It will call a meeting of the entire State committee and incidentally pass on the advisability of contesting the validity of the Senatorial apportionment bill in the courts. The Executive committee is composed of J. B. Messick, East St. Louis; Lincoln Dubois, Springfield; W. C. S. Rhea, Marion; W. S. Frazier, Aurora; I. C. Edwards, Peoria; James Pease, Chicago; A. H. Jones, Robinson; A. P. Grout, Winchester; and Houston Singleton, Decatur. All the members, Mr. Frazier excepted, will, it is thought, be present. Mr. Frazier has been ill and may be detained at his home.

There is a disposition to call the State committee together in Springfield in about two weeks' time, when the time-honored love feast will be held. These events have usually occurred in Chicago, when they have attracted little attention and occasioned slight comment. The Republicans are confident of carrying the State this year, and one of the noteworthy fights will be in the Springer Congressional district. It is proposed to nominate James A. Connelly against Mr. Springer, and if this be done the chances favor Mr. Connelly's election. A rousing Republican meeting at the capital will have a tendency toward Connelly's success. Then a Springfield meeting will, it is thought, attract a great crowd of county committeemen and others from Central and Southern Illinois—men who would not come to Chicago. It is proposed to invite speakers of national renown to be present, and some gentlemen think the Hon. Thomas B. Reed could be prevailed on to come to Springfield on that occasion.

Opinions Differ on the Apportionment.

The matter of the apportionment contest is within the jurisdiction of the subcommittee. Some weeks ago it was referred to Chairman Clark, Secretary Jamieson, and Committeeman Fullerton, who were to examine the status of the case in conjunction with George Hunt, the ex-Attorney-General. This committee, it is said, is ready to report on the legal points involved and the opinion is expressed that the law is not within the provisions of the Constitution on the question. A good many Republicans are so confident of carrying the Legislature that they do not advocate a contest, saying they believe they can elect majorities of both branches of the Assembly without any trouble. If the subcommittee is of this opinion a contest will not be made by that organization. Others have investigated the matter and believe the law clearly unconstitutional. If the State committee does not take measures to test the validity of the bill there are others who will do so independent of any political organization.

The Cook County Democrats, in the main, are heartsick over the resolution adopted by the Central committee Monday, which virtually necessitates the nomination of a Senatorial candidate in State convention. They want a free-for-all fight, so they can get a large campaign fund from prospective Senatorial candidates. The rural committeemen are responsible for the adoption of the resolution. They came to Chicago and threatened the city men with a separate convention. Then a compromise was effected in the shape of a June convention and the old Palmer resolution.

Forman Did Not Fight.

Congressman Forman had a proxy and intended to go into the committee meeting and fight the Senatorial resolution. He soon discovered he was in the minority and did not use his proxy. The Democratic county conventions are coming on as soon as the official call for the State convention is printed giving them representation. Many of them will instruct in favor of Senatorial candidates, and numerous interesting rows will be the inevitable result.

The plan of action of the Republicans as respects a Senatorial nomination, or no nomination, as the case may be, will develop at the meeting of the entire State committee.

NEED A NEW GRAIN INSPECTOR.

Charges That Bunker Has Misappropriated Thousands of Dollars.

It is expected that Gov. Altgeld will make a change in the Chicago Grain Inspectorship. The members of the Board of Trade have long been dissatisfied with Mr. Bunker's manner of doing business. When P. Bird Price quitted the Grain Inspector's office there were $62,000 to the credit of the bureau in the city banks. Nearly all of this has disappeared. It is said there is not $5,000 of it left. It is charged that the pay-roll was stuffed and swollen and the surplus funds diminished almost to the vanishing point. It is known that men who know nothing about grain inspection have been carried on the pay-roll. Among these is an ex-member of the General Assembly who never did an hour's work for the pay which he received. Another is a Police Court attorney who during the time he was on the pay-roll attended to $5 cases in the Armory Court. These facts were presented to the Railroad Commissioner, to John W. Lanehart, and to other friends of Gov. Altgeld a month ago. They have been investigating, and it is believed they have recommended the removal of Bunker.

BOOMING LOEFFLER FOR OFFICE.

Democratic Committee Adopts Resolutions Unintelligible to Mr. McDonald.

The Democratic County committee met last evening apparently to boom Ald. Loeffler for West Town Assessor, for in the absence of Chairman McGillen Loeffler was called to the chair. He made a speech urging organization, and succeeded in getting Bob Burke to offer the following resolution, which was adopted unanimously, though M. C. McDonald said he did not quite comprehend it:

WHEREAS, For the first time in thirty years the national, State, the greater part of the county, and the entire city governments are under the control and direction of the Democratic party; therefore, be it

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed, with power to add to their number, for the purpose of organizing the party as represented in the different branches of the government.

Loeffler did not announce the committee. He will probably confer with Mayor Hopkins before he does so.

It came out during the discussion that the calls for the Aldermanic and town primaries had not yet been published. "How, then, can they be held under the Crawford law?" asked McDonald. There was a titter at this, and Ald. Coughlin suggested that the free-for-all plan would do. A resolution was then passed instructing that the call be published Saturday.

MEN WHO WILL RUN FOR OFFICE.

Many Candidates Cropping Up on Both Sides—The Election Judges.

The Republican County Executive committee met yesterday and decided to push the cases against the parties accused of ballot box frauds and fraudulent naturalization at the last election. It was announced that the cases pending in the Federal Courts against Tilghman and his confederates for fraudulent naturalization would be reached next week. It was also resolved to make a thorough investigation of the list of judges and clerks recently appointed by the Election Board and confirmed by the County Court. It is well understood that this list is not favorable to the Republicans and that in some of the wards the judges and clerks were selected with an eye single to their use at the primaries and on the registration days next October.

As the dates of the primaries approach the candidates for Aldermen and town officers are beginning to hustle. "Bill" Skakel having obtained the indorsement of the Carter Harrison Democrats in the First Ward is going to run as an independent against Ald. Coughlin, who will be the Democratic nominee. The Republicans can elect an Alderman from this ward if they name the right man. J. Irving Pearce and E. R. Brainerd are mentioned. Either could win.

It looks as if the east end Republicans of the Second Ward do not care to make a fight for Mr. Purington at the primaries. In that event Dan Horan will be the Republican nominee again, and the Democrats will give him a close run if they nominate C. F. Guenther or Leopold Moss. An attempt has been made to bring out a candidate for the Republican nomination against Ald. Hepburn in the Fourth Ward. But thus far it has not succeeded. John Kralovec, a leading Bohemian, is being urged to run as the Republican candidate in the Ninth Ward. The Democrats are likely to have three candidates here—Rohde, regular, Cullerton, and one Sabath.

Conrad Kahler is meeting with encouraging support in the Twelfth Ward. Ex-Ald. Sam Kerr, who was mentioned as a candidate, has retired in favor of Mr. Kahler, and will preside over a mass-meeting held in his interest on Van Buren street, near California avenue, tomorrow evening.

New Candidate in the Field.

A new candidate appeared in the Thirteenth Ward on the Republican side yesterday in the person of George McGregor, a former Alderman. There is a good deal of well-founded complaint in this ward at the gerrymander of the primary districts by the city committeeman. It certainly looks bad. It is charged that the gerrymander was made against the retiring Alderman, Swigart. In the three-cornered fight that is now on it is impossible to predict the outcome. The three candidates for the Republican nomination are E. W. Stanwood, Charles F. Swigart, and George McGregor. It is estimated, however, that McGregor's candidacy is in the interest of Swigart.

John J. Dahlman has the support of the city administration for the Democratic nomination against Ald. Ellert. Ald. Kunz is now disposed, it is said, to be with Dahlman, but the latter will not accept his support. John Schermann, an ex-Lieutenant of Police, will be the Republican nominee. William Baumer, a builder, is seeking a nomination from the Republicans against Tripp, who will be nominated by the Democrats in the Twenty-second Ward. Ex-Inspector Klee is a candidate for the Republican Aldermanic nomination in the Twenty-fifth Ward.

It is charged that the judges selected by Jonathan Ruxton, the Republican City Central Committeeman, for duty in the Twenty-eighth Ward are not all taken from the regular list, and therefore have been selected contrary to the primary law. One of the judges so selected is a political saloonkeeper named Rolston, formerly a city foreman. The selection, it is charged, was made in the interest of D. W. Ackerman, one of the Aldermanic candidates.

A meeting of the Republicans comprising the Fifth, Eighth, Eleventh, Thirteenth, and Fifteenth Precincts of the Seventeenth Ward was held last evening and indorsed Thomas Johnson, a cooperage manufacturer, for Alderman. Albert Oberndorf is also a candidate for the Republican nomination in this ward.

The Republican nominations for town officers, except on the South Side, have been settled upon practically. In the West Division the nomination of James L. Monaghan for Assessor seems to be conceded. Jacob Horn of the Sixteenth Ward will be the nominee for Collector. Mr. Gilbert of the Twelfth Ward will be nominated for Supervisor, and Ed Errickson of the Seventeenth Ward for Clerk. Mr. Morrison, who has been a candidate in opposition to Mr. Monaghan for Assessor, is practically out of the contest now.

W. T. Ball will be renominated for Assessor in the North Town by the Republicans. Ex-Ald. Eisfeldt will be named for Collector, and Paul Radieski for Clerk. Henry Best will head the South Town Republican ticket for Assessor, James Pelise will head the Lake View Republican, and John Symons will probably be the Republican nominee for Assessor in Hyde Park, where Mr. Baker will doubtless be renominated for Collector. Ernst J. Magerstadt may be the nominee for South Town Collector, and Stephen A. Douglas is talked of for Supervisor.

Trying to Oust Assessor Pease.

The Protective Tariff League met in Jung's Hall, Ravenswood, last night to talk the purification of the primaries and to dethrone James Pease, at present the Assessor of the town, who has been all-powerful heretofore. At last night's meeting thirty-seven new members were initiated, making the present roll over 200. The redistricting of the Twenty-fifth and Twenty-sixth Wards has been completed by the friends of Mr. Pease, greatly to the disgust of the members of the league, which claims that the action will permit the present ring to retain its power. It is probable that the league will indorse Charles Naslund for the Republican nomination for Alderman of the Twenty-sixth and William A. Klee is mentioned as the Republican candidate from the Twenty-fifth.

Colored Republicans Reorganize.

The Colored Men's Republican club of the Second Ward held a meeting last night at No. 2103 State street for the purpose of reorganization and elected the following officers: President, J. E. Bish; Vice-President, Perry Hersty; Secretary, T. C. Porter; and Treasurer, Simon Young. Resolutions were adopted supporting J. Harris, formerly night clerk at the Cook County Hospital, for South Town Clerk.

Local Political Notes.

Albert E. Ebert announced himself an independent candidate for Alderman in the First Ward yesterday.

The Fourth Ward Republican Association will meet tonight at Vincennes Hall, No. 3598 Vincennes avenue.

The Carter H. Harrison club will give a ball at the Second Regiment Armory. The affair is intended to help the candidacy of "Billy" Skakel.

The Ninth Ward Republicans will meet this evening at Twelfth street and Hermitage avenue and at Marx Hall, No. 650 Blue Island avenue. Miles Kehoe, candidate for Alderman, will speak.

Three hundred Hyde Park Republicans met in the hall at Fifty-third street and Lake avenue last night and indorsed the candidacy of Joel M. Longenecker for Alderman for the Thirty-second Ward.

The charges of violating the registration and election laws against Charles Weick, Paul Kuhn, and John Winterschmidt are on the trial call for Judge Hanecy's court today. These men are charged with false registration and illegal voting Dec. 19, 1893.

Fully 1,000 friends of Ald. E. J. Noble of the Thirty-first Ward showed their appreciation of his efforts in the Council by unanimously indorsing him as a candidate for reëlection at a mass-meeting held in Association Hall, Sixty-eighth and Yale streets, last night.

E. S. Rennecker was indorsed for West Town Assessor at a meeting of the Twenty-eighth Ward Republican club last night. Daniel Ackerman and Thomas Rankin are candidates for Alderman in this ward, but the club did not decide which man they would support.

REPUBLICAN SEATED IN OHIO.

Mr. Spooner Gets His Seat—Re-erecting Chicago Exhibits.

COLUMBUS, O., March 6.—[Special.]—The House today decided the Spooner-Flumerfelt contested election case by adopting the majority report seating Mr. Spooner, the Republican, as the member from Seneca. The House passed Mr. Ely's bill appropriating $1,500 for the reërection of memorial statuary and the Ohio booths, cases, exhibits, etc., returned from the Columbian Exposition to the State Capitol on the State Board of Agriculture grounds. There is a movement on foot to have the bill amended in the Senate to appropriate enough money to modify the "these are my jewels" monument so as to include ex-President Hayes in the group.

TO DISFRANCHISE THE NEGRO.

Virginia Adopts the Australian Law with an Educational Test.

RICHMOND, Va., March 6.—The Legislature today passed a bill to engraft the Australian ballot system into the existing election laws in Virginia. The measure has an educational feature and will practically disfranchise two-thirds of the negro voters.

Lawrence County Selects Delegates.

LAWRENCEVILLE, Ill., March 6.—[Special.]—The Lawrence County Republican convention met yesterday. The convention instructed the delegates to the State convention, and also the representative from this district in the Legislature to vote for Shelby M. Cullom for United States Senator. E. Callahan will be allowed to select his own delegates to the Senatorial convention.

Sabin Sighs for the Flesh Pots.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., March 6.—Dwight M. Sabin of Stillwater, who went to the United States Senate in 1883, after defeating William Windom, who had served in the Senate for thirteen consecutive years, announced positively today that he would be a candidate for the Republican nomination against Senator Washburn when the Legislature meets next January.

Republicans Roll Up Big Majorities.

BURLINGTON, Vt., March 6.—The Republicans carried the Burlington city election today by the largest majorities ever given any candidate. W. J. Van Patten, for Mayor, received 369 majority and four out of five Aldermen were elected.

Chandler Again a Candidate.

CONCORD, N. H., March 6.—Senator Chandler is out in a letter announcing himself a candidate for reëlection to the United States Senate.

THEY WANT A CHANGE.

REPUBLICAN GAINS AT THE MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.

Ripples Which Foretell the Coming of the Protective Tariff Tidal Wave—New York Cities and Towns Turn Out Democratic Officeholders—In Troy Murphy's Heelers Fire on Some Republicans, Killing One Man and Wounding a Second—Two of the Repeaters Injured.

NEW YORK, March 6.—The election returns from the various counties of the State show decided Republican gains. They have made gains in some districts that the Democrats held to be essentially their own. In Geneva the Republicans made a clean sweep. Every one of their candidates was elected by an overwhelming majority. In Rochester the Republicans are jubilant over the outcome of the election, their candidate for Mayor having been elected by a majority of 3,000. In Little Falls not a Democrat was elected. Every Town in Wayne County shows Republican gains. In Gloversville the Board of Aldermen is entirely Republican. The returns from Rockland, Washington, Essex, Clinton, and Greene Counties all show that the Republicans have either held their own or made large gains. Lansingburg elected the entire Republican ticket by over 1,200 majority. Last year the Democratic majority was 565. Saratoga County went Republican by increased majorities. In Ithaca the Republicans gained a decided victory.

Late returns show that the Board of Supervisors of Washington County will be the same as the last board—thirteen Republicans and four Democrats. In Oneida County the Republicans have gained one seat in the Board of Supervisors. The Democrats in Rochester gained three seats in the Common Council. The new Board of Supervisors will be about the same as the old one. In Monroe County it is considered probable that the Republicans will capture several seats from the Democrats in the Board of Supervisors.

In Oswego the fight was between Cleveland, Hill, and Platt and anti-Platt Democrats and Republicans. The anti-Platt Republicans elect four Aldermen, against two each for the Cleveland Democrats and Platt Republicans. In the new Board of Supervisors the anti-Platt Republicans will have a majority of at least four. The new Dutchess County Board of Supervisors will have a Republican majority of thirteen. Last year the Democrats elected fourteen Supervisors. Today they elected seven.

Late this evening the returns show a Democratic victory in the Town of Albion.

Rensselaer County's Board of Supervisors will stand sixteen Republicans and thirteen Democrats. Last year the board stood eleven Republicans and eighteen Democrats.

KILLED IN A TROY ELECTION ROW.

Repeaters in the Murphy Gang Fire on Republicans Who Challenge Them.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 6.—[Special.]—One man was killed and three were wounded today in a fight at the polls in Troy, the home of Senator Murphy. Robert Ross, the man killed, was a Republican, as was his brother William, who was wounded. The other wounded men belonged to the Hill-Murphy faction. This tragedy is the culmination of an exciting campaign against the Democratic ring. Representative citizens of Troy, including a large number of clergymen, waited upon Gov. Flower last Friday and urged him to sign a bill passed by the Legislature granting Troy non-partisan boards of inspectors. He had signed similar laws for Albany and Lansingburg. But the conditions were different in these places. The Hill-Murphy faction was on the outs while in Troy this faction held control of the election machinery and the police. But Gov. Flower found a technical objection to the bill and declined to sign it. The citizens then gave up hope of securing relief and decided if possible to prevent some of the repeating. The principal candidates for Mayor were the present incumbent, Dennis J. Whelan, nominated by the Democrats opposed to Murphy, and indorsed by the Republicans and Francis J. Malloy named as an independent candidate by the Murphy faction of Democrats and disgruntled Republicans. Besides these were three other candidates who figured in a small way. The Thirteenth Ward was selected for the most of the dirty work, and the repeaters were kept on the go from one polling place to the other constantly. The Republican inspectors were set at defiance by the organized gang of repeaters. At last a determined stand was made against further frauds. A number of respectable citizens, when "Bat" Shea, "Jerry" Cleary, and several other repeaters came over from the Third District to vote, challenged their right. The repeaters made threats that they would vote and it is alleged they drew revolvers. Then several others pulled revolvers and general firing ensued. Robert Ross and William Ross, members of the firm of Ross Bros., valve manufacturers, fell. Robert's wound was fatal, the bullet penetrating the brain. William's injury was in the head. Bat Shea was also hurt in the head and was removed to a saloon, where he was placed under arrest. The others had not been arrested up to midnight. The Ross brothers were Republicans, well connected, and were unmarried. Malloy, the ring candidate, was elected by 1,100 plurality. At midnight it was ascertained that another man was mortally wounded at the Troy election in the Thirteenth Ward tragedy. John McGough, one of the alleged gang of repeaters who participated in the bloody riot, was found at his home suffering from the effects of a bullet wound in his abdomen.

LOCAL OPTION GAINS IN IOWA.

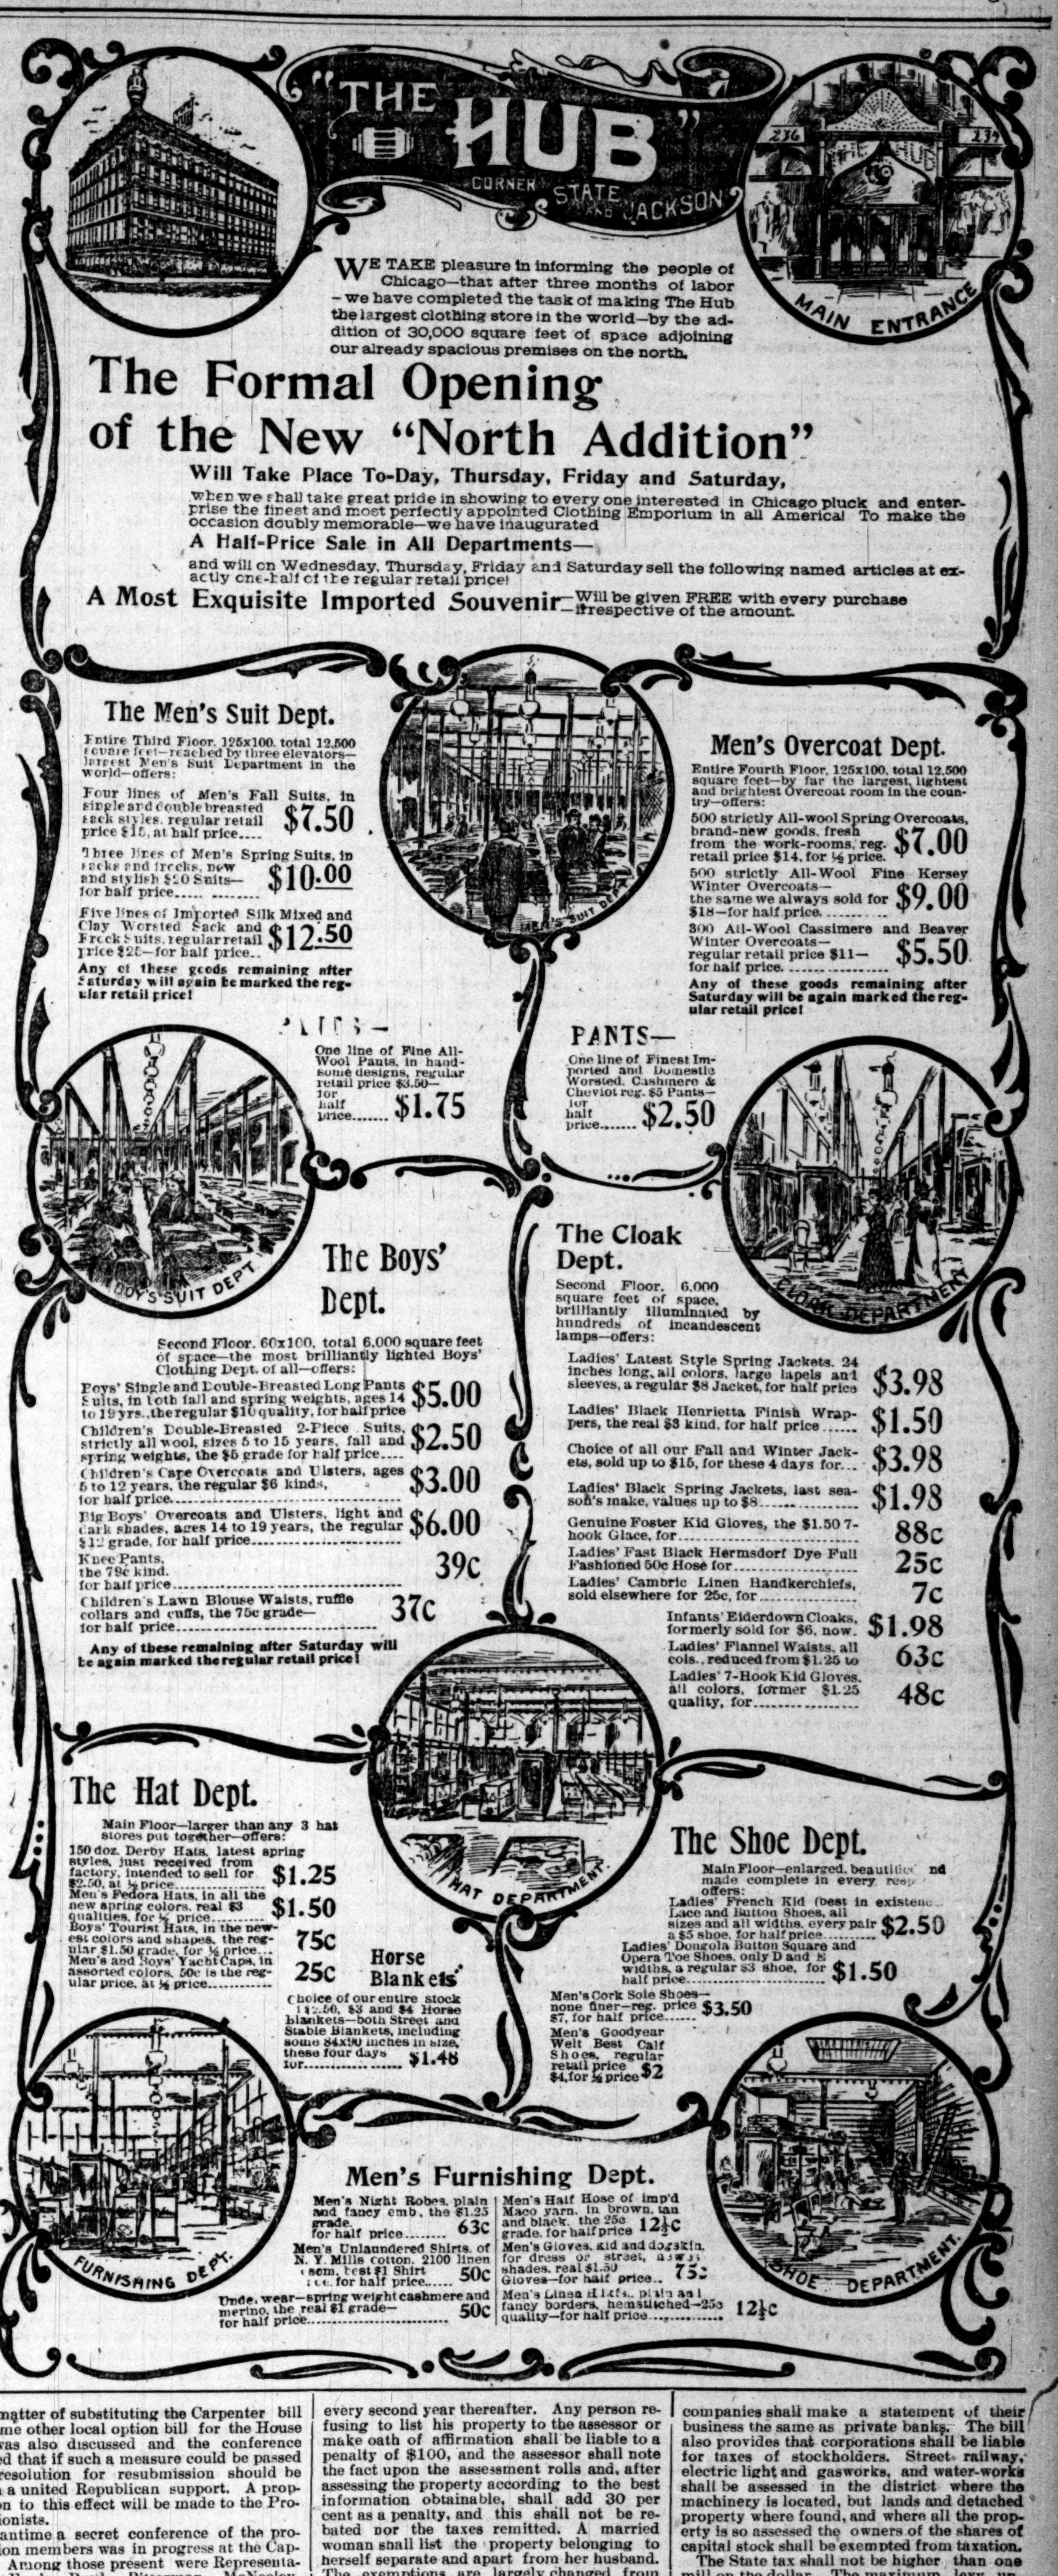

Decisive Fight Likely in Both Houses To-day—Harsh's New Revenue Bill.

DES MOINES, Ia., March 6.—[Special.]—It appears that there is a rocky path in front of the House committee's bill on the temperance question. This morning Chairman Funk introduced a bill on this subject that is similar to that introduced in the Senate by Senator Finn early in the sessions and indefinitely postponed. The bill proposed the following amendment to the present prohibitory law: "Provided, that any city or incorporated town may provide by ordinance such further methods of regulating and controlling the sale of intoxicating liquors as shall best serve the cause of temperance and morality."

When interviewed on the subject Chairman Funk said: "I gave notice to the committee before they left the room at the time they decided to recommend the committee bill that I would kill the bill on account of the clause in it that provides for the suspension of the present prohibitory law. I consider that suspension clause immoral. As between local option and a bill with this suspension feature I infinitely preferred local option as being less mischievous and more conductive to the moral interests of the State."

One member said today that there were not over twenty votes in the House for the committee bill. "When the bill comes up for discussion tomorrow," he said, "it will probably be considered for a short time and then an effort will be made to substitute the Democratic bill for it. That will be voted down. Then the bill that was introduced today by Mr. Funk will be offered as a substitute. That may meet the same fate as the Democratic measure. By this time there is a probability that the Senate may have passed the Carpenter bill and have sent it over here. If they have not done so by that time it will be offered anyhow by some of the members as a substitute for the pending measure and then the real fight will come and I would not be at all surprised to see a local option bill finally pass the House. It may be possible that the result will be reached through the aid of some of the Democratic votes, but I think that such an outcome is probable."

Tonight two important conferences of Republican members of the House were held. A number of the friends of local option met at the Savery Hotel, among them Representatives Chassel, Trewin, Davison, Cornwall, Myerlee, and others. The prospect of securing the passage of a local option measure in the House was discussed and the members declared that they believed that the sentiment in that direction was growing. It was said that if the members favoring local option would vote to pass the resolution for resubmission it was believed that some of the Prohibitionists would agree to vote for a local option bill.

The matter of substituting the Carpenter bill or some other local option bill for the House bill was also discussed and the conference agreed that if such a measure could be passed the resolution for resubmission should be given a united Republican support. A proposition to this effect will be made to the Prohibitionists.

Meantime a secret conference of the prohibition members was in progress at the Capitol. Among those present were Representatives Funk, Reed, Bitterman, McNeeley, Milliman, Shriver, Spaulding, Carter, Walters, Stein, Stuntz, Bell, Jones, W. Miller, Jester, Young, Cooper of Montgomery, Jay, Williams of Fremont, Morris of Clark, Martin, Coonley, Moore, and St. John. The discussion of the situation was at times spirited and Chairman Funk of the House committee characterized the House committee bill as a makeshift, saying that if the present law must be modified he infinitely preferred a strict local option law to a law that imposed a bar to proceedings and yet claimed to be a mulct law.

There was talk of the substitution of the Senate bill and also of the Finn bill, which Chairman Funk introduced in the House today. The conference did not lay out any definite program to be followed in the discussion which begins tomorrow, but it was plainly apparent that the House bill has a poor show for its life, and that the House will either pass a strict local option bill or a mulct bill without any bar. After the conference Chairman Funk said that the first move would be the substitution of the Democratic bill for the committee bill. That will be defeated. Then they will amend the committee bill and try to pass it. A steering committee consisting of Funk, Reed, Martin, Saberson, and Van Gilder was appointed to have charge of the question on the floor.

The Senate Committee on Suppression this afternoon voted to report the Dent bill for manufacturing back to the Senate without recommendation. The members of the committee were not opposed to a measure to permit the manufacture of liquors, but they thought the Dent bill was not restrictive enough, and several of them favored attaching an additional section to the Carpenter bill to allow manufacturing.

In the Senate this afternoon the Committee on Ways and Means reported the Harsh bill for the revision of the revenue laws with amendments. The theory of the bill is to reduce taxation by bringing to light all property in the State and assess it once only at its fair cash value. To raise the assessment to the cash value of the property and reduce levies accordingly runs all through the bill. The assessor devotes the first year of his term to assessing personal property and the last year to the assessment of real estate. All real property shall be listed in the year 1895 and every second year thereafter. Any person refusing to list his property to the assessor or make oath of affirmation shall be liable to a penalty of $100, and the assessor shall note the fact upon the assessment rolls and, after assessing the property according to the best information obtainable, shall add 30 per cent as a penalty, and this shall not be rebated nor the taxes remitted. A married woman shall list the property belonging to herself separate and apart from her husband. The exemptions are largely changed from those under the present law and include all the implements of a farmer, all professional and private libraries, household and kitchen furniture. The soldier exemptions have been added to and include a homestead not to exceed $500 in value, provided that a soldier is able to perform manual labor. To obtain exemptions on account of United States notes and bonds it must be conclusively shown to the assessor that the holder has held them in good faith for at least sixty days prior to Jan. 1 of the assessment year.

Taxes may be rebated by Boards of Supervisors on property destroyed by tornadoes provided the loss is not covered by insurance.

The bill forbids the deduction of debts from the amount of the property to be listed, which has heretofore been done, to find the amount for which the property is taxable. In case the owner is unknown it provides that the property shall be assessed to the person holding the last recorded deed. The bill provides for the assessing of commission merchants, grain and coal dealers, and the warehouse granaries, warehouses, etc., located on the lands of railroad companies. All property in the hands of pawn brokers shall be assessed at a fair cash value. Persons or corporations doing business in more than one assessment district are to be taxed where the principal place of business is located and members of firms are liable for the taxes. The stocks of goods belonging to merchants are to be assessed upon the basis of the last inventory, but the assessor may at his discretion take a new inventory himself. The bill provides that machinery in manufacturing establishments shall be assessed as real estate and shares of capital stock shall be exempt. Moneys, and credits, and corporation shares, except as specially provided for, are to be assessed at the full par or face value. All real estate owned by railroads and used in the operation of the line, and also all railroad bridges across the Mississippi and Missouri Rivers owned by such corporations, are to be assessed in the counties where they are located, as is the property of individuals. In regard to mineral lands where different parties own the surface and the mineral rights the assessment of the property is to be divided between the different owners thereof.

National and State banks, loan and trust companies shall make a statement of their business the same as private banks. The bill also provides that corporations shall be liable for taxes of stockholders. Street railway, electric light and gasworks, and water-works shall be assessed in the district where the machinery is located, but lands and detached property where found, and where all the property is so assessed the owners of the shares of capital stock shall be exempted from taxation.

The State tax shall not be higher than one mill on the dollar. The maximum levy under the new law shall not exceed 50 per cent of the present rates. The bill provides that there shall be a tax on direct inheritances of 1 per cent above $50,000 and 5 per cent above $1,000,000; all other inheritances 5 per cent on sums of $5,000 and upwards to $100,000, above which figure it is 10 per cent, and 10 per cent on all property descending to non-resident aliens, 25 per cent of this tax to go to the county and 75 per cent to the State. The bill provides that the State Treasurer shall collect a franchise tax of ¼ of 1 per cent of the amount of capital stock of all corporations hereafter organized under the laws of this State, except church, benevolent, and kindred purposes. All insurance companies doing business for profit shall pay into the State Treasury 2 per cent of their premium receipts each year in lieu of all other State and local taxes except on real and tangible property, which shall be taxed the same as other property.

The bill provides that taxes shall be a lien on stocks of goods of merchants until paid.

WON IN THE FACE OF FRAUDS.

Republicans Gain Control of Clinton, Ia.—Repeaters in Jail.

CLINTON, Ia., March 6.—[Special.]—An interesting sequel to the municipal election occurred this morning, when seventeen Democratic repeaters were put in jail for fraudulent voting. Two of the men, William Thompson and James Ryan, said to be from Milwaukee, confessed to having been given orders on a prominent Democrat in payment for repeated voting, and substantiated their story by producing the orders, which were signed by a notorious ward heeler. They said that at the headquarters where their orders were made out two men were kept busy making out similar papers and furnishing them to hired voters. They were driven in a carriage from one ward to another and visited five polling places. It was after midnight before the result of the election was made known. The Republicans scored a sweeping victory, electing every man on the ticket by majorities ranging from 600 to 1,000. Four Republican Aldermen were elected in place of present Democratic incumbents, giving the Republicans full control of the city government.

IT is now a public duty to let Boss McKane drop.

MUCH of the force and eloquence of Senator Frye's speech on Hawaiian affairs grew out of the fact that he knew he was speaking the mind of the great American nation.

THE City Council may not deserve much sympathy, but if the county authorities intend to drive it out of doors they should have the humanity to wait for warmer weather.

THE special session of the Colorado Legislature cost that State $80,000 in cash and about the same amount additional in loss of reputation and lowering of moral tone.

"NO WOMAN," remarks the Memphis Appeal-Avalanche, "has ever been hanged in Tennessee." Have all the men in Tennessee been hanged who deserve hanging, neighbor?

IF Mr. White of Louisiana should try to be both United States Senator and Justice of the Supreme Court let not Mr. D. B. Hill, whose title not so very long ago was Governor-Senator, throw any stones at him.

MR. STUART RENDEL, the Welsh Radical who has been made a peer on the recommendation of Mr. Gladstone, is the father-in-law of one of Mr. Gladstone's sons. He is one of the wealthiest men in Wales and has been one of the principal entertainers of the Liberal leaders during the last session. The seat for Montgomeryshire vacated by his elevation to the peerage is a safe one for the Liberals. Mr. Gladstone has also secured honors for his secretaries, his political managers, and his great personal friend, Sir Algernon West. The Grand Old Man was offered a peerage for himself, but of course declined. A peerage could confer no honor on the great commoner.

NOBODY need have the least apprehension of the county ejecting the city from the Court-House Square, and pulling down the City Hall and Court-House and spending several millions on a new building. No law was violated by the agreement made over forty years ago between the city and county, and renewed since then, for the joint occupancy of the Court-House Square, and if any thing done by the latter was unauthorized the Legislature would make everything straight in short order when it meets next year. If there are any members of the County Board who really think they can oust the city and have a building carnival they are much mistaken. The city is nineteen-twentieths of the county now and will stand no such nonsense.

SUGAR was the feature of the New York stock market. It sold up to par on a bulge, but closed heavy at about the opening figure. The local stock market was strong and fairly active. Actual rates for sterling exchange were marked up from ¼ to ½ point. New York exchange was sold at 50 cents premium.—The leading produce markets were unsettled, wheat averaging a trifle higher under good clearances and better cables. Corn continued firm and provisions were sold by weak holders. As compared with the latest prices of the previous day, May wheat closed ⅜ cent higher, corn ⅛ cent higher, oats ¼ cent higher, cash rye steady, barley firm, flaxseed steady, May pork 12½ cents lower, lard 7½ cents lower, and ribs 5 cents lower.

IT is rather hard on the promoters of the new gas ordinance which was to take the place of the Watson-Metropolitan affair that they cannot find a respectable Alderman in the Council who will introduce it. But those promoters have only themselves to blame. They negotiated first with the disreputable boodle Aldermen for the passage of a vicious and dishonest ordinance, that which the Mayor vetoed and which the disreputables tried to pass over the veto. The promoters did not affect any virtue until the veto was sustained. Now they propose an ordinance somewhat better than the Watson-Metropolitan affair, but yet far from being as good as they pretend it is. In their new assumption of virtue they will not present this improved ordinance through their old friends, and it is not good enough for the respectable Aldermen. In the meantime it would be interesting to know how far D. H. Louderback excels A. E. Smythe as a promoter.

MAYOR HOPKINS has called for the resignation of all the police justices and their clerks and bailiffs. He says that his intention is to abolish some of the police courts, which will involve a reduction of the number of court officials. It may be taken for granted that if the police justices gave as many hours of their time to the city as they ought to there would be no need of so many courts. Hence it is all right to economize by reducing the number of courts and making those who preside at the ones which are left give their whole time to the city. The object of the Mayor in retrenching in this direction is to use the money thus saved towards paying the salaries of the 272 men whom the appropriation bill provides for dropping from the police force. But what he can save off the police justices will be merely a drop in the bucket. He may get rid of the Republican police justices, but he will only save enough thereby to pay the salaries of a few patrolmen. The way to get all the money needed to pay the salaries of the 272 whom he wishes to keep on the police force is to urge a cut in salaries. Then he will not have to dismiss a man. That is the economic and the Democratic policy he ought to pursue. He would if he is as much in favor of "tariff reform" and the Wilson bill as he professes to be.

EVEN for an off year there is no comfort for Democrats nowadays. Whenever and wherever an election is held in the Northern States, be it a Congressional or a village election, the Republicans have a walk-over. In the town elections in Iowa Monday it was a genuine Republican cyclone. Towns which have been in the habit of going Democratic went Republican and those which have been Republican were more Republican than ever. Burlington, for the first time in twelve years, indulged in the luxury of a Republican Mayor, and from all over the State comes the report of heavy Republican gains. Maine cities and towns have been in the habit of going Republican, but Monday they nearly doubled up their majorities, and in most of the cities put in solid bodies of Aldermen. Up in Darlington, a Wisconsin Democratic stronghold, on the same day the Republicans elected their entire ticket for the first time in the history of the place. Wait till November. These preliminary skirmishes are omens of a general Waterloo; 1894 will be remembered as the Democratic black year.

HOW SOUTHERN DEMOCRATS LEGISLATE.

The McKinley bill passed the House of Representatives and was sent to the Senate on the 21st of May. On the 18th of the following month it was reported back to the Senate from the Finance committee with numerous amendments. The Wilson bill passed the House and was sent to the Senate on the 1st of February, almost five weeks ago. It was referred to the Committee on Finance, whose Democratic members placed it in the hands of a subcommittee, composed of Messrs. Jones of Arkansas, Mills of Texas, and Vest of Missouri—three Southern members, the last of whom had had legislative experience at Richmond as well as at Washington, having been a member of the Confederate House and Senate.

The bill is still in the hands of the subcommittee. One would have supposed that these three able Southern statesmen, all of whom pretend to be thoroughly acquainted with the tariff question, and who certainly have made innumerable speeches about it, would have finished their work in less time than it took the Republicans of the Finance committee to get through with theirs in 1890. And yet they still hang on to the bill.

In 1846 but twenty-six days intervened between the passage of the Walker tariff bill by the House and its passage by the Senate. The Southern Democrats of that day at least knew how to put their tariff ideas in the form of a bill and to put it through House and Senate without delay. When Mr. Abram Hewitt said that "the Representatives who sit in Congress from the South are not up to the standard either of the great men who formerly sat there or of the demands of the situation" he should have included the Senators also. Said Hewitt: "I know your Southerners in Washington. I know them to be honest, truthful, gallant. But I also know them to be ignorant. It is the only word that fits—blank crass ignorance." Some may attribute to that ignorance the utter legislative incapacity they are displaying.

The Southern Senators of 1846 had a tariff policy which was set forth in their platform. They knew enough to prepare and pass a tariff bill in accordance with it. The platform of the Democratic party of today is plain enough on the tariff question, but neither the Democratic Representatives nor Senators seem to be able to frame a bill in accordance with it. The latter are flirting one day with the protectionists and the next with the free traders. Purely protective duties are imposed one day and taken off the next.

The Southern Democratic Senators of 1846 did not open the doors of the committee room to allow manufacturers and workingmen to be heard, but they did not open their doors and ears to the arguments and entreaties of a sugar trust. At that time no Southern Senator stood with one foot within the Senate and the other on the threshold of the Supreme Court, lingering in the former that he might get a protective and "unconstitutional" duty for the benefit of one of the products of his State.

The Finance committee of 1846 did not jiggle the duties on sugar or anything else up and down, the news of their doings leaking out in mysterious ways and influencing the stock market. The Southern Senators half a century ago took no interest in stock speculations, were ignorant of the "ticker," and would not have been students of one had it been in existence. The Democratic papers of 1846 had no such dispatches as the following, which appears in a Democratic paper of 1894:

> The consequence has been a seemingly interminable tangle, an apparently hopeless delay, and a scandalous advantage to the speculators in stocks affected by the promised legislation. The speculation has not been confined to the outsiders. There are at least four members of the Senate who have made money out of sugar. One of them, who is an Eastern Democrat, is said to have cleared up to a week ago $72,000. Another one, who represents a Republican State, although he is a Democrat, has made considerably more. One estimate places it as high as a million, but that is extravagant. The probabilities are that a hundred thousand dollars fully represents his profits. A Western Democratic Senator who always speculates through a trusted friend, is said to be ahead of the game. He has several friends who have been dealing largely in sugar trust stocks, and one of them who got the tip last night made a few thousands today.

When will the Senate Democrats settle down to their work and legislate so that the country may have some idea "where it is at"? This uncertainty may please stock speculators and may enable Senators to unload, but it bears cruelly hard on manufacturing and commercial interests.

HOPKINS IS IN NO HURRY.

The validity of the election of Mayor Hopkins was challenged by a petition filed some weeks ago in the County Court. The petitioners stated that he owed his certificate of election to frauds committed in various wards and precincts and asked the court for an opportunity to show that those frauds had been committed. At that time Mr. Hopkins said he was anxious to give them a chance. He wanted them to produce forthwith all the facts they pretended they had that he might "prove his title clear" to quarters in the City Hall. But the lawyers in whose hands he placed himself did not approve of that simple, straightforward way of doing business. It would have been in violation of legal etiquette and the great principle never to do anything today in a lawsuit which can be put off till next month.

Hence application was made for twenty days' time in which to file an answer. The time being up the counsel for the defendant has filed a long demurrer. He finds fault because the petition does not show that the special municipal election was called in a manner provided by law and because no facts are stated to show that Mr. Swift was nominated by the Republican party as alleged by the petition. It is objected also that the names of the persons who were alleged to have voted are not given, accompanied by facts to show that they are not qualified voters, and that the names of the officers allowing such persons to vote are not specified.

The petitioners will ask that the demurrer be overruled. The Judge will set a day a few weeks hence for arguing the matter. The lawyers will talk and the Judge will give his decision after that delay which judicial dignity requires. He will sustain the demurrer in part and overrule it in part. If the petitioners amend their petition the defendant's lawyer will do some more demurring. It is possible, for the summer vacation must be borne in mind, that by next November the trial of the case may be near at hand.

This is about what THE TRIBUNE prophesied at the time when Mr. Hopkins was saying he wanted those who denied he was honestly elected to put their charges in tangible form so he could meet them. He was eager for a judicial investigation then. When it threatens to come he seeks to delay it on the ground that the petition does not show that there was a valid municipal election, that Mr. Swift was the Republican nominee, and that he is not made a party to the suit. He and his lawyers know that sort of legal twaddle amounts to nothing, and yet such is their anxiety to prevent an investigation of the alleged frauds of the special election of December that they asked for and got twenty days' delay in which to prepare such stuff as this.

ELEVATING THE TRACKS.

The Mayor submitted at Monday night's meeting of the Council the ordinance which had been prepared under his direction for the elevation of the tracks of the Rock Island and Lake Shore roads. It is understood that it is satisfactory to the people of the territory affected, and there is no apparent reason why it should not be. It provides for a depression of the streets ranging from about two to four feet, but in return for that safe, unobstructed transit is secured.

The railroads, however, are not inclined to accept the ordinance. They want the elevation to be a foot less than the ordinance provides for. They do not want to pay for paving the subways, and they object most earnestly to paying any part of the land damages which may be occasioned by the vacation of streets or by possible injury to property.

The Mayor intimates that it might be proper for the city to pay the damages south of Twenty-second street, because there was but one street opened south of that when the railroads got their right of way. Those damages, he thinks, would be slight, but he insists that the roads should pay the damages north of Twenty-second street. They refuse to do it, claiming that they will be very heavy. It is not known, however, that any estimate has been made of what they will be. It is possible that in many cases, both north and south of Twenty-second street, the property-owners next to the tracks will do like those along the Illinois Central and waive all claims for damages. The general effect of elevation will be to increase the value of land near the intersection of streets and the tracks, and not to lower it.

The Mayor pays the Rock Island and the Lake Shore roads a compliment, saying that—

> In my negotiations with the various railroad companies I was soon led to the conclusion that among all of them there were particularly two which had both the pecuniary ability to elevate their tracks and an honest disposition to meet the authorities in a spirit of fairness and to cooperate with them in drafting a measure which would remedy the evil so much complained of, and, at the same time, impose no unnecessary or unjust burdens upon the companies.

Nevertheless, the Mayor has been unable to come to an agreement with them, though he has made all the concessions he thinks the city ought to make. As he says, if the city has the legal right to compel the roads to elevate at all, it has the right to enforce an elevation which will make any depression of the streets unnecessary. But influenced by a desire to avoid litigation he was led to propose a compromise which he deems "eminently just, fair, and equitable," and yet the roads refuse to accept it. They ask more of the city than it has a right to give.

There is nothing left to do, therefore, but to leave the matter to the arbitrament of the courts. That will take time, but there seems to be no way of avoiding the delay. The Mayor says to the Aldermen—

> In submitting this draft I do not in any manner desire to prescribe, but merely to facilitate your action. My duty is performed if I continue in the future as I have done in the past to urge upon you at every one of your meetings the importance of giving to the people the necessary relief. You are the legislators, the power to act is yours in the first instance, and you will be held accountable for any unnecessary delay. While I do not claim perfection for the ordinance herewith submitted, you will find it useful in your further deliberations upon this most important of all municipal subjects. But let me remind you that the eyes of thousands of widows, of orphans, and of cripples are upon you. The people are fully alive to the necessity of immediate and determined action on your part. I am firmly of the belief that the tracks of these two great trunk roads can be elevated if you will speedily adopt an ordinance substantially following the draft submitted. In case you will act promptly in reference to these two roads and make a beginning we will have a chance to dictate stricter conditions to the obstinate backsliders now defying the people in their most urgent and just demands.

They should do what he recommends and take speedy action. The ordinance which is before them directs that the work of elevation must begin this year, but does not specify the exact date. That is left for the Aldermen to fix. When that time comes if the roads are still unwilling to obey the ordinance then legal proceedings should be begun against them. When a decision has been reached in favor of the city—there is no doubt the Supreme Court will so decide—the other railways will begin to beg for concessions they now refuse contemptuously.

GEN. WARNER'S MISREPRESENTATIONS

Gen. A. J. Warner, President of the league which has for its object the forcing of silver monometallism on this country, pretends to know that "the free silver sentiment is growing." He says: "The other week a silver coinage league was formed in Boston composed of some of the leading minds of the town who were hitherto strong advocates of the gold standard." This talk is of a piece with most of the public utterances by Warner. The Boston meeting referred to, held Feb. 5, adopted a declaration of principles and purposes stating that its members are "earnestly opposed to free coinage of silver or any increased use of silver by this country independent of international action and agreement." This language is followed by the statement that the gentlemen named believe the repeal of the purchasing clause in the Sherman act affords a fitting and fortunate opportunity for advancing the cause of international bimetallism, and that the day is not far distant when the necessities of commerce will compel an international use of silver as well as of gold. But the declaration gives no support whatever to the crazy quilt demand of Warner for the free coinage of silver on the basis of only 46 cents worth of silver in each dollar. The Boston men have organized for a movement in favor of an international agreement to treat silver on its merits, whatever they may be determined by such agreement to be. They want an agreement under which the man who holds a thousand dollars' worth of silver can pay it out on equal terms with the man who has possession of a thousand dollars' worth of gold.

Warner has estopped himself from the privilege of claiming to be working on the same lines with the men in Boston. He has taken the position that the ratio of 16 to 1 must be insisted on, and that no other ratio will be accepted by him and his "party." Inasmuch as the actual ratio is 35 to 1 there is not the ghost of a chance that the members of any international conference would be such dolts as to agree on an effort to establish the Warner ratio as between the nations. They would know that the Warner ratio could not be enforced as between the merchants of different countries, and for that reason they could not stoop to the attempt to impose it upon international trade.

In connection with his foolish complaint about the cessation of silver purchases Warner says: "We are feeling the effects of the gold standard." That is as much as to charge that a recent adoption of the gold standard "is what is the real matter with the country." Yet he knows that we have been on that gold standard for many years, and that every ounce of silver purchased by the government was bought at its commercial value in terms of gold. So here again he is misrepresenting the facts by inference if not by direct statement, and all this is advanced by him as alleged reason for confidence that his promised fight for the free coinage of silver at double its real value will be crowned with success. He has not the sense to see that while he has been clamoring for free silver coinage the silver situation has changed radically, each month carrying it farther and farther away from the possibility of granting what he demands. As well might he argue for establishing $2 as the price of a bushel of wheat in the Chicago market when it is produced in great volume at a cost of less than 50 cents on Western farms as to claim that silver is worth $1.29¼ per ounce when it is produced in great quantity for half the money.

THE SOUTH SIDE ELECTRIC ORDINANCE.

The Council passed night before last an ordinance giving permission to the South Side Street railway company to run its cars on a number of streets by electricity, using overhead wires. Among these streets are Archer avenue, Twenty-sixth, Thirty-first, Thirty-ninth, and Fifty-first. The action taken by the Mayor in reference to the North Chicago Electric railway indicates that he has no objection to overhead wires and that he will not veto the South Side ordinance on that ground.

The people owning the property on the streets where that company wants to introduce the trolley system are not protesting. The probabilities are that they are so anxious for rapid transit that they are indifferent to the dangers of overhead wires. They have been told also that underground systems are a failure in this city in winter and that it must be the trolley or nothing. It will not be long before storage batteries will be cheap and effective. But the impatient people will not wait till then, and therefore a dangerous method of transportation will be introduced on a number of important South Side and Hyde Park streets.

But while the Mayor will not object to the overhead wires he will certainly return the ordinance to the Council for amendment. He must see to it that the poles are placed so as to make the wires as little dangerous as possible, and also call attention to the fact that the compensation secured to the city is not sufficient. In the case of the North Chicago Electric railway the Council was induced so to modify the ordinance as to make the company pay a percentage of its gross earnings. It is easy to get at the gross earnings of a company. It is not so easy to get at the gross earnings of some of the branch lines operated by a company. Its system of bookkeeping might be such that their gross earnings would seem to be very small. In such cases, however, it is possible to charge a fair mileage rental.

It has been suggested also that the company which is to get this extensive franchise be made to light by electricity all or most of the streets on which it wants to operate cars by electricity. This would cut down the city gas bills. In this or in some other way the South Side company must be made to do something for the city in return for all the city is asked to do for it. This is quite irrespective of the fact that the South Side company pays nothing at present beyond a trifling license fee of $50 per car. It has paid in ten years only $148,000. It ought to have done a great deal better than that. The Mayor must see to it that the ordinance passed Monday night is amended in several respects, and especially that it is so changed as to provide for fair compensation to the city.

PLAYING INTO THE HANDS OF THE SUGAR TRUST.

THE TRIBUNE'S advices from Washington state that there is only one cause for the delay over the tariff bill, and that cause is the influence of the trusts. The statement was confirmed yesterday by the boom in "sugar." The certificates in this and other trusts are manipulated by stock jobbers, while from one day to another the tariff bill is "whipsawed" to give them a chance to make money for themselves and principals who pull the wires in legislative circles at Washington. It is a most disgraceful state of affairs, and ought to cover with eternal shame the men who are thus playing fast and loose with the interests of a great nation that they may put a few dollars into their own pockets. According to this latest practical interpretation of the Democratic position in regard to free trade, any approach to that is to be permitted only in the case of articles which are not pleaded for by some one or ones contributing to campaign funds, and the trusts stand in the front of the excepted parties, though the latest National Democratic platform denounced the trusts and demanded "the rigid enforcement of the laws made to prevent and control them." That is Democratic consistency with a vengeance, but it is of the kind always exhibited by Democrats when they get into power. The party is now selling itself out, "body, soul, and breeches," to the trusts, and not only preparing to let them have their own way in trade but enabling them to milk millions out of the public by trickery during the pendency of legislation in regard to the tariff.

THE Council Committee on Fire and Water has reported back the ordinance prepared by the Corporation Counsel exempting certain charitable institutions, schools, churches, etc., from the payment of water rates with the recommendation that it be placed on file and that the various ordinances for which it was proposed as a substitute be repealed. This report should be concurred in by the Council. Concurrence would be taken as a direction to the city authorities to collect the water taxes from all parties. The existing ordinances are illegal and the Corporation Counsel so holds. The proposed ordinance is not legal either. It is in conflict with the law and the Constitution. It should, as the committee recommends, be placed on file. Through compliance with the illegal ordinances last year the city was beaten out of $28,000. This should cease. It is a gross scandal that the city should be deprived of this revenue in the name of charity. The institutions exempted from water taxes have no more right to be thus exempted than they have to be exempted from the payment of their gas bills, or from paying for their postage stamps. The Council should act on the report of Ald. O'Neill's committee promptly.

LORD ROSEBERY begins well. Having promoted a peer, Lord Kimberley, to the position of Foreign Secretary, vacated by his own acceptance of the Premiership, he has promoted a commoner, Mr. Fowler, to the India office instead of Kimberley. Mr. Fowler is a Radical, a Methodist, and the greatest ministerial success of the present Parliament. He steered the parish councils bill through the House of Commons with marked ability. His place as President of the Local Government Board doubtless will be filled by the appointment of some new Radical member. In filling the post of chief whip and patronage secretary, rendered vacant by the accession of Mr. Majoribanks to the peerage, Lord Rosebery has also taken pains to cultivate the Radicals, selecting Mr. Ellis, one of the most aggressive of their number. Mr. John Morley remains in the Irish Secretaryship, and thus the danger of any friction likely to arise from a change is avoided. Every move of the new Premier seems to be tactful. It would not be surprising if he should succeed in detaching some of the Liberal Unionists from their Tory alliance.

MR. D. V. PURINGTON has consented to become a candidate for Alderman of the Second Ward. He seeks the Republican nomination, but knowing how primaries are manipulated in the Second Ward he does not count on obtaining it. If he fails through the chicanery of the caucus manipulators he will be a candidate by petition. Should he obtain the Republican nomination his election would be assured, and he would be a most useful man in the City Council. He has ability and considerable experience in public affairs. He is a man of honor and integrity. Why should the Republicans of the Second Ward hesitate to nominate him instead of Dan Horan, who seeks reëlection? Horan has neither ability nor a proper idea of public duty. Since he was elected to the Council two years ago he has voted for every doubtful measure that was presented. He voted for the notorious Watson ordinance. He belongs to the "combine." His Republicanism is of the most doubtful variety. When the Council was called on to elect an acting Mayor instead of Carter H. Harrison there were grave doubts of Horan's position. Anyway, the Republicans of the Second Ward should not hesitate to nominate Mr. Purington instead of Mr. Horan. They will not hesitate if the primaries are fairly and decently conducted.

MR. GILL will now seek the seclusion that a Lieutenant-Governorship grants.

Early Depravity.

"Papa," asked Tommy Goodman, "who was Cain's wife?"

"Caroline," said the Rev. Dr. Goodman, after an ominous pause, addressing his wife, "will you please hand me my heaviest slipper and leave the room? There is going to be a trial for heresy right here and right now."

AFTER ONE YEAR.

St. Louis Globe: The country will draw a long breath of relief today in view of the fact that a year of the present administration is gone.

Pittsburg Dispatch: President Cleveland took command of the ship of state one year ago today, and the proud old craft is already sadly in need of a sojourn at some friendly dry-dock.

St. Louis Star-Sayings: Twenty-five per cent of the Democratic administration's tenure is gone, but that is less than half the damage in percentage which it has inflicted upon a long-suffering business community.

New York Recorder: The first year of Mr. Cleveland's second term closes in dishonor abroad and disaster at home. In the interests of the country and of all the people we trust he will have the wisdom to avoid in the year before him the dangerous and destructive policies he has been pursuing.

Milwaukee Sentinel: The Democratic party has now been in power for a year, with Grover Cleveland, its "almost divinely appointed" leader, at the head of its administration. Are the people sensible of having received great benefits in consequence? Is business better than a year ago? Are wages higher? Is employment more readily obtained? Where are the blessings we were told were to follow in the train of Democratic success?

Rockford Register: It has destroyed business interests, paralyzed confidence, clogged the wheels of industry, deprived labor of employment, and has been a blight in general. It has hauled down the American flag and has disgraced the Nation by endeavoring to restore a rotten monarchy. It has given the country an exhibition of its sectional spirit, its dense stupidity, and utter incapacity. One year of Democracy! could the record be worse?

Cleveland Leader: Where there were confidence and hope despair and fear reign today. Power has proved the bane of the party which seized upon it so eagerly. Its pledges are unfulfilled and its hopes of inauguration day are a mockery of memory now. The travail of unfruitful labor and aimless warfare fill the present with bitterness and blacken the future with the shadows of more terrible defeats than have yet been experienced by the misguided and luckless Democracy. There is no joy in remembering, no comfort in reflection, no promise in looking ahead. And three years more of Grover are to follow the one that has worn wearily away.

New York Press: The destruction of national wealth through the paralysis of the forces of production, the depreciation in values, and the stoppage in wages have brought about widespread destitution and misery. In every great city bitter want has taken the place of plenty, and tens of thousands of people, self-supporting one year ago, are dependent upon charity for the necessaries of life. One year of Clevelandism has cost the American people more than four years of civil war. The history of the last twelve months is an unbroken record of disgrace and disaster; and for the evil that has been wrought the sole responsibility belongs to the Democratic party and Grover Cleveland.

Philadelphia Telegraph: What a period of attempted reactionary revolution, doubt, and disaster it has been! Within this time the loss to the country has been fully equal to one year's expenditure during the great struggle for the preservation of the Union. It is doubtful, indeed, if $1,000,000,000 would begin to cover the financial loss sustained, which has extended to every department and to all classes. The rich and the very poor, those with much and those with little, have been made to feel the effect of the withering blight that has come upon the country, paralyzing industry, unsettling values, causing in some lines of investment unprecedented shrinkage, and in others ruin.

New York Mail: Many fair-minded men believed that President Cleveland could accomplish grand results if he had full control. What has been the result of a year's trial? Failure—disastrous failure—and public distrust and public disgust on every side. Even the friends of President Cleveland find their only refuge in the statement that he is better than his party. We submit to the verdict of the American people the question: Which was right, the Democratic party, which promised, with a change of administration, greater prosperity, higher patriotism, and better government, or the Republican party, which warned the people that the democracy was "an organized incapacity," incapable of good government, and solely bent on perpetuating political control and not on establishing and maintaining patriotic principles?

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

Mme. Modjeska made an important change yesterday in the plans which have been given already to the public. She had decided to appear in a farewell American tour next season, and then to retire, or then to accept the invitation of her native country to manage the two principal Polish theaters. She has now made up her mind, with the advice of her friends, to make a European tour next season, and to postpone her American farewell (if she ever makes one) until 1895-'96. She will play in all the principal foreign capitals, though it is doubtful whether she will be persona gratissima, as they say in diplomacy, at St. Petersburg. The Russian authorities may make it unpleasant for her on account of her husband's political antecedents as well as because of the tenor of her address last summer at the World's Columbian Exposition: but, on the other hand, she is now an American, and may be treated as such by the Czar's government. Mme. Modjeska, like Desdemona, sees before her a divided duty: Her son and his family are in America, yet ambition beckons her to Poland, where the regard for her has a sort of national coloring. It is possible, therefore, that her present engagement is a farewell one, though as the valiant Sir Andrew Aguecheek said in his challenge to Viola, "Our hope is better."

A brilliant performance was that of Magda, which was given last night at Hooley's. Not that it is better done by the company than when the piece was first seen in Chicago, but because the part of the heroine has become polished like a gem under the hands of Mme. Modjeska. The drama itself is somber; one does not care to discuss its ethical teaching which is that to "grow greater than our sins is worth all the purity you preach"; and one is not inclined to become enthusiastic over its advocacy of the enlargement of the liberties of women; but one is free to say that its artistic importance lies chiefly in the infinitely varied and womanly impersonation of the heroine by the principal actress. Mme. Modjeska understands the capricious artistic nature—also what the world calls the somewhat free Bohemian nature; and, better than this, she understands human nature. Her Magda in its pathos touches the heart, while its comedy is remarkable for its many faceted brilliancy. Indeed, the unexpected comical force infused into the part strikes one as a triumph. Magda is really a tedious sort of creature if one analyses the impersonation and separates her from the actress, but heaven forbid this, even in retrospection.

The members of the company are as they were before, only that Mr. Skinner has added solidity and repose to his somewhat ungrateful rôle of the obstinate Major. One regrets to see that Mr. Howard Kyle has not realised the possibilities of the rôle of the clergyman. The rector is a hero in a deeper emotional sense than is Magda the heroine. The actor who cannot put this superbly touching part into the foreground by mere force of feeling, not by demonstrativeness, will never, one thinks, scale the heights of success. To speak of the others would be to repeat mild words of commendation which have been already printed.

Miss Marie Tempest will sing the title rôle of "The Fencing Master" before 350 young dentists at the Grand Opera-House Wednesday evening. The party will consist of students and instructors from the American College of Dental Surgery, who will have possession of all the boxes and a large block of seats in the parquet. Miss Tempest already has redeemed her none too favorable impression in the opera last season. Her shortcomings at the Chicago Opera-House should be regarded with due allowance, however, as she was ill at that time and really should not have played the engagement at all.

Especial interest is evinced in the concert of the Visiting Nurses' Association series, which takes place at Hooley's Theater tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. Miss Ellen Beach Yaw, a young soprano and a native of California, will make her first appearance before a Chicago audience since her return from Paris. Miss Yaw is mentioned as possessing a voice of extraordinary compass, purity of tone, and flexibility, which has been excellently schooled at the Conservatory of Paris.

PITTSBURG, Pa., March 6.—[Special.]—As intimated last night Charles Coghlan, whose initial production of his new play, "Disengaged," was to have been given last evening, will not appear at the Duquesne Theater this week or the Chicago Opera-House in Chicago next week. This afternoon the theater posters were pasted over with blank white paper. Mr. Coghlan's company was disbanded and Manager McCullough announced that the theater will be closed all this week, that David Henderson wired him that he would cancel Coghlan's date at the Chicago Opera-House, and, furthermore, that he did not wish Mr. Coghlan to come within eighty miles of him. Mr. Coghlan was removed in a carriage from the Monongahela to the Mercy Hospital this afternoon. He is being treated, it is said, for alcoholism. The announcement of the cancellation of his contract caused a sensation, as few people knew anything about Coghlan's condition until this afternoon. Manager Kehoe says Coghlan's recent marital troubles so preyed on his mind that he resorted to drink to drown his cares. Upon his last visit here he is said to have tippled a great deal. This, however, did not interfere with the appearance of the company at that time, but during the week following the quarrel with his sister, which resulted in their separation, occurred. The doctor who is attending Mr. Coghlan, and by whose orders the actor was sent to the hospital, says his patient is suffering from nervous prostration, overwork, and worry. Some people say probably David Henderson will sue Mr. Coghlan for breach of contract. One break was the failure to bring Sadie Martinot, who had to give way to Kuhne Beveridge, and the other the entire collapse of Mr. Coghlan, for which it is claimed the actor alone is responsible. Among the rumors is one that Mr. Coghlan soon will appear in Chicago at the head of a new company.

BOSTON, Mass., March 6.—[Special.]—Mme. Calvé essayed for the first time tonight the title rôle in "Mignon" and won an unqualified success. Mme. An Honest Confession.

Troy Press (Dem.): Tomorrow will make another year of Grover Cleveland—and we frankly confess that it is the worst when it should have been the best of the five. He has three years in which to redeem his reputation, and place the government upon the high plane which distinguished it during his first administration. SANTA FE PULLS OUT.

THE ROAD FORMALLY LEAVES WESTERN PASSENGER ASSOCIATION.

W. F. White, Passenger Traffic Manager, Writes to Chairman Caldwell Explaining the Company's Grounds for Retiring—This Action May Precipitate Other Departures from the Association—General Meeting Expected to Be Called to Consider the Situation—Railroad News.

The Santa Fé withdrew from the Western Passenger Association yesterday. W. F. White, passenger traffic manager, in fulfilling the prediction made Monday that his road would go out of the association, sent Chairman Caldwell the following formal notice of withdrawal:

> CHICAGO, March 6.—Mr. B. D. Caldwell, Chairman Western Passenger Association—Dear Sir: We are in receipt of your circular letter No. 3,218, wherein you rule that Western Passenger Association agreement affords no protection to the interests of these companies, and that therefore the agreement as drawn is a failure so far as it pretends "to protect each member against unfair competition by any line within or without the association"; and further, that while the agreement reads, if the Chairman shall become satisfied that any line outside of the association is guilty of acts injuriously affecting the interests of associated lines, it shall be his duty to issue an order suspending passenger business relations with such offending lines, the Chairman rules that this section is not operative as against a powerful line like the Southern Pacific, but it is in full force and effect as against a weak line like the Jacksonville Southeastern or the Mobile and Ohio. Under these rulings of the Chairman the Western Passenger Association is shown to be unable or unwilling to carry out its pretense to protection of our interests. It is therefore necessary for us to be free to protect our own interests by individual action, hence we hereby give notice under Art. XVII. of the agreement of our withdrawal therefrom, effective March 15, 1894. This notice covers the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé railroad, Colorado Midland, and St. Louis and San Francisco railways.

Although the notice is to become effective in ten days the Santa Fé will act as if it was already in operation and will at once cut loose from the association. It will attend no meetings nor in any way act in conjunction with the roads in the association. The notice does not, however, interfere with the Santa Fé's immigrant clearing-house arrangement, as this business is not involved in the present contest.

The withdrawal is said to be absolute, even if the differences existing should in any way be settled before the date set for the withdrawal to go into effect, and the Santa Fé has placed itself in a position where it will demand full satisfaction for all grievances.

Chairman Caldwell got the Santa Fé letter early in the day and at once promulgated it for the information of the roads in the association. It was labeled "Circular Letter No. 3,220" and announced the withdrawal of the Atchison, Topeka, and Santa Fé, Colorado Midland, and St. Louis and San Francisco railways from the Western Passenger Association.

The announcement was made yesterday that the Santa Fé's action may precipitate other withdrawals, and in this event the fate of the association is sealed. What action the association will take is uncertain, although it is probable a general meeting will be called at once for a discussion of a plan of action.

GRAIN RATES STILL DROPPING.

They Have Now Reached a Point Where They Seriously Affect Lake Traffic.

Shippers on 'Change reported yesterday they were offered a rate of 15 cents per 100 pounds on grain to New York. This was a cent lower than Monday's offer. The general impression among grain shippers was that rates would go still lower before the week was out. On account of the low rates to the seaboard by the railroads a cargo of 85,000 bushels of rye, which was loaded on the big steamer Philip Minch early in the winter, was taken out yesterday at the Armour elevator and will be shipped by rail to New York. Vesselmen did not remember when anything of the kind had happened before. There was great consternation among them at the prospect of a lively competition with the railroads in the grain trade and it was admitted that the contest would have a disastrous effect on lake business.

Makes Another Cut in Rates.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., March 6.—The Santa Fé has announced another cut in rates. March 8 a rate of $10 will be put into effect from Mojave and Los Angeles to Deming and El Paso. The present rate is the same as that to Missouri River—$20. So the reduction will be one-half. This rate, it is announced, is made by it to retaliate upon the Southern Pacific for the boycott declared at El Paso and Deming. The Southern Pacific has refused to route passengers east over Santa Fé lines from those points. By adding the local this cut will be operative for some distance into the San Joaquin Valley and will prove a serious invasion of Southern Pacific territory.

Northern Pacific Reorganization.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., March 6.—Receiver Payne of the Northern Pacific company says there is no scheme on foot to reorganize the company. He says the report has its foundation in the fact that a number of stockholders have been asked to deposit their holdings with the Mercantile Trust company of New York. Mr. Payne did not state the reason for the request, however.

Railroad Brevities.

George M. Hughes has been appointed General Agent of the New York, Susquehanna and Western.

Meetings were held at St. Louis yesterday to choose directors for the four allied companies controlling the Union Depot, terminals, and bridges there.

The dispute between the Missouri Pacific and the St. Louis, Kansas and Northwestern over the transportation of insane soldiers was decided yesterday in favor of the latter road.

A mortgage for $990,000 in favor of the New York Guaranty and Indemnity company was filed by the Cincinnati, Union City and Chicago railroad in Portland, Ind., yesterday. The bonds the mortgage was given to secure will be used for building the road from Huntington to Union City, Ind.

Dwight L. Moody has been conducting a revival in Washington for some weeks and has made hundreds of converts, but no one would ever suspect it from reading the Congressional reports.

Miss Bourke of San Francisco is worth $15,000,000 and is about to wed an Italian Count. She ought to consult Princess Colonna as to the advisability of buying a title without a husband.

Swinburne, the poet, and Theodore Watts, the painter, live together in an English manor house. The poet is said to have grown so deaf that he hears an ordinary conversation with great difficulty.

Miss Carrie Bell is the candidate of the Democrats and Populists of Creede for City Clerk, and if their gallant plans do not Miss Carrie will be the first woman elected to public office in Colorado.

Gladstone, in addition to $500,000 left him by his father, has a rent roll of the Hawarden estate which came into the possession of his wife on the death of the last male Glynne. His annual income is $125,000 a year.

The Duchess of Teck, whose daughter may one day be Queen of England, has written an article begging ladies of her acquaintance to help make clothes for the poor. She says: "I am only asking others to do what the Duchess of Albany, my daughter and I, and many ladies I know do. We make a point of having a piece of guild work always on hand and taking it up at odd minutes; it is surprising what these odd minutes put together in the shape of wool and pins produce."

President Eliot of Harvard, says there is scarcely a single subject taught nowadays in the same way it was taught thirty years ago, and that even law, the most conservative of studies, is now treated in an entirely different method from that which prevailed in former years. That method, he adds, is being adopted all over the country and is making its way into the English universities. Then, too, the teaching of the sciences and languages has been greatly changed. Evidently the college graduate of twenty-five years' standing must soon regard himself as a back number.

NEWS FROM ABROAD.

GLADSTONE'S CORDIAL GREETING TO HIS SUCCESSOR.

Lord Rosebery Pays a Visit to the Ex-Premier After Taking Formal Possession of the Office of Prime Minister—Duke of Devonshire in a Speech Outlines the Position of the Liberal Unionists—Labouchere's Lament—Church Party Supports Brazilian Insurgents.

LONDON, March 6.—Lord Rosebery took formal possession this afternoon of the offices recently occupied by the Rt.-Hon. William E. Gladstone as Prime Minister of England. The new Premier first visited the Chancellor of the Exchequer, the Rt.-Hon. Sir William Vernon Harcourt, and then passed into Mr. Gladstone's rooms, where he was cordially greeted by the ex-Premier as his successor. Lord Rosebery afterwards drove to his residence in Berkeley square in order to prepare for the Queen's drawing-room.

The Rt.-Hon. George Shaw-Lefevre, M. P. for Central Bradford, formerly Postmaster-General and more recently First Commissioner of Works, has accepted the Presidency of the Local Government Board, in succession to the Rt.-Hon. Henry Fowler, who succeeds the Earl of Kimberly as Secretary of State for India, upon the latter's succession to Lord Rosebery as Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs.

The Times announces that Richard Knight Caustin, M. P. for Southwark, West, has been appointed second "whip." Mr. Caustin is now a Lord of the Treasury. He is in favor of home rule for Ireland.

Liberal Unionists' Position.

In a speech at Yeovil tonight the Duke of Devonshire said Mr. Gladstone's retirement was an event of the highest political importance. It was a satisfaction to all that he had not outstaid his parliamentary reputation. It was the abdication of a ruler and leader of men in the plenitude of his strength and power. He, however, had left his successors a legacy of unsettled controversies. Added to the Newcastle program there was the new task of undertaking the quarrel with the Lords. If the declaration of war was the broad, clear issue of the House of Lords' rejection of the home rule bill they were willing to fight the matter before the country whenever the government pleased, but if the quarrel were based upon other and more recent measures he would regard them as mere pretexts.

Will Oppose Home Rule.

The Liberal Unionists, the Duke of Devonshire continued, would only offer Lord Rosebery a fair and honest opposition. They would uncompromisingly oppose home rule, but if home rule was shelved and the government devoted itself to useful legislation, such as the strengthening of the navy, the Unionists would be in no hurry to displace the government. The Liberal Unionists rejoiced that the government was headed by a man not indifferent to the interests and the greatness and honor of the country. The House of Lords, however, would not consent to the gerrymandering of the British constituencies under the guise of a registration bill.

Labouchere Airs His Grievances.

Mr. Henry Labouchere, in an article in tomorrow's Truth, will say:

"The responsibility for the acceptance of a Peer as Prime Minister rests upon the Radicals unless a clear statement is made in the Queen's speech that we are to have a different policy regarding the House of Lords than Lord Roseberry is supposed to entertain. Some of the Radicals will make it clear that they will decline the tinkering of the pernicious assembly of Peers and that the right of that body to interfere with the nation must cease. Lord Rosebery's public utterances with regard to Ireland are not at all satisfactory. The secrecy with which Mr. Gladstone's resignation and Lord Rosebery's appointment was managed was clever, but most unfair. Had the proper time been given at least a hundred Radicals would have protested against a Peer Premier. We have not only a Peer Premier, but a Peer in a poke."

Mr. Labouchere then proceeds to argue that the House of Commons cannot remain the ruling assembly while the Premier is in the House of Lords. In this connection he says: "We will not have a real control over him, as we can only turn him out by a hostile vote at the cost of ruining the party." Mr. Labouchere concludes as follows: "I am now convinced that the Radicals dearly love a Lord. Love of and subserviency to the titled is the weak spot in the Anglo-Saxon race. We are a race of snobs and are never happier than when indulging in an orgie of snobism."

Treatment for Gladstone.

A dispatch to the Standard from Berlin says: "It is reported that Mr. Gladstone intends to consult Dr. Pagenstecher, a celebrated oculist of this place, with regard to his eye trouble."

The Telegraph says: "Mr. Gladstone has placed himself in the hands of Sir James Paget, the famous surgeon, and the oculist, Nethercliff. We regret to say that there is undoubtedly a cataract forming on one of his eyes, with the prospect of a similar weakening of the other, but nothing that is not liable to yield to ordinary treatment. We think he has by no means made his last speech in Parliament."

Rosebery at the Drawing-Room.

The drawing-room which the new Premier attended this afternoon was the smallest, so far as attendance is concerned, which the Queen has held in years. This is remarkable from the fact that the Queen will not hold another one until 1895. There were only 142 people presented and the ceremony only lasted an hour. Lord Rosebery occupied a conspicuous place near the Queen and the other Cabinet Ministers were present.

The Daily News says Lord Rosebery will retain his seat in the County Council.

CHURCH PARTY SUPPORTS DA GAMA.

If Successful Its Return Is to Be Restoration of State Aid.

[SPECIAL CABLE.]

RIO JANEIRO, Brazil, via Galveston, Tex., March 6.—[Copyright, 1894, by James Gordon Bennett.]—It is reported here that the Church party has been supplying Admiral Saldanha da Gama and the rebel fleet with funds, in return for which Da Gama has promised that in case the rebellion is successful State aid will be restored to the church. Rumors reached here today that the government troops have sustained defeat on the Sao Paulo frontier, but they lack confirmation. Admiral Mello's eldest son is dead in Argentina. It is reported that Señor Manhilla visited the rebel ship Martes in the bay here recently and requested the release of two national guardsmen, who were prisoners on board, and that Capt. Rutumba, representing Admiral da Gama, agreed to give them up. There are several officers of the national guard held as prisoners on the Martes. They say they have been well treated, but have been kept on a pretty short allowance of food for the last month. Where the Aquidaban and Republica now are is not known here, but it is considered probable that they are refitting at Isla Grande preparatory to giving battle to President Peixoto's warships.

COMPLAIN OF CHICAGO TREATMENT.

Indiana Doctors Hampered, They Say, in Their Smallpox Investigation.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 6.—[Special.]—Drs. L. L. Whitesides and John N. Taylor, together with Secretary Metcalf of the Indiana Board of Health, returned last night from Chicago, where they went to inspect the Chicago method of handling the smallpox epidemic, but all refused to say anything regarding their visit tonight, when they issued a brief report. The physicians are in an ill-humor at the treatment received in Chicago. They say they were greatly hampered by obstacles thrown in their way by Dr. Quine, President of the Illinois Board of Health, and also on account of the treatment accorded them by the Chicago papers. Finding that the Chicago officials acted as if they knew how to take care of a smallpox epidemic, the report says the Indiana doctors suggested to them that they make a house-to-house canvass for the purpose of locating infected points and at once isolate all cases. The doctors refuse to say whether the Indiana board will take any action looking toward a quarantine against Chicago or whether, in their opinion, Chicago is using proper methods.

START THE NEW TRIAL

SECOND FIASCO THREATENED FOR A TIME IN THE ROSTER CASE.

One of the New Jurors at Madison, Wis., Charged with Having Bet on the Result, and a Lively Argument Ensues—Disaster Averted and the Case Proceeds with the Opening Argument for the Plaintiffs—Repetition of the Points Given Before.

MADISON, Wis., March 6.—[Special.]—The trial of the roster contract case was begun again in earnest today. After an entire forenoon's work a new jury was secured and the afternoon session was devoted to the opening address to the jury on behalf of the plaintiffs by Attorney John M. Olin.

When court convened this morning Mr. Olin informed the court that before proceeding with the examination of the last juror drawn last night he wished to ask Juror William Fanning a few questions. Mr. Fanning had said he had formed or expressed no opinion as to the merits of the case and had been passed. Mr. Olin charged him with having bet cigars on the result of the trial. Mr. Fanning denied the charge. Attorneys for the plaintiff wished to try him, and had the man with whom he is said to have bet subpœnaed. This gentleman, G. S. Post, was soon brought into court and testified that Mr. Fanning had offered to bet a good cigar that the defendants would not be found guilty. Mr. Fanning stated he was sure Mr. Post had misunderstood him. After examination by an attorney for the defense, counsel for the plaintiffs asked that the juror be excused, but the Judge held that even had he offered to bet a cigar the act would not disqualify him. He was not excused, but the plaintiff's attorneys were careful to get him off the jury when their turn next came to strike.

Attorney Jeffries, for the prosecution, announced as soon as the cigar bet incident was settled that certain intimations with reference to jurors in the box had come to counsel and that it would require time to investigate. He asked that court adjourn till tomorrow. a long consultation between all of the attorneys in the case followed, and it was feared another sensation like the one last Saturday was in store. When the attorneys returned to the court-room an argument ensued. The defense declared that as the prosecution was not ready to produce a written statement of any charges or intimations against jurors their demands should not be granted. The court so held, Judge Siebecker saying that the court should have something tangible to act upon.

When the work of completing the jury was renewed Attorney Olin got from Juror L. Gill, who was passed yesterday, the statement that he had formed impressions as to the right and wrong of the case which it would require testimony to remove. He was excused. It took the thirtieth man on the special venire to complete the jury. As to politics the jury stands seven Democrats, three Republicans, one Prohibitionist, and one independent. The list is as follows: A. L. Cobb, Sun Prairie; Frank Goth, Middleton; John McNulty, Burke; R. B. Gibbons, Cottage Grove; John E. Brumm, Middleton; Charles Butz, Mazomanie; T. M. Torgensen, Burke; William Maher, Blooming Grove; John Crabtree, Burke; Sihon Stace, Middleton; James Lyall, Verona; James Blake, Mazomanie.

After a recess Attorney Olin commenced his opening address to the jury in behalf of the plaintiff. He will probably speak an hour and a half tomorrow morning. It is the intention of all the attorneys to make their speeches more brief than before. His address on the merits of the case was substantially the same as a week ago.

HUNDREDS OF TITLES QUESTIONED.

Levy in the Famous Morgan Case Made in Washtenaw County, Mich.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., March 6.—[Special.]—Deputy United States Marshal Wallace served the levy on Registrar of Deeds Hughes to satisfy a judgment of $10,000 in the case of George Lant against the late E. W. Morgan. The levy covers hundreds of farms and business property in nearly every village and city in Washtenaw County. None of the property is in the name of Morgan or his estate, it all having been transferred by him to his wife and since been sold by her and her estate to hundreds of innocent purchasers. Morgan was a great land speculator, and as a consequence the titles of hundreds of pieces of property are jeopardized. While living he had a mania for giving "sweeping" deeds, ofttimes covering property in which he had no interest. A number of this class are in the levy by reason of Morgan's acts. One deed he gave in transferring property about the time of his failure, besides covering certain lands, included "all lands in Michigan and Illinois" owned by him. He was supposed to be immensely wealthy and the claim of the plaintiff is that he transferred all this property to his wife without consideration, she leaving an estate of half a million.

ART COMPANY PROVES A FRAUD.

Takes in $5,000 for Work in Omaha That Is Never Delivered.

OMAHA, Neb., March 6.—[Special.]—About a month ago a branch office of the "World's Columbia Art company" of Chicago was opened in the New York Life Building and agents sent out through this city, South Omaha, and Council Bluffs, who offered to make life-sized crayon portraits from ordinary photos at $1 each, a deposit of 50 cents being required. They also offered frames at low prices on the same terms of half down. The work was to be delivered inside of thirty days. An enormous business was done and orders piled in at a rapid rate when the managers suddenly disappeared and the office fixtures were attached by creditors. The company has turned out to be a myth. Over 1,500 victims are reported and the profits will amount to at least $5,000.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., March 6.—The new battleship Indiana started on its preliminary trial trip today. The big vessel left Cramp & Sons' dry dock at 9:30 with Edwin S. Cramp in charge. It is built of steel. The Indiana ranks in size with the British battleships Victoria, Nile, Trafalgar, and Sanspareil. It was launched Feb. 28, 1893.

Mr. Mason spoke on the subject of American citizenship, while Prof. Taylor outlined the work necessary to be done by the new Christian citizenship party. O. N. Carter presided. Prof. Graham suggested the formation of classes in civic discussion on municipal politics, through which the voters may become interested and educated in the workings of the political machine and thus know something about how to run it.

WIPING OUT THE EVIL OF LUMPY JAW.

Stock-Yards Exchange Adopts Stringent Rules Covering the Matter.

The Stock-Yards committee, consisting of W. L. Tamblyn, G. F. Swift, E. J. Martyn, C. A. Mallory, and R. Nash, appointed to take action on the lumpy-jaw question, submitted a stringent rule for adoption yesterday. It will be posted ten days and then voted upon. A penalty of $50 is prescribed for any member of the exchange who buys or sells animals apparently suffering from the disease before they are examined by State inspectors, the cattle first having been surrendered to the State authorities. Diseased or doubtful animals must be slaughtered at the expense of the owner at a special slaughter-house. When the carcass shows no disease it shall be returned to the owner, but if diseased it is to be saturated with kerosene so as to be rendered unfit for food and then tanked and disposed of by the exchange, the proceeds to go to the owner. Provision is made for the appointment of agents to see that the rule is carried out.

Mat Lamb, Meat Inspector at the yards, last Monday night frustrated what was believed to be an attempt to slaughter lumpy-jawed cattle. A drove of thirty steers suspected of inspection was purchased by a scalper who started them toward the north-western end of the yards. Lamb had said that he would be absent from his post, but instead of leaving concealed himself in that part of the grounds. He emerged from his hiding place as the cattle appeared, and after an altercation forced the drivers to return the cattle to the yards, where they were quarantined. Yesterday a veterinary surgeon found eight of the steers affected with jumpy jaw.

SHAKE DICE FOR A SMALL FORTUNE.

How the Ownership of an Option on a Gold Mine Was Settled.

Philo Finlan of Butte, Mont., who is at the Leland, is the winner of the largest stake on a throw of the dice of record in the last few years. Two weeks ago Mr. Finlan was negotiating with Gen. C. S. Warren for the purchase of a gold claim in the Butte territory. The claim adjoined one owned by Mr. Finlan, and he knew its value better than the owner. It lapped over Finlan's claim, and no end of litigation was in sight. Finlan determined to get possession of the claim. When he went to look up the owner he found that Gen. Warren had an option on it for $15,000. He and Warren began to dicker over the price. Warren at first asked $10,000 over the option. He raised to $35,000 before the negotiations had gone far. "I saw that Warren was determined to make me pay the $35,-000," said Mr. Finlan, "and I suggested that we shake dice. If Warren threw the highest I was to pay him $35,000 and take the option off his hands; if I threw the highest number I was to have the option without paying anything to Warren save his 10 per cent commission. Warren took me up. We shook the dice. He threw first. I beat him three points. I've got the mine. It is not exactly a business way of settling a difference over the price of property but is a mighty easy way and saves a lot of trouble."

BRANTFORD, ONT., SWEPT BY FLOODS.

Heavy Losses Result from the Breaking of the Ice in the Grand River.

BRANTFORD, Ont., March 6.—[Special.]—Yesterday the ice in the Grand River, which divides the city in half, began breaking up and the water to rise. People living on the "Flats" moved out, and soon the rush of water carried everything before it. Small dwellings, skating rinks, boat houses, sheds, etc., were swept away, and water ran eight feet deep in the streets of West Brantford. There are several agricultural implement works, foundries, machine shops, and other factories along the canal banks, the lower stories of which were flooded and much expensive machinery badly damaged if not entirely ruined. Two immense iron bridges belonging to the Grand Trunk and Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo railways were moved nearly a foot out of place and the earthwork approaches thereto washed away for 100 feet at each end, in consequence of which traffic is suspended in several directions. The water is subsiding tonight but the damage to property is heavy. Reports from up-river towns give details of extensive damage resulting from breaking away of mill dams.

BOMBS ON THE TRACKS

RIOTERS CAST STONES AND BRICKS THROUGH STREET CAR WINDOWS.

Non-Union Men Are Struck and Beaten by Sympathizers with the Youngstown, O., Strikers—Sheriff Issues Call for Sixty Deputies—Men Are Being Massed in Fayetteville, W. Va.—Coke Ovens to Be Opened Up and Work to Be Given to 7,500 Men.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., March 6.—[Special.]—The first street railway riot that ever occurred in this city was witnessed by thousands of citizens this afternoon on Central Square. It had been known that Manager A. A. Anderson of the electric street railway company had been bringing outside men here to take the places of the strikers, and threats of rioting were freely made if the company should attempt to run the cars. It is said the strikers themselves took no part in the proceedings.

At noon the first car, with Manager Anderson as motorman and non-union men for guards, made its appearance. One of the guards was J. B. Zumpe, the German Reformed Church preacher. When the car reached Central Square, where 2,000 men had congregated, the trolley left the wire and the car came to a standstill. It was soon surrounded and stones and bricks from the hands of the men and boys found their way through the windows. The conductor made several futile attempts to place the trolley on the wire. Stones began to rain down faster than ever, and some of the new men taking the places of the strikers were hit, but not badly injured. An attempt was made to derail the car by plugging the switches and also by exploding dynamite cartridges on the rails, but the car escaped destruction.

Another car which followed was handled in the same rough manner. A passenger, Tom Terry, was pushed off the car by the non-union men and kicked brutally.

A crowd congregated in front of the power-house this afternoon jeering at the imported men penned up there. A number of boys shoved two of the cars over the hill west of the power-house, smashing them in the collision. Persons attempting to carry food to the besieged men this afternoon met with rough treatment from the mob, the edibles being scattered over the sidewalk. Affairs presented a very ugly appearance.

The police are powerless and this evening Sheriff J. K. Orr was called upon for assistance. He has issued summons for sixty deputies, the list including the most prominent business-men. The street railroad management says the cars shall be run if the State militia has to be called out. An ugly time is expected tomorrow.

STRIKERS GATHER AT THE JAIL.

Two Gatling Guns Are Drawn Up to Eagle—To Liberate Prisoners.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 6.—There is unusual activity and secrecy at the military headquarters today. Two gatling guns and a full supply of ammunition are on their way to Eagle. A large body of strikers has left Montgomery for Fayetteville for an attack on the county jail. The strikers will attempt to liberate their brethren confined there. They will be joined by another large body of men moving toward the same point from Mount Carbon.

The crisis which was expected to come at Eagle last night failed to occur. Everything passed off quietly, Sheriff Hinman making but two more arrests. Walker Wyant and W. C. Shaub, arrested with Col. Wyant Sunday, returned to Eagle last night from Fayetteville with a guard.

Two dead and thirteen wounded is the latest report of the result of last Wednesday's fray.

The Governor says tonight there is no apprehension of further trouble among the miners. Four more arrests have been made, making a total of twenty-seven strikers apprehended thus far. The preliminary examination of the Wyants and strikers is now in progress at Fayetteville.

THOUSANDS OF MEN TO GET WORK.

GREENSBURG, Pa., March 6.—Information from a prominent official of the H. C. Frick Coke company is to the effect that within two weeks nearly every coke oven in the Connellsville region will be fired up. The move will cover at least 90 per cent of all the ovens in the region—more, it can be said, than have been in operation for three years past. At the very lowest estimate 6,000 men who are now idle will be given employment. The Hungarian and foreign element in the Connellsville region, it appears, was never so scarce as now, because hundreds have left within the last few months for their foreign homes. This fact will largely involve the employment of American labor at the work. This move on the part of the Frick company, it is also stated, is brought about by the great volume of orders coming from furnace companies and mills in various parts of the country. The McClure Coke company also will increase the percentage of working ovens fully 50 per cent, thus giving employment to about 1,500 men who are now idle.

Strike Threatens to Become General.

BELVIDERE, Ill., March 6.—[Special.]—The strike in the National Sewing Machine factory in this city continues. The polishers did not go out today, but it is only a matter of time when the strike will be general if the officials do not grant the demands of the strikers. Tonight in Adelphi Hall 1,000 workingmen and citizens listened to a speech from M. H. Madden, President of the State Federation of Labor. He advocated arbitration, but said if the strikers were not reinstated the factory would be boycotted throughout the country by organized labor and its business ruined.

Cripple Creek Miners Resume.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Colo., March 6.—The Gold King, Strong Granite, and Washington mines have resumed operations on eight-hour shifts. The miners are now sanguine of compelling every mine in the camp to adopt the eight-hour law. The Anna and Lee will commence work in a few days on the miners' terms.

Labor Brevities.

The Holland Radiator works at Bremen, Ind., resumed yesterday, giving employment to 300 men.

The Phœnix iron works of Phœnixville, Pa., have closed down. Three thousand men are thrown out of employment.

The convention of coal miners held at Pittsburg, Pa., decided to maintain the 3-cent rate for mining, but not to strike for it at present.

A riot occurred at the Bird Eye mines at Williamsburg, Ky., yesterday. One hundred union men went into a mine where non-union men were at work and compelled them to withdraw.

The humane officers of Muncie, Ind., have announced that all boys and girls under 12 years of age must cease labor in the factories and mills, as the statute directs. Hundreds are working in the factories there.

After a session today between miners and operators at Pomeroy, O., a one-fourth reduction was accepted. All mines in the Pomeroy Bend will resume work at two cents a bushel, giving employment to 2,000 men.

The Best Thing in Milk Pails is Pearline. That's the solid truth. You get them cleaner, and with less work and fuss, than with anything else you can use. It saves you so much that it's cheaper than the commonest stuff can be. Proof—the largest dairies and dealers use Pearline.

Some women are afraid of Pearline. They think that where cleaning is made so easy, there must be some harm to the thing washed. But Pearline can't hurt milk pails, anyway. And it can't hurt the finest lace or the softest hands, any more than it hurts milk pails.

Not So with the imitations—the fact that they are imitators or followers proves a lack of something. 389

GAS TRUST HEARING.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL MOLONEY FIXES IT FOR MARCH 15.

The Extra-Judicial Proceeding Is the Result of a Petition from Col. John S. Cooper to Begin Quo Warranto Proceedings Against the Company—Chinaman Goes Through the Formality of an Oriental Oath—Bold Work of Stock Yards Footpads—Local News.

Attorney-General Moloney has fixed March 15 as a day for hearing all parties in interest in Col. John S. Cooper's petition to him to begin quo warranto proceedings against the Chicago Gas company on the ground that it is a trust. Accounts of Col. Cooper's petition and of the Attorney-General's arrangement for hearing both sides have been published in THE TRIBUNE. It was indended originally that the hearing should take place last week. The Attorney-General on granting it required that copies of the trust agreements executed between the Chicago Gas company and the Philadelphia Trust company, which is trustee of the stock, should be filed with him. It developed yesterday that attorneys for the gas company had failed to produce these agreements at the time promised. In consequence of this Mr. Moloney told them yesterday morning that he would wait no longer, and that they could consider the arrangement for a hearing off.

Yesterday afternoon ex-Solicitor-General Aldrich was retained by the gas company. He called on the Attorney-General and agreed to produce the documents wanted by the latter by next Saturday. With that understanding Mr. Maloney promised to accord the hearing and set it for a week from tomorrow. He said yesterday that it might be held either in Chicago or Springfield; probably in the former if a room could be secured for the purpose.

In addition to Mr. Aldrich, Clayton E. Crafts and one or two others, it is stated, will represent the gas company at the extra-judicial hearing. Attorney-General Moloney says he understands ex-Attorney-General Hunt is among counsel connected with the gas company's side. Ex-County Attorney Henry will be associated with Col. Cooper. The latter said yesterday that his proposed quo warranto proceedings would be urged with vigor. He was confident the showing made would convince the Attorney-General that there was ample ground for an information.

TAKES OATH AND KILLS A ROOSTER.

How Yea Lung with His Little Hatchet Tells the Truth.

Live white roosters were selling at a premium in this city yesterday afternoon with Chinamen as the only takers. The various markets, grocery stores, and meat shops were searched diligently, but without success, and as a last resort the Celestials invaded South Water street. From one end of the street to the other they wandered. Every poultry house in the neighborhood was entered and the question, "Got any loosters?" asked of the proprietor. But to each question was returned a negative. Finally, at South Water and Market streets their search was rewarded and a fowl of the required sex and color was at last obtained. The price, $1, was paid and the fowl was taken in charge by one of the two Orientals, who tucked it under his shirt, and with his companion made all possible speed to the office of A. B. Frankel & Co., insurance adjusters, No. 150 La Salle street.

The cause of the unusual demand in pale-hued poultry was one Yea Lung. He was required to take a solemn oath, and to do this a white rooster, according to the Chinese custom, is a necessary adjunct. Yea Lung's cigar store, No. 366 Clark street, was destroyed by fire Feb. 24. His stock was insured for $2,500, and yesterday he was notified by the adjuster that it would be necessary for him to swear that the fire was, to his knowledge, accidental in order to get his insurance.

When the two Chinamen arrived at the office with their prize a table was prepared, the unfortunate fowl placed upon it, and a hatchet was given to Yea Lung. His left hand, wrapped in silver foil, grasped the rooster's legs and with one blow its neck was severed from its body. The oath had been taken. Sam Moy was Yea Lung's witness and two insurance adjusters were witnesses for the company. The room was filled with spectators of the unique exhibition.

FOOTPADS MAKE A ROBBING TOUR.

They Pursue Their Calling with Success Among Stock-Yards Employes.

Three footpads did a successful day's work yesterday at the Stock-Yards. Charles Marks occupies an office at Forty-seventh and Aberdeen streets. In the afternoon the three men walked in and told him to hold up his hands. They pointed three revolvers at his head. Marks demurred and received a blow on the head that knocked him senseless. Then they robbed him of his money and watch. Getting a rope from a shed near by they tied him and locked him in a closet. It was pay-day in the Stock-Yards and packing-houses, and they continued in their profitable work. At Forty-seventh and Center avenue they met James Maher and Thomas Quinn, packing-house employés, whom they robbed. Then they started north and met James Crowley, who contributed $7 to their coffers. Down the street they stopped Frank Walker and John Flynn, who were compelled to give up their earnings. The highwaymen have not been caught by the police.

Early last night unknown persons broke into Frazier's grocery house at Fifty-seventh street and Wentworth avenue. They also entered a restaurant, No. 5524 Wentworth avenue, Wold's grocery store, No. 5758 Wentworth avenue, and J. W. Gamble's grocery store, No. 6159 Wentworth avenue. Entrance into each place was gained by forcing the front door. How much they carried away is not known.

W. H. Whitmore, a switchman living at No. 208 North Western avenue, reported to the police last night that he had been seized by three footpads on Clark street bridge at 10 p. m., dragged from the bridge to the docks below, and there robbed of his watch and money. When he appeared at the City Hall he was bruised and muddy.

PATRONAGE OF THE "L" IS GROWING

Increased Traffic Since Opening of Forty-eighth Street Station.

Since the Forty-eighth street station of the Lake Street "L" was opened Saturday last a large increase in the traffic has followed. On the opening day 5,000 fares were collected at the station. Officers of the company yesterday expressed themselves of the belief that the injunction secured against the extension of the line westward would be dissolved. If that is done, the line, they say, will be pushed rapidly to Fifty-second street, which, for the present, will be the western terminus. The Board of Directors will meet today to consider the ordinance granted the company by the Town of Cicero. It is given out that the ordinance will be rejected in its present form and steps taken to obtain another more acceptable to the company.

The Stock-Yards Exchange yesterday appointed a committee consisting of W. H. Brintnall, A. B. Wilson, Jesse Sherwood, L. B. Doud, and R. Nash to see the alley "L" road officers and try to induce that company to extend a branch to the yards.

TRUAX PATENT IS SUSTAINED.

Device for the Transfusion of Blood Is an Infringement.

Judge Grosscup in the United States District Court has rendered a decision sustaining the patent of Charles Truax on a device for the transfusion of blood from animals to human beings or from one human being to another. The decision was rendered in the case of Truax against the G. F. Childs Adjustable Parlor Chair company, which had a device that Judge Grosscup held to be an infringement on the patent owned by Truax. The first apparatus ever invented for the transfusion of blood was the work of an inventor named Allen and consisted of a rubber tube in a cylinder. The blood was expelled from the tube into the veins by a roller. The court held that the Truax invention is an improvement on the first principle, as the flow of blood is regulated and all danger of the admission of air removed. An injunction was issued against the defendants.

Counterfeiter Gets a Light Fine.

Oscar M. Farber was fined $50 yesterday by Judge Bunn in the United States District Court for making counterfeit money. When arrested Farber had a coal office on Center avenue near Kinzie street. In his office was employed Mrs. Cora Jacobs. Farber told the jury that his father, Frank Farber, taught him the secret of making counterfeit money in order to bring about his arrest that he might be separated from Mrs. Jacobs, to whom the father was bitterly opposed. In default of payment of the fine, Farber was sent to jail.

Amateur Detective Is in Trouble.

Leslie Newton, a milk dealer of No. 170 Plymouth street, shot and dangerously wounded Harry Clark yesterday. Newton has missed several cans of milk from his wagon lately. In an effort to catch the thief he hired a man to drive his wagon while he watched at a safe distance. Yesterday morning at No. 405 State street Newton saw Clark take a can of milk. Newton drew his revolver and fired. Clark was taken to the County Hospital and Newton was locked up. The physicians say there are slight chances for Clark's recovery.

Ex-Ald. Roth Sued for Damage.

Ex-Ald. Salo W. Roth is made defendant in a $17,000 damage suit in the Circuit Court as a result of the City Council boodle inquiry of 1892. Ex-Ald. Nicholas A. Cremer is the plaintiff. He says Mr. Roth falsely and maliciously charged him with bribery. As a result of this the plaintiff was indicted and arrested and held under bail to appear in the Criminal Court. Judge Collins discharged him, he says, but he had to expend $1,500 in attorneys' fees. For this and the injury to his character and the inconvenience damages are sought.

Charged with Striking Miss Powers.

John J. McDermid, a Board of Trade man, was arraigned in Justice Bradwell's court yesterday on a charge of assault and battery. Nellie Powers, who was cook for Mr. McDermid, was the complainant. She told the Justice that he struck her and drove her into the street. Mr. McDermid said Miss Powers went on a strike Saturday. He called her, paid her off, and told her to leave the house. The case was dismissed.

More Cases of Smallpox.

There are now 148 cases in the smallpox hospital. The following persons were taken there yesterday: Thomas Stalotshe, No. 595 West Twenty-fifth street; Robert Lamb, City Hall; Frank Paul, No. 670 Allport avenue; H. J. Ward, No. 107 Clinton street; W. H. Smith, No. 147 South Green street; Joseph Baird and James Leonard, Lakeside Free Soup Kitchen.

Floods at Washington Heights.

The vicinity of Washington Heights was flooded yesterday morning. A break in a sewer at One Hundred and Third street and Vincennes avenue caused the damage. In places the water stood a foot deep over the sidewalks, and cellars and basements were flooded. The Sewer Department, however, received few complaints of flooded basements.

Bids for Tickets Are Referred.

The Executive committee of the World's Fair directors held a short session yesterday. Bids for the souvenir tickets remaining on hand were referred to a special committee consisting of Treasurer Seeberger and Solicitor-General Walker. President Higinbotham leaves for Southern California today. He will visit the Midwinter Fair.

Charged with Selling Mortgaged Goods.

J. R. Rice, who until recently was the proprietor of the Hotel Centenary, Morgan and Monroe streets, has been arrested on a charge of selling mortgaged goods and will have a hearing in Justice Lyon's court at 1 p. m. today. Ten or fifteen boarders, it is understood, have been subpœnaed to appear. J. B. Seeley is complainant.

Bomb Explodes in a Hallway.

A gas pipe bomb exploded in the hallway of the three-story building at No. 152 Nineteenth street at 2 o'clock yesterday morning and badly wrecked the building. The police have been unable to find any clew to the person who threw the bomb. No one was injured. The house is occupied by Kitty Dean.

TITLES TO THEIR HOMES NOT CLEAR.

Result of B. W. Hitchcock's Sales of Lots in Suburban Towns.

NEW YORK, March 6.—Two thousand people who bought suburban property of Benjamin W. Hitchcock are finding out that their titles are not clear and they may have to pay again for their homes. Hitchcock made an assignment Aug. 4, 1893, to Fred A. Silverstone. For the last month lotowners have been flocking to the assignee's office. Hitchcock was a music publisher but undertook to carry on too many enterprises. He was unable to complete his schemes, and the deeds given innocent purchasers of lots conveyed no clear titles because of blanket mortgages covering all the land. The unfortunate buyers are in great distress over the prospective loss of their homes. Palisades, N. J., Union Course, Corona Heights, and a tract in Flushing are involved.

Going Backward.

New York Sun (Dem.): The government receipts from customs duties since June 30, 1893, have fallen to $92,000,000 from $138,000,000 during the corresponding period a year ago; and a deficit is the condition which now confronts us. This is anti-Democratic. In 1835, when Andrew Jackson was President, there was a balance of $26,000,000 in the Treasury at the end of the year; the whole national debt of the United States was only $37,000, the year's interest upon it being $328.20; and the receipts from customs, with no income tax, were $2,000,000 in excess of the entire Federal expenses.

Chicago the Predestined Metropolis.

Philadelphia Record: Gov. Flower in signing the bill for a greater New York admits that the idea was inspired by the Chicago Fair, and in the true spirit of home pride betrays a yearning that New York may outstrip the Prairie City. It is a laudable ambition, yet there are other elements of municipal greatness than expanse of territory. In that sort of competition Chicago is predestined to get the best of New York in the long run.

Heard in Chicago.

Toledo Blade: "What a beautiful aquarelle that is!" said a North Side lady to a South Side companion as they stopped in front of a picture. "Beggin' of your pardon, mum," said a Stock Yards "lady," who was looking at the same picture; "but it's not a ack-what-you-call-it, but a water-cooler, as I heard the artist who painted it just tell a leddy who was with him."

SCORES A BIG SUCCESS.

CHICAGO UNIVERSITY GLEE AND SERENADE CLUBS' PREMIER.

Lack of "Ginger" at First Causes an Interview from President Harper and H. H. Kohlsaat—After That the Boys Do Magnificently—Large Audience at Central Music Hall—Will Make a Tour—Names of the Members of the Clubs—Other Social Events.

The University of Chicago Glee and Serenade clubs made their début last night in Central Music Hall. There was a large audience, and Yale or Harvard never created more enthusiasm. Fashionable men and women, grave professors, and mercantile leaders cheered and yelled at the boys, and the result was that every number on the long program was given an encore. The clubs scored a success at the beginning of their stage career and will go on a tour with a huge bunch of laurels culled in their own town. During the first part of the evening the boys "lacked ginger," as Dr. Harper expressed it. They were slow in "coming on" and seemed limp and nervous. Dr. Harper and H. H. Kohlsaat were appointed a committee to remedy this slight defect and when the two returned from the greenroom they saw a great change. The boys came out with a rush, and from that time there was no dragging. Following is the program rendered:

To Remove the Battleship Illinois.

The Board of Officers of the Illinois Naval Battalion met at the Grand Pacific last night to discuss the removal of the model battleship from Jackson Park to the lake at the foot of Van Buren street. F. W. Grogan, the architect of the Navy Department, who planned and superintended the building of the model ship, assured the battalion that the removal could be accomplished in safety, and he agreed to superintend the same. He exhibited to the meeting the plans and elevations of the new location and pointed out the amount of work needed. He estimated the cost at $50,000. The board decided to call upon the citizens for financial help in bearing the expense of removing the ship. The committee to solicit aid consists of Gen. H. A. Wheeler, Charles T. Adams, Maj. H. L. Waite, Col. Leroy T. Steward, and Capt. B. M. Shaffner.

Oakland Methodists Received.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Oakland M. E. Church held a reunion, social, and reception at the church last evening as the third day's feature of the silver anniversary. Hundreds of the members of the church and their friends thronged the parlors and renewed old associations. In the auditorium there was a platform meeting at 8 o'clock for the greeting of former pastors of the church. Conspicuous among these was Dr. C. E. Mandeville, the first pastor. Tomorrow night the congregation will enjoy a reminiscent love-feast, after which communion will be administered.

Children's Night at the Oakland.

It was children's night at the Oakland club last night. For seven years past it has been the custom of the club to devote one night each year to the children. One hundred and sixty children took part in the dancing program of eight numbers and the supper that followed. By 10 o'clock all were at home.

Social Notes.

Walter Spry, assisted by Carrie A. Woods, gave a piano recital last evening before the students of the Department of Music at Northwestern University.

The German club of Northwestern University held its last meeting for this term in the chapel of Woman's Hall last night. A German comedy entitled "Ein Knopf" was presented.

A dramatic recital will be given by members of the dramatic department of the Chicago Conservatory for the benefit of Wall street relief station at Oakland club-house, Thirty-ninth street and Ellis avenue, tonight at 8 o'clock, under direction of Miss Morgan.

The Hyde Park M. E. Church gave a concert last evening for the benefit of the church fund. Mrs. Frances P. Grant, pianist; Miss Jessie G. Patton, elocutionist; Frank A. Hazen, pianist; and Miss Lilleth Castlebury, vocalist, took part. After the program coffee was served.

MRS. LEASE IS AN IRISH HEIRESS.

WICHITA, Kas., March 6.—[Special.]—Mrs. Mary E. Lease received information today from Ireland that one of her maiden aunts had died several years ago, leaving a considerable fortune, of which she is one of the beneficiaries. The will was made nineteen years ago in Dundalk County, South Ireland, and the money has been accumulating at interest. The money was left to Mary Elizabeth Cline, and the connection between the daughter of Erin and the Kansas woman has only just been established in the minds of the trustees.

Sues for Land Worth $1,000,000.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 6.—A suit was filed in the Circuit Court this afternoon by John Mulholland, a banker, against Millionaire John I. Blair of Blairstown, N. J., to recover the share of Samuel C. Schaefer in the land known as the Thomas West tract, near Sheffield, valued at about $1,000,000. Mulholland claims to have purchased all of Schaefer's two-fifths interest in the land, which was awarded him recently in a decision by the United States Supreme Court. Schaefer is now a fugitive from justice, having fled the country while awaiting trial in the Criminal Court for embezzling from Mr. Blair, his associate in many enterprises. He was last reported to be in Brazil.

Senatorial Bowing and Scraping.

St. Louis Republic (Dem.): The Democratic Senators are imposing unnecessarily a burden upon the working campaign forces of the party. It is true that the obstruction is chiefly Republican, but the Democratic orators and newspapers will be called upon to explain why a Democratic Senate took months to do a few days' work. The Senators are leaving little time for defense and explanation. They are consuming so much in ceremonious bowing and scraping to each other that the party will be reduced to an insufficient allowance for a successful defense of Senatorial tardiness.

RUFUS S. FROST BREATHES HIS LAST.

Boston Capitalist Dies in His Private Car in Dearborn Station.

Rufus S. Frost, a noted manufacturer, banker, and politician of Boston, Mass., died at 1 p. m. yesterday in his private car at the Dearborn street station. Mr. Frost, accompanied by his wife, had been on a long trip, extending through Mexico and California, for the benefit of his health. He was attended by Dr. J. A. Copeland, the family physician. Last Friday, at Pueblo, Cal., Mr. Frost was compelled to take his bed. While in Mexico he was prostrated by intestinal troubles and wanted to return to the States as quickly as possible. On reaching Pueblo he became worse and the party decided to return immediately to Chelsea, Mass., a suburb of Boston, where the family live. Mr. and Mrs. Frost and Dr. Copeland arrived in Chicago at 9:10 a. m. yesterday over the Santa Fé from Kansas City. They intended leaving for Boston last night over the Grand Trunk. On arriving here Mr. Frost became suddenly worse and Dr. Copeland saw at a glance that his death was only a question of a few hours. Mrs. Frost was told and she remained at her husband's side until he breathed his last. The remains were prepared for transportation today to Chelsea, where the funeral will take place. Mrs. Frost was completely prostrated by her husband's death. She was taken to the Auditorium Hotel for a rest. Albert F. Frost, the only son living, is expected this morning. Mrs. Frost was one of the lady managers of the Massachusetts Building at the World's Fair. She was a social favorite in Chicago last summer.

[Rufus S. Frost was born in Marlboro, N. H., in 1826 and removed with his mother to Boston when 7 years of age. He had been twice Mayor of Chelsea. In 1871-'72 he was a member of the State Senate and in 1873-'74 he was a member of the Governor's Council. In 1874 Mr. Frost was elected to the Forty-fourth Congress and served on the Committees on Railroads and Freedmen's Affairs. He was also interested in several big woolen industries in the West and was a millionaire several times over. He first engaged in the dry goods and woolen commission business at Boston under the firm name of Rufus Frost & Co. He devoted part of his time to banking. Six years ago he was appointed President of the North National Bank of Boston. He established dry goods commission branches in New York and Chicago, and when he accepted the Presidency of the North National Bank he turned over his dry goods interest to his eldest son, Albert F. Frost, who is now manager of the New York house. The firm is now known as Frost, Greely & Cushing, Mr. Greely being a son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Frost. The Chicago branch is conducted at No. 269 Dearborn street. Of late Mr. Frost practically devoted his time to pleasure trips for the benefit of his health. He leaves one son and two married daughters, Mrs. S. W. Hale of Keene, N. H., and Mrs. Rufus S. Greely of New York.]

Richest Woman in Boston.

THEY ADMIT CHICAGO'S POSTAL NEEDS.

Commission Will Do All in Its Power to Improve Local Facilities.

Postmaster Hesing gave a private banquet last night at the Richelieu to the Postal Commission and heads of departments in his Postoffice, in all eighteen. The party sat down to dinner at 7 p. m., Second Assistant Postmaster-General Jones alone sending his regrets, and discussed in an informal way the needs of the postal service in Chicago from 8 p. m. until near midnight. Every one present made an address. Commissioner Machen admitted that the investigation already had satisfied the commission of the gross injustice done Chicago in the matter of postal facilities. He assured Postmaster Hesing and his subordinates that if earnest and radical recommendations would do any good every defect would be remedied and the service here would be made as good as any in the United States. He said the only serious objection that could be offered to doing this was that the street nomenclature of the city was in such confusion that a system of free delivery would be unusually costly if not impossible. Commissioners Spangler and Stuart spoke to the same effect. Mayor Hopkins said he would solemnly promise the commission, for the Mayor and Chicago, that all objection based on the confused street nomenclature would be removed at an early day.

The commission put in the day collecting the mass of facts and figures which had been furnished by the Postmaster and his assistants the day before. Considerable time was spent also in examining maps of the city to familiarize the members with the location of the present postal stations. The commission has authority to send out at any time for heads of divisions or employés of the Postoffice and examine them to procure further information, but nobody was sent for yesterday.

When the Exposition "Flyer" made its daily trips between this city and the Eastern metropolis a man could have gone to New York, transacted business, and returned to Chicago in quicker time than it took two letters mailed in Chicago Sunday, on Sacramento avenue, to reach the places of business to which they were addressed on Monroe street. E. A. Davis says that he mailed two checks on Sunday morning at 11:30 o'clock on Sacramento avenue and addressed to people at No. 140 and No. 172 Monroe street. The checks had not reached their destination Monday and Mr. Davis was fearful of loss. They came to hand yesterday morning, however, having made the journey of three and one-half miles in a little less than forty-eight hours.

The Commission will witness the annual inspection of the carrier and collector force at 3 p. m. Sunday. The rendezvous is to be on Quincy street. The sidewalk on the south side will be occupied by the carriers, numbering as follows:

General office 269, North Division 73, Lake View 26, Humboldt Park 16, Southwest Station 70, Madison street 63, West Division 33, South Division 51, Stock-Yards 40, Cottage Grove 34, Hyde Park 33, and South Chicago 17.

The collectors, consisting of 139 men, and seventy-seven horses and wagons will form in the same place. The line of march will be along Dearborn, Adams, Clark, Jackson, Dearborn, and Monroe streets to State street. A reviewing stand will be erected at the main entrance of the Postoffice on Dearborn street, where the Postmaster and the Postal Commission will look upon the parade.

Richard H. Hennegen

Of the late firm of Hennegen & Newton, hatters, 103 Madison street (Inter-Ocean Building), left yesterday for the East via M. C. and N. Y. C. R. R. Expected to have got off Monday, but was detained by the labor involved in perfecting and setting in operation a great coupon discount sale commenced yesterday as per announcement in the Sunday papers. After a few days' visit to his old home and birthplace, Rochester, N. Y., he will make a flying trip to New York, Boston, Philadelphia, and Baltimore for the purpose of placing orders that will restock the old quarters on the completion of the present coupon discount sale. To handle high class goods, correct styles, and at moderate prices will be his aim on assuming business May 1, the date of expiration of present copartnership lease.

NEARING THE VERDICT

TRIAL OF DAN COUGHLIN WILL BE ENDED TODAY.

Whatever the Result It Is Agreed That the Case Will Be Finished—Prosecutor Bottum Resumes His Plea—Much Attention Paid to the Testimony of Bardeen—His Credibility, It Is Urged, Has Not Been Shaken by the Theories of the Defense.

Four solid months of inquiry into Dr. Cronin's murder are drawing to their last hours. Today Mr. Bottum will end his speech and with it will end the Coughlin case. Whatever the result, there will never be another trial. Whether—as nearly every one thinks—the jury disagrees, whether it convicts, as the State desires, or whether it gives Daniel Coughlin his freedom will be known within a few hours.

There will never be another trial. If the jury disagrees or is "hung" that will be the end of it. Coughlin will apply for bail, will get it, and will not be tried again. Only the man who "hangs" that jury may expect to hear something about it. The trial has cost the State a vast sum, and its officers promise to raise several kinds of trouble if certain suspected men are implicated.

As his speech draws to a close Mr. Bottum's address gains in power:

"The men who made those blood stains in that cottage," he said yesterday, "have violated God's law and commandment. I commend them to his mercy. I might almost commend them to your mercy, but I remember that when on that fatal night mercy came knocking tearfully, pleadingly at that cottage door these men turned her away, thrust her into the street, and would not listen to the tones of her voice. Would to God they had, for it is because they would not listen to the voice of Mercy then that now her sister Justice speaks to you and demands that you will hear her voice; and, gentlemen of the jury, hear it you must."

This came as the culmination to a word-picture of the night of May 4. Mr. Bottum said:

If this testimony is true as to the condition of the cottage outside of the testimony of Mrs. Hoertel, the Carlsons, and the microscopic examination, you would be justified in believing that the cottage was the scene of a crime. If there were only these two facts, the taking away of the carpet and the painting of the floor to identify this cottage as the scene of a crime, you would be justified in presuming it. Now this key that was found in the Carlson cottage shows that the man who opened the trunk did not have the key. The man who dropped the key dropped it so that it was just far enough under the washer that the paint brush struck a part of the key. If the job had been put up by anybody the whole key would have been painted. Take the key and the lock and the trunk and all the testimony in connection with them, and the hairs and the blood, and see whether in your minds and hearts and consciences it is not a settled fact that the Carlson cottage was the scene of the homicide.

Bardeen's Testimony Considered.

Let me now call your attention to the examination of Bardeen in the Judge's room. I turned this man Bardeen over to Mr. Wing to do with him as he would. I made up my mind if his story would not stand the test of cross-examination it was not worthy to be believed by this jury. Bardeen tells a story, which, if you believe it, will go a long way towards settling any doubts which you may have on the other facts in the case. If his story is not true five or six different people could have come in and contradicted it. They bring in only Walter Eaton. The evidence of the defense supports the credibility of Bardeen so far as the headlight being there is concerned.

Then we come to the next question: Did Bardeen on that night turn the headlight on this defendant? Now there is another way in which Bardeen's testimony was vulnerable, and that was this: He said he lived within two doors of the Chicago Avenue Station and that he saw Daniel Coughlin thirty or forty times, and my impression is that either Tim Scanlan pointed him out or introduced him. There was a square fact. Tim Scanlan was within six or eight blocks of here, everybody knows him. There was a place where Bardeen's story was vulnerable and might have been contradicted in all these essential parts by the defense if they had produced that witness; but yet it stands uncontradicted here that Bardeen was living within two doors of the Chicago Avenue Station, and that he had seen Coughlin, and that he was up at the electric light works in Evanston from the 1st of May down to the 10th or thereabouts. These facts are uncontradicted, and that brings us down to the real and main question: Did he turn the light on the defendant Coughlin on that night? Bardeen's testimony, if credible, settles the fact that Daniel Coughlin did have some connection with some trunk, and my brother Wing gives it conclusive force. Now look at the theories about Bardeen and ask yourselves what motive influenced Bardeen in coming here to testify in this case. Mr. Donahoe says he is a mixture of a madman and a knave, that he came here for money, and that he is a religious enthusiast. Mr. Wing says: "I suppose I may call him—inasmuch as he was passing from Kansas City to Chicago—a mere transitory liar."

Now, gentleman of the jury, you must know that men do not abandon the paths of truth except for greater provocation than that selected by my brother Wing. Why, think of it! Here is a young man with a family, apparently with an occupation, apparently with respectable surroundings, so absolutely infatuated, according to Mr. Wing, with his own powers of imagination that for the purpose of bolstering up himself he comes here and tells you twelve men a story that puts the defendant in this case in great peril of his life or his liberty. I do not think you believe it. I think the theory of my brother Donahoe, if he may be dignified by that name, is a much more rational one, and you must determine whether it is true, and that leads us right down and we cannot help discussing the subject of religious beliefs, because my brother Donahoe says if a man acting under what he believes to be the inspiration of God says he won't doctor his children for smallpox then that is something that affects his veracity, and you should not believe him. Gentlemen of the jury, this world's history would have been written in vain if brother Donahoe's theory is true.

And then Mr. Bottum paid an eloquent tribute to the religious leaders in ancient and modern times, and dwelt at great length upon the unselfish devotion with which Father Damien, the founder of the creed of the Christian Scientists, gave his life to the reclamation of the lepers.

Theories of Defense Faulty.

Then the prosecutor went on:

I do not doubt that Bardeen was nervous. I would have been nervous myself. It may be that things came to him that he had not remembered in the Judge's room, but the substantial part of the narrative is the same. If you believe that he came here influenced by malice or hate, or money, or the desire of idle fame, or that he is suffering from aberration of the mind, cast his story out. Unless you believe this was a perfect identification of Coughlin, cast this story out of your minds. You cannot explain Bardeen out of this case upon any of the theories propounded by the defense, and you can reconcile his testimony as truthful. As jurors it is your duty to do that if you can.

Chief Brennan yesterday had a talk with Officer O'Toole, who is said to have been making a collection for the benefit of the Coughlin defense fund. The officer denied that he has been making a collection for any purpose, and the Chief says he was unable to get from him anything which tended to show that he was not telling the truth.

Patrick Cummings, owner of the premises at No. 338 North Franklin street, yesterday began a forcible detainer suit in Justice Gibbons' court against Mrs. Andrew Foy. In the afternoon Constable McNally served notice on Mrs. Foy that she would have to vacate the apartments she now occupies within five days. The cause of the action is an alleged unpaid rental of $48.

HE ORDERS THE ALLEYS CLEANED.

Mayor Finds Himself Buried Under a Mountain of Complaints.

Mayor Hopkins sent for Supt. Schofield yesterday and ordered him to put a number of teams at work in the outlying wards to remove the garbage and to clean the alleys.

"Let us have one good scrubbing," he said, "before we let the contracts for the street-cleaning. I understand an order to let the scavenger work by contract will be introduced at the next meeting of the Council. I have no objection to that. But there ought to be a thorough cleaning before then. Owing to the recent heavy snows it has been found impossible to give a good scrubbing up. Well, we shall have at least one this spring, though our appropriation is rather meager."

Supt. Schofield promised to act on the Mayor's instructions. Before Mayor Hopkins ordered Supt. Schofield to reduce the number of teams in his department by half the number of complaints of overrunning garbage boxes averaged eighteen to twenty a week. Soon after the number of complaints began to increase. They kept on increasing as signs of spring weather began to appear until last week the complaints numbered 400. This week they began coming in at a rate which, if maintained, will make a total of 800 for the week. But these are not all the complaints. A vast number of them come to the Health Department. Indeed, so great has the number become that Commissioner Reynolds has printed a circular letter directing all complainants to the Bureau of Street and Alley Cleaning.

Supt. Schofield reported all these things to the Mayor yesterday, and also that he had but 200 teams in his bureau. He asked for 190 more. As a reason for engaging them he called attention to the fact that he is now running his bureau on less than the amount of the appropriation for the department.

Supt. Schofield is preparing to advertise for bids for street and alley cleaning by contract, and said yesterday the work would be commenced under that plan before the end of the month.

IRREGULARITY IN DRAWING JURORS.

County Board Judiciary Committee Finds It—Report to Be Made.

County Commissioners Lundberg, Allen, and Peacock, the Judiciary committee of the County Board, began yesterday their investigation of the system employed in drawing juries for the various county courts. Chairman Lundberg said he found irregularities in the system employed in drawing jurors in the County Clerk's office. When the jury list, containing fome 2,000 or more names, was submitted to the board by the jury clerks, approved and sent to the County Clerk, the names were transcribed from the rolls to cards of a uniform size. These were placed in a revolving wheel and were afterwards drawn in much the same manner as in a lottery drawing. "Here is where the irregularities begin," explained Chairman Lundberg. "A jury clerk makes a demand for seventy-five jurors for veniremen. The law requires that many names to be drawn from the box and that the persons be notified and summoned to appear. Instead of drawing seventy-five the clerk draws 200 or 300 or more as he pleases and then makes a selection of the seventy-five that suit him best. The cards left are then turned back into the box. The seventy-five selected are turned over to the summons clerk. When the clerk is through with the cards he is supposed to turn them over to the chief jury clerk so that a record of the citizens calling for service may be kept according to law. Chief Jury Clerk Kallis says he has received not one of these cards this year, but last year they were turned in regularly. However, among those turned in last year are found many with erasures and apparently other names than those originally written." The committee probably will meet again today. A report will be made to the Public Service committee Friday.

Metropolitan "L" Branches.

Commissioner Jones received from the Metropolitan Elevated road yesterday plans showing the routes of the Logan Square and Humboldt Park branches. The Logan Square line extends from the main line between Marshfield avenue and Paulina street and between Congress and Van Buren streets west and north between Paulina and Wood streets to Ellen street, between Luli place and Milwaukee avenue, thence in a northwesterly direction practically parallel with and within 160 feet of the southwest line of Milwaukee avenue to Humboldt Park, between Linden place and Logan Square. The Humboldt Park line extends from the junction of the Logan Square line near Milwaukee avenue to Kedzie avenue, between North and Milwaukee avenues.

South Side Trolley to Be Vetoed.

Mayor Hopkins said yesterday he would send the South Side trolley ordinances back to the Council. He will insist on center steel poles with cross arms. He may insist also on the City Railway company placing electric lamps on these poles and maintaining them for electric illumination by way of compensation.

To Consider Track Elevation.

Ald. Sexton's Special Committee on Track Elevation will meet today to consider the ordinance for the elevation of the Lake Shore and Rock Island tracks.

Municipal Notes.

An injunction granted by Judge Blanke yesterday on application of the Pennsylvania road restrains Fitz-Simons & Connell from tearing away a dock belonging to the company near the Van Buren street bridge. The defendants are building the new bridge across the river at that point.

Collector Daniel Clifford, in his answer to the bill filed by the International and Wells Packing company, to prevent him from levying a tax upon their property, says both concerns under the name of the International and Wells Packing company have transacted business jointly in the Town of Lake up to the present time, that the complainants did not object to the manner of assessment at the time it was made, and that he believes the tax as assessed perfectly just. Clifford asks to have the bill dismissed.

VICTORY FOR M'GANN.

HE CAN CONSTRUCT HIS ELECTRIC STREET RAILROAD.

Judge Tuley Dismisses the Vanderpool Injunction and Places the Company Under Bonds to Pay Damages—United States Court of Appeals Leaves the Federal Pile and Will Begin Business Today in the Monadnock Building—Decisions Handed Down—Court Calls for Today.

The West and South Town Street railway company can now complete its electric line on Twenty-second street. The injunction obtained by John Vanderpool a year ago restraining the completion of the line between Lincoln and May streets was dissolved yesterday by Judge Tuley. It was charged by Vanderpool, who is a Twenty-second street property-owner, that a sufficient amount of frontage had not been secured by the company and an attack was made on the validity of the city ordinance under which the company operates.

The Street railway company was organized to give residents of the West Side close and rapid connection with the South Side lines. C. L. Bonney is President of the company and Congressman L. E. McGann is Vice-President and General Manager. A franchise was secured in the City Council giving the company the right to occupy ten miles of streets. The main line was designed to run along Twenty-second street, between the terminus of the City railway line at the river and the suburb of Lawndale. Before track-laying was commenced Mr. Vanderpool filed his bill and secured an injunction restraining the company from proceeding with the construction. This was in January, 1893, and six months later Attorney Merritt Starr, who represents the company, secured a modification limiting the injunction to the mile of street between Lincoln and May streets. West of Lincoln street the construction was completed and the company has been operating that much of the line. Recently affidavits were filed on behalf of the company in court and Attorney Starr and C. C. Bonney moved for the dissolution of the injunction. In the affidavits it was charged that Charles T. Yerkes was at the back of the complainant and that the real purpose of the proceeding was to crush competition with the West Side cable and horse-car lines.

After reviewing the allegations of insufficient frontage the court says: "There is also another consideration which has entered into the decision, and that is the grave doubt arising whether or not this bill is prosecuted in good faith and for the protection of the complainant's rights. There is also evidence tending to show that the suit is being prosecuted for speculative purposes." The court says affidavits have been submitted showing that the defendants were not standing the defense of the litigation and that Mr. Yerkes was interested in the suit. Denial of these charges, the court says, is made in counter affidavits, but he says the showing of the complainants is not satisfactory. "When a party seeking the aid of this court," continues the Judge, "suppresses or conceals or withholds information which would enable the court to pass upon the merits of so grave a charge he cannot complain if the court in the exercise of its discretion denies the prohibitive writ of injunction to protect his alleged rights. Upon the grounds that there are grave doubts as to the rights of these complainants to maintain a bill for an injunction for the reasons heretofore specified and because the proofs tend to show that the complainants are prosecuting the suit for purposes other than the protection of their own property rights the court will grant the defendant's motion."

The court also holds that the complainants were guilty of laches in holding off the suit until the road had been nearly completed, and in conclusion says that the execution by the defendant company of a bond to protect the complainants is sufficient.

The attorneys were then directed to prepare an order in accordance with the opinion, and the railroad company was required to file a $25,000 bond, out of which the complainant may recover any damage he might suffer by the completion of the road.

President Bonney said the work of constructing the line of road between May and Lincoln streets would be commenced at once. "We expect to have the road in operation from its terminus east of the river at the Twenty-second street bridge to Lawndale by May next," he said. "After a while we will run our cars over the rails of the Chicago City railway company to Lake Michigan. Five other suits similar to that of Mr. Vanderpool are now pending in court, but in view of this opinion of the court I believe we shall dispose of the litigation without much delay."

Moran, Kraus & Mayer, Black & Fitzgerald, and Judge C. F. D. Smith appeared for the complainants. John S. Miller and M. Starr were counsel for the street railway.

COURT OF APPEALS IN NEW ROOMS.

United States Tribunal Quits the Federal Ruin—Decisions Handed Down.

The United States Court of Appeals yesterday abandoned the old Government Building, and this morning the court will meet in its new quarters in the Monadnock Block. Improvised furniture will be used for the present. The court yesterday decided the following cases:

Hiram Mabury vs. Louisville and Jeffersonville Ferry Company, reversed; W. S. Stevens vs. Norah G. Clark et al., appeal dismissed; Baltimore and Ohio Railroad vs. John E. Myers, affirmed; Hyman Cohen vs. The West Chicago Street Railway, reversed.

Judges Woods, Jenkins, and Baker sat. The decision in the case of Hymen Cohen against the West Chicago Street railway company, reversing the judgment of the United States Circuit Court here, dealt with the following facts. Cohen, while trying to board a Madison street grip car at Halsted street, was thrown down by the sudden starting of the car and dragged some distance. He sued for damages. The jury brought in a verdict in favor of the company. Judge Bunn said yesterday: "The conductor of a street car is bound to know when he starts his car suddenly and with full force that no person attempting to embark is in a position of danger."

Land Syndicate in Court Again.

The Women's Land syndicate is again made a subject of litigation in a Circuit Court bill filed yesterday. A receiver is applied for and the court is asked to appoint as trustees of the syndicate for stockholders' benefit, Carl E. Sayler, Mrs. R. A. Emmons, Mrs. J. B. Hobbs, the Rev. Henrietta G. Moore, James B. Hobbs, Calvin Dickey, the Commercial Loan and Trust company, Joseph Morris, Franklin W. Ganse, and Bryan G. Craig. Complainants are Ada D. Gates, Emily M. Darling, Maria L. Foxworthy, Elizabeth Hawley, May F. Gates, Martha Lilia Steel, Ellen A. Bartlett, and Mrs. Ida Doty. Allegations of fraud and deception are made. C. E. Sayler is charged with being the promoter of the syndicate scheme. It is alleged that not less than $700,000 has been kept back from the bondholders and "parceled out among the defendants and their favorites, aiders, and abettors." Of the funds which are said to have disappeared the complaining bondholders charge that money retained by C. E. Sayler amounts to $500,000.

WILL FIGHT TO GET THE CITY HALL.

Attorney Judd to Make a Formal Demand and Then Go to the Courts.

At the next meeting of the County Board County Attorney Judd will present for approval an order making a formal demand upon the city for the possession of the City Hall. Mr. Judd said yesterday: "The board has ordered me to begin suit against the city, but there is another step necessary. It is necessary for the plaintiffs to make formal demand for possession. I shall ask the County Board to pass an order making the demand. The city, of course, will refuse to comply and then I shall file a suit on behalf of the county. This suit will probably be filed in the Circuit Court. I expect to force the fight and to be able to go before the Supreme Court at the October term of this year. As for compensating the city I don't believe the courts will decide that it is necessary." Should the county succeed a new building may be put up on the entire block. "If the county were to win," said Corporation Counsel Rubens, "we could enter into a trade with the government, giving it a part of the Lake-Front upon which to erect a postoffice, and, taking the present site of the Postoffice, we could erect there a modern city building, using for a large part of the payment the money which a court of equity would certainly give us for this building if the suit were decided against us. But I don't think the county has a case."

PETITION TO REDUCE BLACK'S PENSION.

Grand Army Men Appreciate the Joke Perpetrated by Congressman Hopkins.

Local Grand Army men keenly relish the joke in Congress on Gen. J. C. Black which was perpetrated by Congressman Hopkins Monday. Mr. Hopkins filed a petition, signed by fifty or sixty old soldiers of Aurora, asking that Gen. Black's pension of $100 a month be reduced to $50, and that the pension of Judge Long of Michigan be made $100 per month. "As I understand the case," a Grand Army man said, "the disability of Judge Long is about the same as that of Gen. Black. The Democrats cut off Judge Long's pension and branded him a fraud. Now no one would suspect that Gen. Black was drawing a pension any more than Judge Long was. I believe that both men are entitled to what the government paid them, but if one is cut off the other ought to be." At the Pension office permission to look at the books to see the nature of Gen. Black's disability was refused. "The Commissioner of Pensions," said the Pension Agent, "has recently given us orders not to divulge the nature of the disability of the pensioners and has instructed us to strictly enforce that rule. I do not know the cause of the order."

LOCAL DREDGERS SEEK PROTECTION.

Say Government Engineers Are Ruining Their Business.

The dredging companies of Chicago are about to perfect an organization to resist the encroachments of the government engineers on their business. For some years, the dredgers say, there has been a disposition on the part of the government people to build their own dredging machines, causing a loss of revenue to the dredging contractors. A meeting of a large number of the dredging people of the city was held at the Sherman House yesterday afternoon. The assertion was made that the engineers were in the habit of providing specifications in asking for bids that no contractor could comply with, and in that manner secured the necessary authority to build dredging machines. Those present at the meeting took the position that unless the contractors organized and stood together the engineers would crush them out one by one, and the dredging of the harbor and rivers would soon be done by government dredges. A committee was appointed to formulate a plan of resistance.

GRAND JURY AT ROBY

THE INDIANA RACE TRACK IS CAREFULLY LOOKED OVER.

The Members Naturally Refuse to Express an Opinion—But Two Favorites Win, Both of Them on the End of the Day's Sport—Golo Tips Over a Hot Favorite in Airtight—Old Bankrupt Wins at Long Odds and Linden Boy, Craft, and McGinty Earn Brackets.

The Lake County grand jury, consisting of Peter Geisen, Crown Point, foreman; R. J. Wilson, Hebron; J. B. Daly, Lowell; Henry Sieger, Crown Point; Eli Edmunds, Lowell; and William Newman, Highland, visited the Roby track and looked it over carefully. They of course refused to express any opinion. A report will be handed in within a few days.

But two favorites won, but luckily for the talent they came on the end. In the opening race Airtight was made a hot favorite and played as though it was all over but the shouting. Montclair was a strong second choice. Off second Knapp allowed him to fall out of it in the first furlong and he never got up again. Airtight led to within a few jumps of the wire, but when Golo, a 6 to 1 shot, caught him he stopped like a dog, and Golo won handily on the end.

Tom Mackin was a hot favorite in the second race, but did not get into the first three. Old Bankrupt was singularly overlooked. Reve d'Or made all the running until a furlong from home, where Bankrupt moved up and won in a gallop.

In the third race Teeta May was made a hot favorite and led into the stretch. Coming home there was a general closing and Linden Boy, at 8 to 1, got up just in time to win by a head from Uphate, a 100 to 1 shot. Teeta May was a head back.

Craft was played off the boards to win the fourth race and went to the post at 3 to 5. When Mr. Dwyer dropped the flag they were well lined up, but Craft was slow in getting on his stride and was cut off. It looked hopeless for him, but Griffin rated him along steadily and by the time that they reached the home stretch he was in a good position. E. H. Sherley appeared to have the race in hand, but Craft, gaining steadily, nipped him at the wire and won by a half length.

Jim Duffy Climbs a Fence.

There was a gray horse called Jim Duffy in the last race which delayed the start by trying to climb the fence just after coming out of the paddock. After he had jumped a five-foot fence he was led to the post. McGinty was a 4 to 5 favorite for the race, with Gaylord second choice. McGinty, after laying out of it until well into the stretch came on and won easily by two lengths, with Rosewood second and Bellringer third.

The summary follows:

Gov. Matthews Explains Himself.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 6.—[Special.]—Gov. Matthews today explained his interview with the agents of Roby who called on him last week. He said the men claimed to be furnishing employment to fifty men and that it would be a hardship to stop the racing. They then offered to tear down the old Roby arena and wipe it out of existence forever if he would allow them to go ahead.

"In reply," said the Governor, "I told them emphatically that their sport was brutal, as the most of the horses which they enter are old, broken-down hags and not fit to go on a respectable race track. I also told them that the track was patronized by the scum of Chicago and that provided the local minions of the law refused to eradicate the evil, the State would take a hand. As to a Monte Carlo at Roby," continued the Governor, "there is nothing in it. It is true that there may be a little gambling, but the report is a falsehood and started from the Chicago officials who are trying to create the impression that gambling has been so thoroughly eradicated in Chicago that the thugs have to come to Indiana to carry on their business. In other words, it is pretty evident that they are trying to disgrace Indiana in order to clear themselves."

JOCKEY ELLIOTT IS SET DOWN.

Suspended at Madison for Bad Riding on Gov. Brown.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 6.—The weather was clear and pleasant at Madison today, but the track was heavy. Sam B., at 10 to 1, won the first by one length from Frank Ellis, who was the same distance before Buckthorn. The 7 to 2 favorite, No Remarks, took the second race by one length from Montell, who defeated Gov. Brown by a nose for the place. Jockey Elliott, who rode Gov. Brown in this race, was suspended indefinitely for his suspicious riding. Little Fellow Jr. won the third in a gallop by five lengths. Arthur G. won the fourth race by one length. JOE MURPHY'S TIME TO LOSE.

Thornhill, with the Worst of the Start, Beats Corrigan's Horse.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., March 6.—[Special.]—Today's racing at Bay District was more than fair and on a track of pasty mud which made weight tell and yielded paths to the horses who could get them. Three favorites won in Pasha (Carrigan), 2 to 1; Norlee (Isom), 2½ to 1, and Georgetown (Carr), 13 to 10. The other winners were: George L. (Tuberville), 8 to 1, and Thornhill (C. Weber), 9 to 5.

Thornhill was backed from 4 to 1 and George L. from 10 to 1. The closest finish of the day was that between Thornhill and Joe Murphy in the third race at seven furlongs. Joe Murphy got away well and Thornhill poorly. Yet at the head of the stretch Murphy was nearly last and Thornhill in front. Murphy came home like a wild horse, but Thornhill, well held together, won with something to spare by a neck. Murphy's price rose from 3 to 5 to 9 to 5 and then went back under Ed Corrigan's light and Joe Ullman's heavy play.

Vanness & Hoffman's Pasha, backed from 3 to 2 to 1, landed the first race—five furlongs, selling—handily from Twang, poorly handled by Lloyd. Nick Hall's fast filly Norlee, backed from 4 to 2½ to 1, took the second race—five furlongs, selling—easily from North, a long shot, who beat Fred Parker, also backed from 4 to 2½ to 1, a neck on the post for the place.

After Midget had opened a gap of six lengths to the stretch turn in the fourth race—five furlongs, selling—Barney Schrieber's Georgetown came on and got her. Georgetown was the favorite and heavily backed. The last race, also at five furlongs, fell to George L., who, off well, took the lead at once and was never headed. He won handily. George L. was backed from 10 to 8 to 1. Sevelle ran a good race and easily beat Nutwood for the place. Braw Scot, the 8 to 5 favorite, was fifth and Dolly McCone, heavily backed by her stable, next to last. Monowai, also well played, ran like the sulking dog that he is. The summary:

First race, five furlongs—Pasha, 2 to 1, won; Twang, 3 to 1, second; Currency, 20 to 1, third. Time, 1:06¼. Vandalight, Ivy, Not Yet, Joe Hooker Jr., Cassim, Welcome, and Little Tough also ran.

Second race, five furlongs—Norlee, 3 to 1, won; North, 10 to 1, second; Fred Parker, 2 to 1, third. Time, 1:04. Patsy O'Neil, Normandie, and Dr. Ross also ran.

M'CAFFERTY'S GAME TOO HOT.

Volunteer II. and Watterson Frighten Off Large Fields.

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 6.—[Special.]—McCafferty's horses, Volunteer II. and Watterson, played havoc with the card today, the former scaring out all the others in the original third race, making it necessary to make up a new one. Seven of those entered in the second "ducked" for Watterson, leaving three to oppose him. The track suited the old fellow better than it did yesterday, as last night's rain made it soft. Under restraint throughout he won fighting for his head, almost pulling McCafferty out of the saddle the last eighth. Pomfret won the first race easily from John Irwin, this pair getting much the best of a straggling start. Pettingill's effort in the new race was even worse, Horace Leland, at 40 to 1, being two lengths in front when the flag fell, remaining there throughout, and winning in a drive from Progression, who with a decent start would have won. The finish in the handicap was a stirring one. Lombard won by a length, Wigwam, Wallace, and Red John following heads apart. Just as the flag fell Wigwam's boy pulled up, thus losing ten lengths. But for this piece of stupidity he would have won. Parquette led throughout in the closing race and won easily from Imp. Emperor Billet. Benny Falk today bet John O'Neill $200 against $40,000 on Tom Griffin's American Derby candidate, Lorena Mack, a recent purchase from Green Morris. Summaries:

First race, six furlongs, selling, purse $200—Pomfret, 111 (J. Hill), 13 to 10, won; John Irwin, 111 (R. Harris), 10 to 1, second; Rondeau, 92 (T. Burns), 4 to 1, third. Time, 1:31¼. Au Fait, 106 (Macklen), 8 to 1; Montevideo, 106 (J. Fisher), 8 to 1; Lank, 111 (Barger), 10 to 1; Laura Cup, 106 (O. Welsh), 15 to 1; Grover C., 111 (W. Williams), 30 to 1, also ran as named. Straggling start. Won easily by one and one-half lengths; two lengths between second and third.

Second race, five furlongs, selling, purse $200—Watterson, 117 pounds (McCafferty), 1 to 10, won; Mollie V., 103 (A. Clayton), 2 to 1, second; Ruby Payne, 112 (Julson), 6 to 1, third. Time, 1:14¼. Railey, 111 (Stewart), 30 to 1, also ran. Good start. Won under a stout pull by a scant length, one and one-half lengths between second and third.

Third race, five and one-half furlongs, selling, purse $250—Horace Leland, 102 pounds (Walsh), 40 to 1, won; Progression, 106 (J. Hill), 3 to 1, second; Satinet, 102 (J. Fisher), 6 to 1, third. Time, 1:21½. Carmen, 97 (Cassin), 10 to 1; Forest King, 105 (Clay), 30 to 1; Chriss, 104 (Stewart), 20 to 1; Katydid, 95 (Cole), 10 to 1; Rover, 111 (Barger), 30 to 1; Susie Nell, 102 (A. Clayton), 3 to 2; Bobby Burns, 95 (Macklen), 10 to 1, also ran as named. Straggling start. Won in a drive by one length. Half length between second and third.

Fourth race, six furlongs, handicap, purse $300—Lombard, 94 pounds (A. Clayton), 2 to 1, won; Wigwam, 91 (Walsh), 20 to 1, second; Wallace, 95 (Cassin), 7 to 1, third. Time, 1:29¾. Red John, 109 (Garner), 4 to 5; imp. Florry Meyers, 98 (Everett), 15 to 1, also ran. Good start. Won ridden out by one length; a head between second and third. Scratched—Roy Lochiel, 125; Wedgefield, 102.

Fifth race, five furlongs, selling, purse $200—Parquette, 90 pounds (Cassin), even, won; Emperor Billet, 107 (Garner), 10 to 1, second; Billy Duncan, 107 (J. Hill), 12 to 1, third. Time, 1:12¼. Tasso, 107 (Midgely), 3 to 1; Midget, 90 (A. Clayton), 7 to 1; Vanwart, 111 (J. Fisher), 10 to 1; Lady Lorraine, 98 (L. Jones), 100 to 1; Billow, 107 (Straus), 50 to 1, also ran as named. Fair start. Won easily by two lengths, ten lengths between second and third.

Will "Take In" the Westerners.

NEW YORK, March 6.—W. L. Kirkham and Judge L. P. Tarlton of the Western Turf Congress today held a conference with the new Jockey club representatives. The meeting was private, but afterwards the Secretary stated that "the Westerners were in accord with the new jockey club. There was no doubt as to some definite understanding as to consolidation. The Westerners would accept the same rules as governed the jockey club. In a few days the details will be arranged." The new jockey club will meet the Coney Island club Thursday.

The movement to get Williams is well under way, and the plan for raising the required funds has been perfected. Mr. Williams is expected here this week. There is in progress a movement among the churches to oppose the track, and the meeting today was the first.

THRALL WINS FROM ALLISON.

Progress of Games in the Inter-Club Tournament.

The fourth week of the inter-club 14-inch balk-line tournament opened Monday evening with two games, one at the Kenwood club and the other at the Chicago Athletic club.

The game at the Kenwood club, between Thrall and Allison, was an interesting one, Thrall winning after a closely contested game by a score of 200 to 174. The score:

MINNEAPOLIS POOL-ROOMS CLOSED.

The New City Ordinance to Be Tested in the Supreme Court.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., March 6.—A drumhead could not be tighter than the doors of the pool-rooms today. The police of this city are keeping a careful eye on front and back doors, but not a glimpse could be had of a pool-room habitue. The closing is the result of an ordinance that was passed at the last meeting of the Common Council declaring pool-selling illegal. The ordinance will be tested in the Supreme Court by the pool-room proprietors.

Running Meetings at Point Breeze.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., March 6.—[Special.]—There will be two running meetings at the Point Breeze track this year, one in June and one in September, and improvements to cost $25,000 will be made. A syndicate has leased the Point Breeze track from the Philadelphia Driving Park Association for one year, with the privilege of twelve, the Driving Park Association reserving two weeks for trotting meetings. The first meeting will begin June 5 and continue fifteen days. The second meeting, which will also be of fifteen days' duration, will begin the latter part of September.

Louisville Jockey Club Lease.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 6.—At a meeting of the stockholders of the Louisville Jockey club this afternoon a proposition from Mr. Churchill, the owner of Churchill Downs, to renew the lease for three years, with a privilege of three more, was accepted. The club's second ten years' lease of the downs expires June 1 next, and according to the terms of it the jockey club had the privilege of buying the property, which was fixed by arbitration at a valuation of $150,000. At present the club is not in condition to make the purchase. Col. Clark will continue to preside at Churchill Downs for the next six years.

HE WOULD FIGHT JACKSON IN LONDON

Corbett Talks of the Forthcoming Mill—Both Must Have Protection.

BALTIMORE, Md., March 6.—[Special.]—Champion Corbett, now playing in this city, said he did not think his fight with Jackson would take place in June, because no businesslike offer had yet been received from any club, "and," he continued, "none will be accepted until both of us are assured we will have thorough protection during the contest and afterwards. I desire no repetition of the Florida trouble. Another thing, I want three months to train and suppose that Jackson would want the same time. I am going to Europe in April. If a purse for a finish fight can be secured in London I will be perfectly willing to fight there. I must say positively that I will not meet Jackson in a limited round contest, as I don't propose to lose my prestige on a fluke, for if the championship is to be taken away from me I want it done right. I feel so sure of victory and am so anxious to meet Jackson that, if a $30,000 purse and proper protection could be secured now, I would surrender my trip abroad and all other business engagements to bring about the match with all possible haste."

YALE-HARVARD BASEBALL GAMES.

Dates Announced at New York—For the Princeton Series.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 6.—[Special.]—Capt. George Case of the Yale nine tonight gave out the result of the Yale-Harvard baseball conference at Springfield yesterday. Yale suggested a three-game series with Harvard. The proposition was accepted immediately and the following dates were agreed upon: June 21 in Cambridge, June 26 in New Haven, and probably June 20 on neutral grounds. The place was not selected and the decisive game will not be played in case either college wins both the preceding contests. The Princeton series was announced tonight. It consists of the same dates as last year, May 26 in New Haven, June 2 in Princeton, and June 9 in New York. The last named game will not come off in case either college wins both previous matches.

Ballplayers Ordered to Report.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 6.—[Special.]—President Drexler received the signed contract of Pitcher Kilroy this afternoon. The players have been ordered to report March 20 and a letter received from Manager Barnie this afternoon says he will be here next week. Pfeiffer left for Chicago tonight to act as pallbearer at Williamson's funeral.

Wheelmen Favor a Chicago Paper.

The Bearings Publishing company of Chicago has been awarded the contract for publishing the official organ of the League of American Wheelmen, as well as the contract for publishing Good Roads, the monthly issued by the L. A. W. in the interest of better highways. Nearly all of the cycling papers were after these plums, and there was a deal of rivalry at the National Assembly held at Louisville recently. The matter was finally referred to the Executive committee, which decided in favor of the Chicago paper.

Chicago Cricketers Meet.

The Chicago Cricket Association met at the Grand Pacific last night. Representatives were present from the following clubs: Albion, Wanderer, Pullman, and St. George. J. P. Jaffray of the Albion club was elected President of the association. No schedule for the season was adopted. In a general way the association agreed to play against the clubs in St. Paul, Detroit, St. Louis, and Canada. At the next monthly meeting the local schedule will be adopted.

Telegraphic Notes of Sport.

KNOX, Ind., March 6.—[Special.]—Joe Mishnie defeated Charles Salzer in the sixth round of a brutal prize-fight near here last night.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., March 6.—[Special.]—Dick Carroll, better known as "McCann," the starter at the Gloucester race-track, died today of consumption.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 6.—Joseph Quinn, the well-known second baseman, who captained the Browns last season, this morning, after a conference with President Von der Ahe, signed a St. Louis contract for 1894.

NEW YORK, March 6.—[Special.]—The reports circulated here today to the effect that racing would commence at Guttenberg March 19 were premature. President Walbaum denied all responsibility for such rumors.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 6.—[Special.]—The fair-grounds third mortgage bondholders will meet sooner than they expected. Instead of waiting until after the sale of the property, early in April, they will meet March 19 and pass upon the question of future legitimate racing in St. Louis.

DUBUQUE, Ia., March 6.—[Special.]—A fifteen-round glove contest came off last night between Johnny Kivlin of Davenport and Jimmie Glew of this city before an audience of 300 sports. Both men were considerably punished and the decision was in favor of the Davenport man.

DENVER, Colo., March 6.—The Denver Cyclist Union at a meeting last night decided that the meeting of the League of American Wheelmen in 1894 will be held Aug. 7 to Sept. 1 inclusive. Many of the crack wheelmen of the country have already notified the union that they will be in attendance.

TORONTO, Ont., March 6.—Edward Hanlan, the oarsman, has cabled to Sullivan and Harding, the British scullers, that he has no desire to row for $2,500, but that if they make the stake $25,000 he will allow each man $1,000 expenses to come to America, and guarantee not only a double scull race but also two single contests, each man to be accommodated. Gaudaur is in accord with what Hanlan says.

CLEVELAND, O., March 6.—[Special.—Manager Tebeau today received a telegram from Second Baseman Childs saying that Cupid had forwarded his contract for the coming season. The manager also signed Pitcher Charles Dewald, who pitched for Atlanta in the early part of last season and later went to Erie and by his work materially assisted that team to win the Eastern league pennant. Dewald is a Cleveland boy.

General Sporting Notes.

The Tammany Athletic club has postponed the Neal-O'Hearn go until March 16.

Robert H. Lampkin, the famous cock-fighter, died yesterday in a hospital at New Orleans. He was known in Chicago.

The management of the Griffo-Weir eight-round glove contest made definite arrangements yesterday for the bout to take place on St. Patrick's night, March 17, at Second Regiment Armory on the Lake-Front. Griffo will return at once to Chicago and will probably prepare for the affair at his old quarters at Riverside.

The Athletic committee of the Chicago Athletic Association has had under consideration the entries of Frank Murphy in the 105-pound class and Arthur W. Crane in the 145-pound class. After investigation it has decided to accept both these entries, as both men have signed certificates to the effect that they have never been benefited financially or otherwise by athletic sports. Also James Dewar was entered in the middle as well as welterweight class. There will be trial bouts in the middleweight class also Friday night. The total number of entries now is fifty-two.

DANGER JUST AHEAD.

A Prominent Professor Speaks About the Threatening Things Abroad at This Time of the Year.

"It is surprising how many people are suffering today from so-called coughs, colds, and influenza."

This remark was made by a very prominent professor, connected with one of the leading New York hospitals. Continuing, he said:

"It is not these things that are troubling people, but it is an advanced form of our old enemy, the grip. People feel out of sorts, sneeze, have pains in the muscles and bones, have no appetite, lose all interest in the world, and wonder what is the matter. It is the grip; nothing else.

"Now, all such symptoms need to have prompt treatment. The attack must be met and repelled at once or it is certain to run into something serious. I know of but one way to certainly avoid these troubles, which are now so common, and that is, to immediately counteract them by using a good, pure, strong stimulant. Nothing of the ordinary kind, but something pure and scientific. For this purpose nothing has ever equaled which is acknowledged today by physicians and scientific people to be the only pure, medicinal malt whiskey upon the market."

The words of the professor are true and they carry a wonderful meaning to many men and women who are suffering with the first symptoms of grip, or else grip in its advanced stages. For all such people we offer a word of advice: which is to take the best means to overcome these troubles and do not permit any dealer to swerve you from your purpose to have that which has proven itself by years of use to be the best and purest stimulant in the world.

CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

Has at Last Been Found.

Another remarkable testimonial has been received that

Radam's Microbe Killer

Has cured this dreadful malady after other treatments had failed, and the testimonial is from one of New York's most widely known and successful physicians. It is as follows:

Gentlemen—That the "germ theory" of disease is now accepted as beyond dispute by scientists the world over, goes without saying. In this connection I would like to call attention to a most happy experience I have had with your Microbe Killer, which I regard as the most potent of germ destroyers. Prof. Koch has demonstrated most positively that the malady known as CONSUMPTION is due to the presence of bacilli. These microbes most seriously and only too rapidly undermine the healthy lung tissue, and unless their deadly work be interfered with an all too rapidly fatal termination to life is the inevitable result.

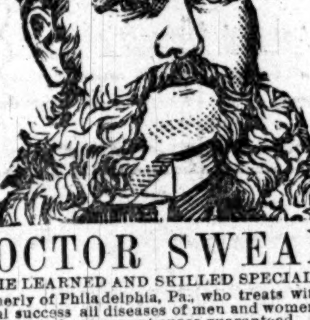

Some four years ago my step-daughter, Miss Charlotte Molyneux, then in her sixteenth year, first gave evidence of lung trouble. As there was a phthisical history on the father's side, we were naturally very much concerned, and made use of every means to arrest the inroads of the disease. The most eminent physicians were consulted. Their advice as to medicine, change of climate, and the strictest hygienic measures was most carefully followed, at first, I must confess, with some degree of success. It was conceded that she had incipient phthisis. The creosote treatment and others almost as popular were faithfully tried, and it had been finally decided that the most we could hope to accomplish would be to mitigate the most urgent symptoms and sustain the strength by a supporting plan of treatment. When we were in Europe, about two years ago, my attention was first called to the Microbe Killer. I had frequently heard it very favorably spoken of, but had not thought of employing it in the case under consideration, till a brother physician pointed out to me its value in just such cases as the one in which we were all so deeply interested. After reading the history of the medicine and the various data connected with it, I decided to employ it. My patient's condition at this time was as follows: Very greatly emaciated, hectic fever, temperature ranging from 99 to 102 degrees, pulse 90, night sweats, persistent distressing cough and little or no appetite. Had had no hemorrhage and could assimilate what nourishment was taken. The mildest form of the Microbe Killer in dessertspoonful doses in water was administered to begin with four times daily in alternation with sterilized milk. There was little if any change at the end of a fortnight, except that she was able to bear larger doses of the medicine. I increased the dose to one-half a wineglass full in water. At the end of the third week the night sweats began to diminish, together with the other symptoms due to fever. The cough was still persistent, though not agonizing. Her condition continued favorable, and I finally decided to employ the stronger form of the medicine. At first she did not bear it well, but with judicious care she was soon able to do so, and her improvement thereafter became very marked. This change for the better was not temporary, as many of our friends asserted, but continued steadily until she declared she felt better than she had ever remembered, and her appearance proved her statement. She was married in August last, and still continues taking the Microbe Killer, not because she needs any medicine, but to prevent any liability that there might be to another invasion of the lung tissue by these minute and deadly organisms. I have no hesitation after this crucial test in testifying that the Microbe Killer, as its name so significantly implies, is the most powerful and valuable therapeutic agent that has ever been discovered for the absolute destruction of the form of microbe known as bacillus, and I have no reason to doubt its ability to destroy any form of micro-organism. It affords me pleasure to add my testimony to that of others, for I believe it to be the duty of every painstaking and progressive physician to relate his experience with any new remedy, for in this manner alone can its real value become known.

Very truly yours,
C. C. PERRY, M. D.,
149 West Sixteenth-st.,
Feb. 19, '94. New York.

We have the unsolicited testimonials of a large number of others that they have also been cured of consumption by the wonderful remedy. If your lungs are in any way affected don't delay using the Microbe Killer. It cures, and is the only remedy that does cure. Other diseases microbic in origin yield to this treatment as sure as it is taken. Full information at
